U. S. Bomber Falls in Storm; 5 Die

SHIP WRECKED IN A CALIFORNIA MOUNTAIN PASS

Crew of 7 Aboard; Hunt 2 Bodies.

March Field, Cal., Oct. 12 (AP).—Five and possibly seven men were killed in the crash of a Douglas B-23 army bomber during a rainstorm in San Gorgonio pass of the San Bernardino mountains near Beaumont late today.

The ship, attached to the 9th pursuit wing at March field, was returning from a flight to Albuquerque, N. M.

It crashed in a field and either blew up or was shattered to bits by the impact, army officers said. Seven men were listed aboard the craft, but only five bodies were recovered immediately. Officials at Albuquerque said seven were aboard when the ship took off there.

Three Officers Identified.

The identified dead:

Staff Sergt. B. T. Bell.
Staff Sergt. R. J. Thomas.
Staff Sergt. R. J. Farlow.
Corp. J. E. Smith.

Marine Sergeant Killed.

Portal, Ariz., Oct. 12 (AP).—Lieut. Ira Bellinger, CCC commandant, reported tonight that Flight Sergt. E. J. McMahon of the United States marine corps was burned to death when his plane crashed about dusk high in the Chiricahua mountains. The ship's passenger, Oscar Rohr, 26 years old, of La Mesa, Cal., a navy man, escaped with a broken nose. Rohr was found by CCC enrollees in an exhausted condition about two miles from the crash scene. He said he leaped from the craft as it struck a crag. Before he could return to check McMahon's condition the ship burst into flames. Rohr said they were en route from New York to San Diego, Cal.

Planes Collide; 2 Killed.

Elizabethtown, Pa., Oct. 12 (AP).—Two privately owned airplanes collided in the air above the Elizabethtown airport tonight and one crashed, killing two occupants, while the other landed safely.

Claude Judy Jr., and Jane Stoner, riding with him, were killed. Both were residents of Middletown. Judy was an apprentice in the shops of the United States army airport at Middletown and a student pilot.

Bert A. Tripp of Elizabethtown, pilot of the second plane, said he was flying about 200 feet above the airport preparatory to landing when he saw Judy's plane veering close in a sharp left bank. Tripp said he swerved to the right and the wing-tip of the other plane struck his cabin window. Judy's plane then crashed.

AMERICAN WORKERS ASK MARINE GUARD AT NO. IRELAND BASE

LONDON, Oct. 13 [Monday] (AP).—Americans at a northern Ireland base where "thousands of American technicians and workmen" are now engaged have asked for the protection of the American marines, the Daily Mail reported today. The Mail said the Americans felt that a "large area virtually is under American control and a protection force is required."

No Appeal Received by Navy.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12 [Special].—The navy department tonight said no appeal had been received for protection of Americans at the northern Ireland base. The department refused to discuss what action would be taken if such appeal should be received. One naval official said it was assumed that British would be able to protect fully the development of the northern Ireland base that is being carried out by American technicians and American labor.

Miley Killings Are Admitted by Ex-Felon

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 12 [Special].—The murder of Miss Marion Miley, nationally prominent golf champion, and her mother, Mrs. Elsa Miley, in the clubhouse of the Lexington [Ky.] Country club was solved tonight with the confession of a scar-faced ex-convict and the capture of his alleged accomplice.

Thomas Penney [top] and Robert Anderson. [A.P. Wirephotos.]

The ex-convict, Thomas Penney, 32 years old, of Lexington, was captured here Wednesday. He confessed tonight and named Robert Anderson, 36, also an ex-convict, who operates the Cat and the Fiddle night club in Louisville, Ky., as his companion in the slayings. Penney said robbery was the motive for the slayings.

Serves Time in Two Prisons.

Anderson, arrested a few hours later in Louisville, denied the charges and said he had been working in his night club at the time of the slayings. Maj. James Malone of the Louisville police said Anderson admitted becoming acquainted with Penney while both were serving prison sentences in the state reformatory in Frankfort, Ky. Anderson also served time in the federal penitentiary in Atlanta on a prohibition charge.

Records in Louisville showed that Anderson, sentenced to five years in June, 1934, on a charge of storehouse breaking, was granted a conditional pardon in May, 1935. Details of Penney's prison record were not immediately available.

Granted Pardon in 1935.

Miss Miley, who was 27, and her mother, who was 52, were shot the morning of Sept. 28 by two gunmen who invaded their apartment in the clubhouse. They ordered Mrs. Miley, who was manager of the club, to surrender the receipts of a Saturday night dance at the club. Then they knocked her down and shot her. Miss Miley, a golf instructor at the club,

SIX DIE IN DYNAMITE BLAST AT U. S. NAVAL AIR BASE IN ALASKA

SITKA, Alaska, Oct. 12 (AP).—An explosion in an underground magazine containing 43,000 pounds of dynamite on a small island near the Sitka naval air station shortly after noon today killed at least six service men, injured a number of persons in the nearby fishing village, and damaged defense works and private homes.

Arrow locates scene of explosion.

Unofficial sources said the explosion was caused by a grass fire on the island and that the men killed were on a fire truck approaching the magazine when the blast occurred.

The blast which reverberated across Baranof Island sent windows cascading the streets of Sitka in showers of broken glass, inflicting cuts on many women and children walking out of a church and along the narrow streets.

Many of the homes built recently for officers as part of the $5,000,000 improvements on the air station were among the structures damaged.

Blaze Sweeps Rubber Plant; Loss 13 Million

Fall River, Mass., Oct. 12 (AP).—Flames fed by thousands of tons of stored crude rubber swept the Firestone Rubber company plant today, destroying five buildings and damaging three others.

An official estimate of the damage was unavailable, but the Fall River Herald-News, which issued an extra edition on the fire, estimated the loss at 13 million dollars.

The plant, which employed 2,600 workmen, has been busy day and night on orders for gas masks, rubber cartridge belts for machine guns, and other rubber products for the army, navy, and air forces. Approximately 1,000 men were in the building when the fire started. No lives were lost, but 11 firemen suffered burns and bruises.

Starts in Curing Oven.

The blaze started on the third floor of one of the manufacturing buildings, where seven workmen were tending curing ovens, 20 by 40 feet in size, in which rubber automobile cushions were being heat treated.

Workmen said one of the ovens flared—a not unusual occurrence—but that they were unable to control the blaze. It spread to other ovens on the floor, quickly filling the building with smoke.

The workmen said that as they ran for safety, the walls and floors began to burn, and by the time they had fled down one flight of steps the flames had reached the upper story.

Battle Blaze All Night.

Huge clouds of smoke rolled thousands of feet into the air, spreading a pall over most of this manufacturing city and the surrounding countryside, as firemen from cities and towns within a radius of 35 miles fought the blaze. It was under control soon after daybreak after an all night fight.

A shift in the wind, which came with the rising sun, aided firemen in halting spread of the flames after it already had jumped across one street and destroyed an office building.

Sparks set a number of small fires in roofs of nearby tenement houses, but these were extinguished with no appreciable loss. At the heighth of the fire engineers drove a locomotive into the mill yard and pulled to safety freight cars as quickly as they were loaded with rubber products.

2 SPEARHEADS MAKE ADVANCE ON RED CAPITAL

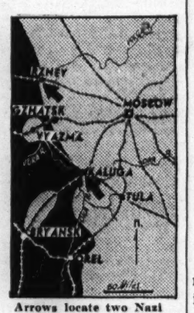
BERLIN, Oct. 13 [Monday] (AP).—Two spearheads of the German offensive against Moscow were reported today to have driven to within about 100 miles of the Russian capital.



Arrows locate two Nazi drives nearest Moscow.

German dispatches said the column striking at Moscow from the west had reached a point just west of Gzhatsk, which is about 98 miles from Moscow and 27 miles past Vyazma.

The column driving from the southwest was said to have encircled Bryansk and gone on 110 miles to Kaluga, which is about 100 miles from the capital.

Flows Around Two Towns.

The high command yesterday announced that the offensive had flowed past and around Bryansk and Vyazma and German reports of the triumphs said a new phase of the giant offensive that started on Oct. 2 had been opened on a 750 mile front stretching from the Valdai hills to the Sea of Azov.

Maps published in the Berlin morning press showed the line in the new offensive as extending from the southeast corner of Lake Ilmen to the upper reaches of the Volga river and thence to just west of Rzhev, 140 miles northwest of Moscow and focus of the northwestern column.

From the Rzhev area the line drops to a point just west of Gzhatsk and from there to Kaluga. From Kaluga the line bends down to include Orel, 200 miles south of Moscow. Tula, immediate objective of the column driving up from the south, is pictured as still well within Russian lines. [Earlier unconfirmed Berlin reports had put Tula in German hands.]

Two Large Pockets Shown.

From the Orel area the line bends in an arc to a point just east of Sumy, 150 miles southwest of Orel, and from Sumy to the Zaporozhe area on the lower Dnieper river and thence to Mariupol on the Sea of Azov.

Back of the German lines are two large pockets where Russian troops are encircled. One is the Vyazma area lying in a circle whose diameter is given as 62 miles. The Bryansk pocket is pictured as peanut-shaped, its north-south length being 87 miles and its east-west width 31 miles.

[The Russians today for the first time admitted they had withdrawn from Bryansk and that the German drive on Moscow from the southwest was making progress. The Reds, however, said their forces were counter-attacking in the Vyazma sector and had recaptured one town. Story on page 6.]

A Progressive Advance.

The "new phase" apparently was a transition from the fiery battles of annihilation about encircled Russian armies in the Vyazma and Bryansk areas to a progressive advancing movement.

The Germans admitted that some of the bloodiest fighting of the entire campaign still was taking place where Russian die-hard forces were surrounded, and did not claim that they had been wiped out yet.

Constant pressure was said to be cutting down the pockets and eliminating some entirely as units comprising part of the backbone of the Red army were annihilated or forced to surrender. Already 200,000 prisoners have been taken in these areas, the high command said.

So far as the right flank of the new advance was concerned, however, the Germans regarded themselves free, for they already had announced the liquidation of the surrounded forces north of the Sea of Azov with the capture of 106,000 prisoners.

In this new advance the German air force was reported playing its usual deadly rôle. The air force spoke of "rolling attacks"—successive waves of planes bombing and shooting, each wave carrying the attack forward a little farther.

Blood of U. S. Must Be Shed: London Paper

Wake Up, Yankees Told

LONDON, Oct. 13 [Monday] (AP).—The London Daily Sketch said editorially today that the "idea this titanic struggle can be won without any shedding of American blood may be dismissed by every American as insane."

Under a heading "Wake Up," the paper said:

"At the risk of appearing ungrateful we must tell Americans our view that one declaration of total war at this juncture by America against Germany would accomplish more for victory than the delivery of 3,000 American tanks every month to Russia and ourselves can possibly hope to do. . . . The sooner Americans are in with Russians and ourselves, mingling their blood, sweat and tears in the common drain, the sooner the war will be won."

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 13 [Monday].—The note of complaint regarding America is becoming more and more widespread in Great Britain now that a Russian defeat looms as a possibility.

James Tevanen, writing in the Empire News, said:

"That was a fine message F. D. R. sent to Stalin, 'Your armies will prevail.' I have an idea the message would have been more to Stalin's liking if the American President had said, 'Our armies.'"

The war won't be won, J. R. Garvin said in the Sunday Observer, "Until the American people as well as the British people awake from all lingering dreams of war on limited liability."

[Lord Beaverbrook in a broadcast asked United States and Britain to build 30,000 tanks and told of pledges of full aid to Russia. Story on page 8.]

Wants Churchill to Explain.

The Daily Mail in an editorial said: "Prime Minister Churchill would be well advised to give the country early this week the fullest possible account of what has been done by us in Russia, and about Russia, and, even more important, of what could not be done and why."

Warning that the press and public alike should withhold judgment until Churchill has been heard, the Daily Mail added:

"Meanwhile, let us not fall again into that other ancient error—of tuning to America to pull us out of our troubles."

The Daily Mail suggested that it is beginning to dawn on the American people that their danger is only less immediate than Britain's, altho it will take time for the leaven of that idea to complete its work.

Must Face the Difficulty.

"Britain cannot wait for that," the article said. "We must face here and now the fact that shortly we may be called upon for an effort compared with which our post-Dunkirk spurt was child's play."

The article concluded that while any contributions which America may offer will be gratefully received, Britain must rely on herself alone.

The Sunday Chronicle in a "specially contributed" article advanced the idea of a British-American pact to guarantee Russia's far eastern frontier against Japanese attack and thus release soviet forces in the far east for the fight on the western front.

It was estimated that such a move would free 450,000 well trained troops, and the bulk of 9,000 tanks, 3,000 armored cars, and 8,000 planes.

"Up to Us and America."

L. S. Amery, secretary of state for India, in a speech yesterday, said:

"We must take every risk to help Russia. . . , It is up to us and America to find ways and means to overcome all obstacles to give while there yet is time the relief Russia so sorely needs."

The press and public criticism of Britons responsible for the conduct of the war continues.

The Sunday Pictorial in a front page streamer said: "Churchill must decide; Moscow is in Peril," pointing out the danger to Britain if the last British ally on the continent is beaten. H. G. Wells writing in the Sunday Dispatch said, "Now let's start fighting."

The Sunday Times said "to call the situation in Russia grave is an understatement."

Maj. Gen. J. F. C. Fuller, retired, who is described as Britain's foremost tank expert, declared, "If the Russians fight as they should, we can pour arms and men thru Persia [Iran] for a decisive battle north of the Caucasus."

A naval expert advocated "a death blow at the heart of Italy."

IF NATION ARMS SHIPS WAR WILL FOLLOW: BROOKS

Warns Plan Insures 'Bloody Incident.'

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—Sen. Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.] tonight depicted President Roosevelt's plan to arm American merchant ships as one designed to produce the "bloody incident" that will goad the American people to a war of vengeance on Germany.

He uttered the charge in the course of a debate in Theodore Granik's the American Forum of the Air on the President's proposed emasculation of the neutrality act which was broadcast by the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Rep. Karl E. Mundt [R., S. D.], who was teamed with Sen. Brooks in opposition to the Roosevelt program, created a stir when he read a letter from Adm. Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, in response to an inquiry as to the number of German submarines, aircraft or surface ships that were destroyed during the first World war by the American merchantmen armed by order of President Wilson.

35 American Ships Sunk.

"No armed guard vessel was officially credited with fatally damaging an enemy vessel," wrote Adm. Stark. The admiral furnished figures showing that 35 armed American merchantmen were sunk by German war craft with the loss of 58 American lives.

The South Dakota congressman also quoted President Roosevelt's 1940 speech attributing to the neutrality act the immunity of the United States from involvement in the war.

"Abraham Lincoln said it's a mighty dumb man who didn't have more sense today than he did yesterday," retorted Sen. Lister Hill [D., Ala.], who with Rep. Albert Gore [D., Tenn.] was defending the Roosevelt program.

"President Roosevelt has changed his mind because the situation has changed since a year ago."

"Waiting for Our Army."

"The situation surely has changed," snorted Sen. Brooks, "when Russia with millions of soldiers, thousands of planes and tanks is engaging the whole German army while England with her great navy and army and production at top notch is unable to get across the 22 mile English channel and is waiting for our army to come 3,000 miles to do the job."

Rep. Gore lauded the President for ordering the navy to shoot German war craft on sight.

"I agree with that," Brooks shot back, "but only in our defensive waters, and our defensive waters are not in the war zone."

The debate was the unofficial opening of the battle over the President's proposals to amend the neutrality act to permit the arming of American merchant ships and to permit them to carry arms cargoes to the ports of belligerents.

Secret Hearing Today.

The official consideration of the Roosevelt program will begin tomorrow in a secret session of the house foreign affairs committee when Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, and other administration officials will argue for the repeal of these major provisions of the neutrality act.

The formal arguments of the administration officials will be made public, but their cross-examination by members of the committee will be suppressed. Republican members of the committee met today and issued a statement denouncing this procedure in the form of a letter addressed to the committee chairman, Sol Bloom [D., N. Y.].

Protest Gag Rule.

"The unprecedented gag rule railroaded thru the foreign affairs committee Friday evening," the letter said, "included three drastic limitations on fair and intelligent consideration of this bill—a limitation of time, a limitation of free discussion and a limitation on public questioning of public officials, thus censoring freedom of speech and freedom of the press.

"This triple threat to free speech, free press, and free discussion in the name of freedom of the seas has worked perfectly to accomplish your objectives. We are unable to propose any method of giving a fair hearing under these limitations to all those who should be heard.

"We therefore leave with you and was slain when she ran to help her mother. The killers fled with $130. Mrs. Miley died three days later.

Penney's statement, made to Sheriff Ernest Thompson of Lexington and Fort Worth police, said:

"Anderson and I got into the clubhouse. We were after the dance receipts. On the second floor we switched off the lights. We listened and heard some one snoring, but the door was locked.

Describes Golfer's Death.

"We went downstairs, got an iron bar, returned upstairs and smashed a panel of the door. Mrs. Miley woke up and fought with us and we fired a number of shots at her. She fell wounded. We demanded the dance receipts and she told us where they were.

"Then her daughter came running in and hit me a wallop that knocked me halfway across the room. I slapped at her with my revolver and it discharged, hitting her. We took the money and got away."

Penney said he and Anderson drove away from the clubhouse in Anderson's car—a blue and gray 1941 model—and divided the money.

"I got something over $60," Penney's confession continued. "At Shelbyville, Ky., Anderson took the wheel and we drove by the Ohio river. There, at a place where the road was nearest the river, I took the two guns, put them in a cloth bag, and threw them toward the river. Anderson drove me home and about two days later he told me to take the car and do away with it, because it was too hot."

Tells of Travels in Car.

Penney said he drove to Jacksonville, Fla., thru Georgia, and then to Fort Worth.

It was the car which provided the first clew to the slayings and brought about Penney's arrest. Soon after the killings Homer Cramer, 18, of Lexington, told police he had seen a blue and gray sedan near the clubhouse at the time of the murders. Two days later Anderson's wife reported the car had been stolen.

Then Wednesday Detectives Theron Brooks and Edward Smith of the Fort Worth police, searching for suspects in a $6,000 store robbery in Fort Worth, seized Penney in the car because, they said later, they "thought it was too expensive for him." With him were Leo Gaddis of Lexington and a boxer and a girl.

The four cleared themselves as to the store holdup, but police traced the car to Anderson thru the F. B. I.

Sheriff Thompson arrived here yesterday and helped question Penney and the other prisoners. All except Penney were freed of suspicion in in the slayings, and Penney after lengthy questioning, finally confessed.

Two Lexington youths were credited by Sheriff Thompson with an important part in breaking the case. Identifying them as Bud Tomlinson, 28, and Tommy Lunsford, 28, the sheriff quoted Tomlinson as saying that Penny approached him a week before the robbery and suggested he and Lunsford take part in the robbery. Both refused, Thompson said Tomlinson told him.

Miss Miley had been a golfing star for nearly 10 years. She was a former champion of the Women's Western Open, Derby, and the trans-Mississippi tournament. Her last appearance in a major tournament was in the Western Open at Exmoor, Chicago.

144,000 LOSE JOBS IN BRITISH PLAN TO CONCENTRATE WORK

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Since the start of the government's plan for concentration of industries about 144,000 workers, or one-fifth of the number involved, have been released for other employment, according to figures given out today. In addition, factory space totaling about 45,000,000 square feet also has been given up. The scheme is designed to provide for the economical manufacture of a restricted volume of civilian goods.

Not all industries have contributed equally to the totals. Cotton mills account for the major portion. Other industries which have released or are to release space and labor include hosiery, boots, shoes, carpets, linoleum, pottery, rayon, tiles, sheet steel, and leather goods. Each of these has made or is making arrangements to release more than 1,000,000 square feet of space or more than 1,500 workers.

In virtually all industries covered by the "limitation supplies" orders the process of concentration has been completed, altho more may be required if further restrictions in output are imposed.

2 GREAT LAKES PRISONERS SEIZE GUNS AND FLEE

A marine and a sailor, in custody in the brig at the Great Lakes Naval Training station, slugged their marine guard early yesterday, gagged him, and then escaped with two service pistols. They were being sought by police in Chicago and other nearby cities last night.

The fugitives were identified by Lieut. Comm. William Turek as Albert La Fleur, 19 years old, a marine, and Arnold Harrington, 21, a sailor. Their home addresses were not learned. They were awaiting court martial on charges of bad conduct, according to naval officials.

Shortly before dawn yesterday the prisoners slugged Marine Ralph A. Clegg, who was on guard, with a heavy bar of sea soap, packed inside a sock. Then they gagged him, took his gun and another gun and fled.

END 3 STRIKES; PLAN TO PICKET BIG STEEL PLANT

The Steel Workers' Organizing committee [CIO] ended its undeclared strikes yesterday at the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation's tin and sheet metal plants in Gary and South works in South Chicago.

But union officials, who are conducting a drive for a closed shop, indicated that the peace was ordered so that they could concentrate on picketing at the corporation's huge Gary steel works. Picketing at the Gary works is to begin Wednesday.

Frank Grider, SWOC subdirector, told the plans to 6,500 members of the union at a Gary mass meeting. He said the union needs every available picket at the Gary works. This plant of the Carnegie-Illinois corporation, a subsidiary of United States Steel, is the largest steel plant in the world. It employs 22,000 workers. This plant was forced to suspend operations by a wildcat strike earlier this month.

ALASKA COLONIST AWAITS EVICTION VERDICT TODAY

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Oct. 12 (AP).—Federal Judge Simon Hellenthal took under advisement yesterday the ouster proceedings brought by the Alaska Rural Rehabilitation corporation against Carl Rasmussen, Matanuska colonist accused of failure to repay the government for aiding in establishing him on an Alaskan homesite.

The corporation charged Rasmussen with failure to pay or make arrangements to pay any part of $3,400 indebtedness. Rasmussen replied that the contract under which the sum was claimed was signed under duress.

Detailing this assertion, he told the court he came to the Matanuska colony and worked many months on an uncleared tract of land before the ARRC presented the contract for his signature. He said he either had to sign the contract or lose his investment of time and money.

ARRC witnesses testified that Rasmussen was credited for all work done and had his debt reduced from $10,000 to $3,400 without paying anything in cash.

Judge Hellenthal indicated he would announce his decision tomorrow. The case is the first of several eviction actions brought by the government controled ARRC against colonists on the Matanuska project.

BISHOP EXPLAINS HOW TO STIR UP FRENZY FOR WAR

[Special to New York News.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—The Rt. Rev. Henry Wise Hobson, Protestant Episcopal bishop of Southern Ohio and chairman of Fight for Freedom, Inc., came to the capital last week to give his disciples a few pointers on how to stimulate a war psychology in America. He spoke at a private session of the belligerent organization.

Delegates today are returning to their home states impressed by this note in the bishop's message: "Don't appeal to the intellect, appeal to the emotions."

The bishop, a lusty cleric of 51 [Yale '14], made it clear that the most effective way of making his fellow citizens "fighting mad" is to tell them Hitler is "insulting the wives, sisters, and mothers of America."

Ready for Campaign.

The bishop came equipped with pictures and text to illustrate his theme. To a group of 60 delegates, Bishop Hobson announced that "we have hired an ace advertising man" to put the "emotionally mad" theme on paper and proclaimed that a national advertising campaign will start next week. He urged his listeners to return to their homes and raise money to place the ads in their local papers.

As a practical business man, the Cincinnati cleric suggested that women's clubs would be the softest touch for funds to exploit the "save American womanhood from Nazi insults" theme, labor organizations for the display of pictures featuring the disagreeable looking individual in German uniform about to curl his whip over the bodies of male and female workers.

The prelate reiterated his argument that the task of the war group is to "make America feel, not think," and then explained his "punch lines" and how they are to be put across to stimulate war fever in a disappointingly peaceful land.

Slander of U. S. Women.

The bishop displayed with some pride a full page ad with the arresting slogan: "American women are no good!" over the picture of a good looking American girl. The bishop ascribed the slander to Hitler, and quoted from the Schwartze Korps, German army newspaper: "The American woman doesn't by any means object to a violent flirtation and she goes at it in a business-like manner—we do not envy you your do nothing girls with well formed bodies of overnormal temperature."

Quoted the bishop from his own writings: "This hysterical Nazi fuehrer is talking about your wife, your best friend's sister, your neighbor's mother."

Here he interpolated for his audience: "You've got to get inside their hearts to make them fight. This appeal, you see, isn't directed at anybody's intellect."

A Way to Make Men Mad.

Then he resumed the reading of his own propaganda appeal:

"Schickelgriber, alias Hitler, has called Americans 'soft' and 'yellow'. . . . There are 40 million men in this country who get mighty mad when you insult the wives . . . sisters . . . and mothers of America. And the fires of their anger are starting to lick at the grass of Kansas. . . . Beginning to glow about the towers of Manhattan."

The bishop indicated that he liked the emotional appeal of the picture of a Nazi in uniform whipping the workers under the Hitler quote: "Labor unions are ridiculous."

The audience was told that labor unions should be willing to buy advertising space for this ad, particularly in view of the bishop's smash line: "There sits in Berchtesgaden an anemic pipsqueak who's going to change all that labor stands for!—or, is he?"

For the church groups, the bishop quoted the German fuehrer as saying: "Repeat after me, Yank: Adolf Hitler, hallowed be thy name." This carries the bishop's punch line: "Holy cats—look who's holy!"

Five Chapels, One Finished, Dedicated at Chanute Field

Rantoul, Ill., Oct. 12 [Special].—Five chapels at Chanute field, home of the air corps technical school, were dedicated today. The ceremonies were held on the steps of Chapel No. 1, the only one completed. The four others are expected to be ready during the next month. Capt. S. T. B. Johnson, construction engineer, made the presentation and turned the keys over to Col. R. E. O'Neill, field commandant.

SAYS JAPS MASS 32 DIVISIONS FOR DRIVE ON SIBERIA

CHANGSHA, Hunan Province, China, Oct. 11 (AP).—[Delayed.]—Gen. Hsueh Yueh, commander of China's sixth war zone, declared today that the Japanese are concentrating 32 divisions in Manchukuo to attack Siberia.

Three Japanese divisions now participating in the drive on Changsha soon are to be transferred to Siberia, the general told foreign correspondents here.

Meanwhile the Chinese-Japanese war, he said, has entered a "new, momentous phase" in which China will push a general counteroffensive.

Hsueh said 41,250 Japanese dead had been buried in the Changsha drive between Sept. 6 and Oct. 10. This number, he said, represents about one-fourth of the total Japanese forces engaged in the campaign.

THURMAN ARNOLD IS UNDER FIRE AT AFL CONVENTION

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 12.—A "thorogoing analysis" of union racketeering and an attack on Thurman Arnold, special attorney general in charge of anti-trust investigations, are among the matters which the powerful resolutions committee of the American Federation of Labor will bring to the convention floor tomorrow and Tuesday, it was learned today.

The AFL's ire against Special Attorney General Arnold is based on the contention that he is wrongfully charging unions with monopolistic conspiracy when they cooperate to improve the lot of their members.

The resolutions committee report is predicted to be "the strongest assault the AFL ever made on Arnold" and may include a demand for his dismissal from the attorney general's office.

The committee is also expected to recommend support of President Roosevelt's program of aid to Russia, but with the reservation that communism is the enemy of labor and cannot be tolerated in this country.

IF NATION ARMS SHIPS WAR WILL FOLLOW--BROOKS

Senator Says Plan Means 'Bloody Incident.'

those 'who planned it that way' the responsibility of selecting what witnesses should be invited and heard, the order of their appearance, and the length of time accorded each witness."

The statement was signed by Representatives Robert B. Chiperfield [Ill.], John M. Vorys [O.], Mundt, and B. J. Jonkman [Mich.].

Others Refuse to Attend.

For similar reasons two other Republican committee members—Hamilton Fish [N. Y.] and George H. Tinkham [Mass.] announced yesterday they would not attend the hearings.

Sen. Brooks, who emerged from the first World war wounded in action and decorated for his prowess, was in a fighting mood when he unlimbered in the radio debate.

"Every one knows," said the senator, "that to get our people into a hysterical war attitude we must have two things—a religious crusading spirit and a bloody incident. Most nations send a chaplain with their troops to tell them God is on their side.

"To establish a religious motive we are told that Russia had the same religious freedom that we do. I do not believe that, and the American people do not believe it.

Points to Peril for Seamen.

"Now we are asked to arm our merchant ships which will inevitably lead us to a bloody incident. It is evident to me that merchant ships themselves cannot carry adequate guns to withstand an attack in the war zone by ships of superior strength. Therefore, in the light of history, some of our seamen will be sent to their death without adequate protection.

"After the last war we erected a monument to the unknown soldier to honor those who sacrificed their lives in the name of our country. I propose now that if we arm these ships and send them into belligerent zones that we first build another monument and dedicate it to the unknown seamen who will lay down their lives, inadequately defended, to create the incident by which we enter the war.

"For, certainly, if we send the American flag and the American seamen on errands for our government into a shooting war zone, there to be sunk, and there to die, the nation would be a cowardly nation indeed that would not avenge their deaths.

Assails New Deal Tactics.

Sen. Brooks assailed the crafty tactics of the administration to get rid of the neutrality law bit by bit. Repeal of the prohibition to arm merchant ships is now sought and the only reason the President's other recommendation, repeal of the war zones provision, is not pressed at this time, he said, is "the feeling that the American people have not been softened enough to take that final fighting, shooting step."

"I am convinced," he went on, "that the time has come when we should stop taking belligerent steps that will inevitably lead, under high sounding phrases, to participation in the war, and let the people decide thru a vote of their congress, whether they are ready to declare war.

"After each successive step our leaders constantly utter more belligerent statements and perform more belligerent acts. I am opposed to fighting an undeclared war, and if we are going to war it should only be after the congress has declared it."

"Vital Step" Toward War.

The arming of merchant ships the senator pronounced a "vital step" toward war, which should not be taken until congress has declared war.

"The President has the right already, under the lend-lease bill," he said, "to give destroyers, ships, guns, or submarines to Great Britain or to Russia, to be manned by their men; to deliver the goods that come from the sacrifice of the American people to aid them in defending their shore and their home in their war.

"This can be done without involving us in a shooting participation in the war and without the sacrifice of American lives. I am not afraid of the sacrifice of American lives, including my own, when the people of America, thru their congress, see fit to declare war against any one or a number of nations of the earth.

"But I am opposed to this step by step method under high sounding phrases and subterfuge, of sending humble men to their death, inadequately defended, while the sons of the mighty parade in safety.

This reference to the bombproof service jobs of the sons of the President and other administration officials was not lost upon the audience.

Sen. Brooks said he was stating these views at the risk of being called an isolationist and an appeaser.

"I accept that risk," he continued, "and I want to make my position clear. I am opposed to having our country, either by leaps or by short steps, becoming a shooting participant in Europe's war, and I will vote 'no' on sending our sons to fight and die in Europe.

Sticks to His Views.

"This is not a new conviction with me. It came thru service and sacrifice on the part of myself and my entire family in the last European war. I have expressed my views on this subject for 25 years. I did not express them for the purpose of being elected to the senate, but I certainly came to the United States senate to express those views, and I am grateful for the privilege of expressing them.

"I am not an isolationist. I opposed the passage of the lend-lease bill. I thought it was wrong to allow any one man in his sole discretion, or thru his personally appointed agents, not confirmed by the people's congress, to distribute the resources of our country to the various nations of the earth engaged in armed conflict.

"I believed it to be a departure from the fundamental American principle of government. I still think it was wrong. I voted against it, but when the congress, by a majority vote, passed it, I accepted it as our national policy, and I voted for the 7 billion dollar appropriation to carry out its purpose.

Still Opposes War.

"To vote to lease or to give 7 billion dollars of America's material to other countries is not the act of an isolationist. But I am still opposed to becoming a shooting participant in their war."

Sen. Brooks said that he is "devoted and dedicated to the building of a great national defense."

"I have voted," he added, "for every appropriation and many grants of authority to make this possible, and I think it is time that the administration grant authority to capable and competent men to speedily produce arms and the implements of defense."

Gore Defends Program.

Picturing an eventual world of law and order under the rule of America and Britain, Rep. Gore argued for the complete repeal of the neutrality act.

"This nation," he said, "should be in a position to act swiftly and effectively in the interest of our own defense wherever and whenever necessary. The repeal of the neutrality act would not be an unneutral act. It is the business of no other nation how we enact, amend, or repeal our own domestic laws.

"By repealing the neutrality act we would be simply reasserting our right to the freedom of the seas which we, upon our own volition, temporarily waived. It would no more be a declaration of war than the repeal of the embargo or the enactment of the lend-lease act."

Sen. Hill contended that the decision of peace or war rests with Adolf Hitler rather than this country and that the "paths of courage are the paths of safety."

"Our security and our freedom, our ships and our sailors should not be sacrificed to any futile fetish of neutrality," Hill asserted. "There is no real neutrality. It is a dream that has passed—a hope that has perished."

UNDECLARED WAR NEW DEAL GOAL, SENATORS INSIST

Two Midwest Legislators Hit Ship Arming.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12 (AP).—Two members of the senate foreign relations committee—Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.] and Robert M. La Follette [Prog., Wis.]—charged today that the administration was preparing the way for American entry into undeclared warfare by seeking revision of the neutrality act.

With leaders arranging for a vote in the house this week on legislation to authorize the arming of United States merchant ships, Gillette told reporters he regarded this as a prelude to a "war effort."

Says Act Bars War Effort.

"The request for modification and revision of the neutrality act is not being made because the act is ineffective," he declared. "It is being made because the act prevents a war effort.

"If we are to have such an effort—and we evidently are headed that way—it would be better for the administration to bring in a declaration of war and not delude the American people further."

La Follette characterized President Roosevelt's request that congress authorize the arming of ships and give early attention to legislation permitting those vessels to enter belligerent ports as "an indirect and devious step calculated to short-cut the power of congress to decide whether we shall enter the war."

Scan Lend-Lease Bill.

Meanwhile a senate appropriations subcommittee arranged to take up the 5 billion, 985 million dollar lend-lease bill Tuesday, with indications pointing to its speedy approval without reductions in the proposed appropriation.

Chairman Alva B. Adams [D., Colo.] said the committee would examine individual amounts closely but added that he knew of no prospective effort to trim the bill's total.

Adams disclosed that representatives of Russian bondholders were seeking to put into the measure a provision calling on the soviets for payment. The bonds held in this country total about 90 million dollars, Adams said, and were issued by the czarist régime. The obligation was repudiated by the communist government.

The senator said he would oppose such a provision because "if we are trying to help somebody, I don't think we ought to put pressure on him at a time like this."

RFC Lending Up in Senate.

Awaiting a report on the lend-lease measure, the senate will take up tomorrow house approved legislation expanding the lending authority of the Reconstruction Finance corporation by 1 billion, 500 million dollars.

Federal Loan Administrator Jesse Jones told the senate banking committee last week that approximately a billion dollars of this amount would go into expansion of steel production facilities. He also said that the rapid enlargement of the preparedness program might make it necessary to increase the lending authority again within 90 days.

Connally Predicts Seizure of French American Lands

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 12 (AP).—Sen. Tom Connally [D., Tex.], chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, said today that the United States would seize and hold French colonies in this hemisphere if Vichy permitted their use by the Germans. He addressed a Texas state fair crowd in a speech broadcast by NBC.

CLARK CHARGES WILFUL GROUP LEADS US TO WAR

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 12 (AP).—Sen. Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.], declared today that "a little group of wilful men has deliberately resolved to ride roughshod over the desires of four-fifths of the American people and drag this nation willy-nilly into war."

"Now it is proposed," Clark said in a Columbus day address, "to eliminate the neutrality act. Its original purpose was to prevent war. The deliberate purpose of its modification is to provoke war—to create a series of incidents which would permit the carrying out of the intention to drag us into war."

Referring to Stalin, Clark said that "once we have crawled in bed with 'Bloody Joe' [Stalin] no restraints are possible on the spread of communistic propaganda in this country."

Norwegian Ship Reports Shelling Nazi Submarine

REYKJAVIK, Iceland [via London], Oct. 12.—The story of a fight between a Norwegian steamer and a U-boat, in which the steamer's gunners shelled and hit the submarine after their vessel had been struck by a torpedo, was told here today when the ship docked.

Despite a high gale the steamer, listing heavily, reached Reykjavik under its own power. The ship was carrying 160 men from British Honduras to Britain for forestry duty.

BRUISED, CHUTIST OF DEVIL'S TOWER FAILS AT RECORD

Rapid City, S. D., Oct. 12 [Special].—Battered and bruised and encased in several yards of adhesive tape, George Hopkins, who last week was rescued from Devil's Tower, Wyo., was forced to give up his attempt on the world's parachute record at an exhibition here late today.

Delayed, first by lack of extra parachutes and then by high winds, Hopkins was induced to stop after making 13 jumps, all from about 2,000 foot altitude. He had vowed to break the record of 30 in one day held by Herb Stark, Los Angeles.

Hopkins took terrific punishment in landings, due to high winds. He ended the attempt on the advice of a physician. One ankle, injured in his spectacular leap Oct. 1 on Devil's Tower, bothered him, and today he sprained his other ankle.

On one jump he gave observers a scare when both his main parachute and his emergency chute fouled. He squirmed and pulled the ropes until the chute blew free, but he landed hard.

It was for the purpose of press agenting today's parachute show that Hopkins dropped on 1,280 foot Devil's Tower, where he was marooned six days before his rescue.

REDS WITHDRAW FROM RAIL TOWN IN MOSCOW AREA

Declare Fierce Fighting Still Rages.

MOSCOW, Oct. 13 [Monday]—(AP).—The Russians announced today their forces had abandoned Bryansk, key rail junction southwest of Moscow, and that in some sectors west of the capital the Germans "managed at tremendous cost in man power and armaments to press back our troops and wedge into our defense lines."

"After many days of stubborn fighting our troops left Bryansk," said the early morning communique, adding that especially fierce fighting was raging in that area and in the direction of Vyazma, 125 miles west of Moscow.

Meet Stubborn Resistance.

The Russians said the Germans had built up numerical superiority in some sectors in the west and that "the Germans' desperate onslaughts are meeting stubborn resistance of our troops."

German losses on this front yesterday alone were placed at 12,000 men killed and wounded, 90 tanks, 270 trucks, huge quantities of guns and ammunition.

The powerful German attack was pictured generally as driving forward despite all the Russians could do to stop it. The only cheering news from Moscow came from the region of Vyazma, 125 miles west of the capital, where a desperate counterattack was reported to have driven the Nazis back several miles. The early morning communique said fighting was particularly fierce at Bryansk and on the Vyazma front.

A town of some 30,000 population, Bryansk is on the main railway line leading to Moscow from the southwest. There was no word, as to whether the huge Maltsov iron works north of the town had been destroyed.

Tank Unit Recaptures Town.

In the Vyazma counterattack a column of Russian tanks was said to have recaptured the town of "M." The Russians acknowledged that it was a local action but said it showed the Red army still is a force to be reckoned with.

The Germans were said to be making steady gains from the Bryansk area and from north of Orel, 200 miles south of the capital—the other two main spearheads in the three-way attack.

Stretching 150 miles from near Orel to near Vyazma the Oka river and its tributary the Ugra form a huge "Y" and a natural defense line southwest of Moscow. The Oka joins the Volga behind Moscow.

Red Star, the army's newspaper, said resistance to the mass of German infantry, tanks, guns, planes, and parachutists was entering its "most decisive phase" in the Vyazma area.

In one sector there, it was said, a single tank unit commanded by a Maj. Alaiev had held on to an important position between two rivers for three days despite a terrific pounding from German shells and bombs. In the end, however, he had been forced to retreat when faced by a triple superiority of numbers in tanks.

Reds Maintain Confidence.

The main German effort in this sector appeared to be aimed at getting possession of an important highway leading to the capital.

The Russians, despite the desperate character of the struggle, maintained confidence that they eventually would be able to pin down the German hosts.

Front line dispatches said the Germans were getting their first taste of the stern Russian winter. A biting cold is setting in at night and the smear of smoke from burning villages and farm buildings of the battle landscape contrasts with the snow which clings to fields, forests and rooftops.

Soviet reports from the front said Russian troops, now supported by masses of new reserves saved for just such a crisis, were fighting brilliantly, inflicting tremendous casualties.

Twice the Germans crossed a river to execute a flanking attack and were flung back, the dispatch said, but finally the Russians were forced to retreat and dig in on a new line under cover of a violent Russian tank assault.

From the Leningrad and northern fronts severe fighting also was reported. The soviet information bureau said a pitched battle resulted in the northwest when three regiments struck at the Russian flank and met with disastrous results. More than 2,200 of the foe were killed and wounded, the announcement said, and six guns, five anti-tank guns, and other weapons were captured by the Russians.

Battle Line as Claimed by Germans

PAN-AMERICAN STAFF OF 40 WILL FERRY PLANES OVER AFRICA

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 12 (AP).—A 40 man Pan American Airways staff in Africa is scheduled to start ferrying planes across the dark continent to the British within a month, staff members said today.

The planes will be flown from the west coast to the Sudan, where they will be turned over to British pilots for the final lap to the middle east war area, it was said. Some of the craft will be flown across the Atlantic, the remainder brought by ship.

Four officials of the service have arrived to work out the details with RAF heads. They said airmail and passenger service would be inaugurated in connection with the ferry service but that this would be subordinated to the carrying back of the pilots and British and American military exigencies.

Mrs. Roosevelt Claims Gains in Armored Force

New York, Oct. 12 (AP).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said tonight in a radio broadcast that the armored forces of the United States by the end of 1941 would be increased 1,400 per cent over 1940. She said there were 100,000 army vehicles on hand in July as compared with July, 1940, when there were 29,86. Mrs. Roosevelt urged that the people express to their congressmen their views on the questions of arming merchant ships and allowing them to enter belligerent waters.

[Copyright: 1941: By the New York Times.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 12.—About 20,000 leftists, principally those close to the communists, paraded thru Santiago's central streets today in what they termed "A march for democracy."

The paraders carried pictures of President Pedro Aguirre, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Winston Churchill, Joseph Stalin, N. Lenin, and Gen. Charles De Gaulle. The parade included horsemen, decorated cars, trucks, and a bicycle corps. Slogan banners demanded "withdrawal of neutrality," "support for Russian armies," "victory for the democracies," and "down with the enemies of democracy."

Order was maintained thruout the parade. Special guards were placed near the German, Italian, and Spanish embassies. Officials of the Chilean Popular front government were cheered and especially printed stamps were sold to collect funds for the Russians.

5 Nazi Regiments Sent Thru Bulgaria to Police Greeks

ANKARA, Turkey, Oct. 11 [Delayed.] (AP).—Five German regiments have arrived in Bulgaria en route to northern Greece to take over police work from Italians and Bulgarians, who have failed to maintain order, a well-informed source said today. Reports from various quarters here said the Greeks stirred up so much trouble that occupying forces had been compelled to use bombers and tanks in an attempt to control the situation.

[The British radio, quoting its correspondent in Ankara, Turkey, reported Bulgarian planes had bombed several villages on the Greek frontier in retaliation for alleged forays into Bulgaria by bands of armed Greeks.

8 SHIPS CLAIMED BY NAZI AIR AND U-BOAT RAIDERS

Lone Flyer Credited with Sinking 3 Vessels.

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, Oct. 13 [Monday] (AP).—Nine British bombers were shot down during the night in attacks on southern and southwestern Germany, which caused some casualties but no important damage to military objectives, it was announced today.

BERLIN, Oct. 12 (AP).—Destruction of eight "enemy" ships by German submarines and planes was reported today by the high command. The submarine action was in recent days and the air action within the last 24 hours.

The biggest toll was reported somewhere in the Atlantic, where submarines operating against the British supply line were said to have sunk three vessels totaling 23,000 tons.

A single battle plane also was credited with destroying three small enemy freighters totaling about 3,000 tons near the Faroes Islands.

Two Sunk Near England.

Two more freighters, totaling 9,000 tons, were said to have been sunk by the German air force near England, and a third freighter was set afire.

Two British bombers and four Spitfires were shot down today along the Dutch coast during RAF flights into occupied territory. German military quarters reported. No German losses were mentioned.

The high command reported "effective" air attacks last night against airdromes and other "important war installations" on the southeast and southwest coasts of Britain.

British Renew Air Offensive.

LONDON, Oct. 13 [Monday]—(AP).—Royal air force bombers attacked targets in Bavaria, the Rhineland, and northwest Germany last night, it was stated authoritatively today. The British flyers were back on a 24 hour bombing and strafing schedule after a lengthy layoff due to bad weather.

The raids against Germany followed attacks on German shipping off the Norwegian coast from Saturday midnight to Sunday dawn, day attacks over the English channel and North sea, and day and night attacks on the French invasion coast.

German air activity against England last night meanwhile was called "small scale" by the government, but it acknowledged that a small number of persons were killed.

Deny Plan to Open Front.

The raid came on the heels of a similar assault last week by the British fleet air arm. Informed quarters said, however, that there was nothing to indicate that the Norwegion raids were the forerunners of a British attempt to open a northern front to aid Russia.

The day shift attacked docks and a railway siding at Boulogne, France, just across the English channel and swept the channel and North sea, hunting German planes and ships.

RAF Raids Norway

Low level hits on a convoyed tanker and a large supply vessel off the Dutch coast were claimed officially along with destruction of four German fighters in the Boulogne attack and three in a dogfight over the channel. The RAF acknowledged loss of two bombers in the convoy attack and two fighters at Boulogne.

A long range gun shelled Dover today and German planes attacked an inland area of northwest England late tonight for the first time in months.

200 Jews Kill Selves Over Nazi Order to Wear Star

(Copyright: 1941: By the New York Times.)

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 12.—The Berlin correspondent of the Social Demokraten reported today that more than 200 Jews have committed suicide in Berlin since the recent decree compelling Jews to wear the yellow star of David.

BATTLE OF TANKS RAGES AT TOBRUK, BRITISH REPORT

Nazis Hit at Besieged Fort from Two Sides.

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 12 (AP).—Repeated fierce German tank onslaughts against the besieged British defenders of Tobruk, Libya, were reported today by the middle east command. But the final results of the slashes were not disclosed.

The Germans hurled tanks "in considerable numbers" against Tobruk from the south and southeast Friday night, a communique said, "in spite of their rough handling on the previous night."

Yesterday's Cairo communique said British tanks surprised a large number of German tanks and scored direct hits on them after the Germans had overpowered a small Tobruk outpost. Two British were killed and seven wounded.

Wipe Out Italian Patrol.

In patrol clashes the command reported an Australian patrol had captured an Italian officer and destroyed his whole platoon. While in another sector a British patrol ambushed an "enemy" party of 114, inflicted 40 casualties, and withdrew without a loss.

Still another hostile patrol of 50 men was "practically wiped out" by British lying in ambush and a patrol of 30 Italians was surprised and routed, leaving 15 dead on the sand and the wounded officer in charge a prisoner in British hands, the communique reported.

Bomb 5 Italian Ships.

Bombers and torpedo planes damaged or set afire at least five Italian ships and left a trail of fire and destruction at airports and harbors in raids along the Italian-occupied North Africa coast, the RAF reported.

The first blow in the growing Mediterranean air offensive was struck Friday night when RAF and naval planes hit three vessels in a 20 minute torpedo assault on an Italian convoy of four ships escorted by destroyers. Another attack was directed against Italian shipping in the Gulf of Sirte. One ship was said to have been set on fire and probably sunk and a second was left burning.

Large fires were said to have been set on airdromes at Berka and Benina and in the Bengazi harbor; Bardia and Derna were reported heavily attacked. A power station was said to have been left burning at Derna. The Comiso airdrome in Sicily also was reported raided.

Claim British Repulsed.

ROME, Oct. 12 (AP).—A British attack against an Italian position on the Tobruk front, Libya, was reported by the Italian high command today to have been thrown back with losses.

The daily war bulletin also reported a skirmish between Italian colonial battalions and a "strong enemy formation" during a reconnaissance sortie of the Italians. The enemy formation was "scattered" and left "numerous dead" behind, the communique said.

British air raids on Derna, in Cirenaica, and the Sicilian coast were fruitless, the high command said, asserting that two British planes were shot down by Italian anti-aircraft gunners over Derna.

German fighters accounted for three more British planes in North Africa and Italian torpedo boats, escorting a Mediterranean convoy, shot down three other planes, the high command said.

NIGHT HAWK BOMBERS OF CANADA DAMAGE 9 SHIPS IN NORTH SEA

A NORTH SEA PORT, Oct. 12 (AP).—The royal Canadian air force coastal command squadron, flying by night over the stormy North sea, has damaged at least 30,000 tons of German shipping in the first month's operations, led by an English squadron commander who has claimed three hits.

The Canadians have bombed nine ships ranging from anti-aircraft boats to tankers and supply ships and all but one of these have been damaged in night attacks.

Pilots have seen huge explosions and fires after their bombs were dropped, but they haven't claimed any sinkings because of the impossibility of confirmation in the inky darkness. They are satisfied, however, that few if any of the nine ships will sail again.

NAVY DAY TO BE CELEBRATED IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Chicago's public school children will participate in nation-wide observances of Navy day on Oct. 27, Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, announced yesterday.

Ceremonies will be held in the city's 331 grammar and 40 high schools. All principals, said Dr. Johnson, have already received material for programs and a message calling attention to the greater significance of Navy day in the present national emergency."

The American Radio Relay league, made up of amateur radio operators, also will participate in the celebration of Navy day, it was announced yesterday. The navy will broadcast special messages from Washington, D. C., at 9 p. m., central standard time, and from San Francisco, Cal., at 9:30 p. m., central standard time. The amateurs are asked to pick up the messages and send them to league headquarters at West Hartford, Conn., where naval officials will judge the results as to accuracy.

3 STRIKEBOUND PACKERS TO END CIO CONTRACTS

Attorney Lewis F. Jacobson, spokesman for three meat packing companies whose plants have been strikebound since Sept. 11, said yesterday that the companies had canceled contracts with the Packing House Workers Organizing committee [CIO] and would resume operations today, dealing with employés on an individual basis.

A few hours earlier J. C. Lewis, national chairman of the packing house workers, had ordered the 1,500 strikers back to work Monday morning "in the name of national defense." The men will return to work despite Jacobson's statement, Lewis said.

The plants involved, all of whom have army food contracts, are the Illinois Packing company, the Agar Packing and Provision corporation, and the P. Brennan company.

REVEALS PLEDGE OF U. S. TOILERS' FAITH TO STALIN

Beaverbrook Calls for 30,000 Tanks.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Lord Beaverbrook told Britons and Americans in a radio broadcast tonight that he and W. Averell Harriman "pledged the faith of the working men and women of Britain and the United States as well" in their promises of aid to Josef Stalin.

Lord Beaverbrook.

"Men and women alike, you are all pledged to uphold the standard of Russia on the battle front where the Germans seek to destroy it," the British minister of supply asserted. "Stalin trusts us, Harriman and me. He puts his faith in our pledges. He believes we speak truly on your behalf. He thinks what we have promised you can perform."

Pledge "Practically Everything."

Great Britain and the United States, Beaverbrook said, agreed to supply "practically everything" Russia asked "and certainly all we can at present give them." Harriman headed the American delegation, Beaverbrook the British. Drama marked the final parley in Moscow as one or the other would pledge his nation to supply Stalin's war requests as they were read one by one.

"Harriman said 'Agreed' if the item concerned the United States," Beaverbrook said. "I said 'O. K.' As the list rolled on, Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov got up from his seat, crying out with enthusiasm. Stalin's relief was manifest."

Calls for 30,000 Tanks.

Beaverbrook told of the Russian belief that the Germans had 30,000 tanks for their eastern campaign and were using 14,000 in the present attack on Moscow. He then called for a British and American production of 30,000 tanks—a program "vaster than any yet laid down" or even contemplated. Britain, he added, must mobilize a supertank army for the "day when our defensive operations are abandoned in favor of the attack."

[Reliable reports from commercial sources have indicated that the United States' output of medium tanks now is around 200 a month, with production of light tanks about double that figure. The production goal for next spring is a military secret.]

The supply minister did not say how many tanks Russia had requested, but he did say they were getting some—and planes as well.

Sums Up Promises.

In one all-encompassing paragraph he sketched promises and fulfillment to date by saying:

"As for tanks and aircraft, the numbers that Stalin asked for, let it be said that the full numbers promised for the month of October have been provided. Guns we have promised, too, a few big guns, plenty of good guns, and plenty of raw materials, copper, lead, zinc, tin, cobalt, brass, rubber, silk, jute, wool, phosphorus, diamonds, shellac, and a long list of other products." Oil, he said, is being supplied by America.

Beaverbrook said "the soviet union must be enabled to enter a spring campaign with adequate supplies of all munitions of war" and that Britain "will forego food from abroad if the ships are needed" to get them to Russia.

In conclusion, he praised Russian production and morale.

U. S. CANAL COPS TO HAND ARIAS OVER TO PANAMA

PANAMA CITY, Panama, Oct. 12 (AP).—United States authorities made plans today to hustle Panama's overthrown President Arnulfo Arias out of the Canal Zone as an unwanted political refugee and hand him over promptly to the police of Panama, where he is unwelcome and faces arrest.

The Canal Zone authorities planned to send a radio message tomorrow advising Arias on shipboard of what to expect when he returns here this week. The belief grew here that Arias, known as a prideful man, will submit to arrest with the hope of regaining the sympathy of his countrymen. Altho Canal Zone authorities represent the United States, it was said here no formal representations in the Arias case had been made by the United States government.

1,000 MILE RIDE PEPS UP REDS, SO THEY GIVE A SHOW

Iran Sees Daring Cossack Horsemanship.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TEHERAN, Iran [Persia], Oct. 12.—Four thousand Persians watched from the grandstand of the Teheran race course today as Russian cavalry stationed here staged a gymkhana—a colorful exhibition of trick riding.

The Reds rode Caucasian mounts worn lean by a 20 day 1,000 mile march from Russia, but according to competent observers the animals performed very well for field horses.

The four hour show began with a schooled ride and parade of officers. Col. F. P. Tompkins, United States military attaché, himself a cavalry officer, said the Reds' riding style was more American than French or German. He noted that in the jumping exhibitions the Reds kept their horses a little more in hand than Americans do, and that the riders who kept their bodies erect seldom lagged behind.

Hold Reins Differently.

The riders held the reins directly from the bit thru the thumb and forefinger instead of under the little finger as is customary in America, he said.

A parade of officers was followed by an exhibition of trained horses. At a canter, a rider changed the lead every fourth time, then every third and finally every stride. This brought applause from the crowd. He followed this with a piaffer and a Spanish waltz which, Tompkins said, were well done for a horse used in the campaign.

Next came Cossack riding and a "monkey drill" in which the riders touched both feet to the ground, leaped over the saddle, touched the feet to the ground on the other side and then repeated the exercise for 2,000 yards while traveling at full gallop.

Saber Slashing Spectacular.

One of the most spectacular features of the show was a charge at full gallop between rows of 10 foot reeds stuck in the tops of posts during which the cavalry officers slashed the reeds with sabers, striking first to the right and then to the left. They ended by "beheading" pole tops of objects that resembled loaves of bread and by catching a 12-inch ring on their sabers after the loops had been tossed high overhead.

At the conclusion, an officer with a saber in each hand and one clamped in his teeth charged between the lines of reeds slashing at them on both sides.

The invitation to the gymkhana bore the slogan, "Workers of the world unite" and on the front of the grandstand in which sat the American, British and other ministers, there was a huge banner which read: "Under leadership of the great Stalin, forward to victory over the German cannibals." In the foreground of the exhibition field were paintings 20 feet square of Stalin and Lenin.

Officers Dine Correspondent.

After the exhibition The Tribune correspondent was asked by Col. Tehoudessov to dine at the officers' mess. An almost unbelievable spirit of democracy prevailed. The meal, which was said to be the fare of an ordinary soldier, consisted first of a course of fish, cucumbers, and tomatoes, followed by bortsch [soup] and then a sort of hash made of whole wheat and fat. It was very filling. The dessert was grapes. A captain, no less, went from table to table pouring beer. The Reds drank heavily during the meal, this correspondent being served beer, red wine, and water glasses full of Iranian cognac and vodka.

In the midst of the meal a Russian civilian, also a guest, sprang up and shouted a toast to "our heroic soldiers and comrade Stalin." As the glasses of vodka were emptied, the colonel in charge of the area leaped to his feet and began singing "Rose Marie," accompanied by the regimental band. When he ceased, applause shook the room and he gave an encore. At the end of the song he was seized by the Red soldiers and tossed high into the air a dozen times while the crowd cheered. Then the group broke out in a song of their Siberian partisans from the region of the Amur river in far eastern Siberia.

"HOW CAN I GET A LOAN?"

What to do to borrow $20 to $300 quickly and simply—How you may repay in convenient monthly installments

WOULD A $100 or $200 loan come in handy this month? Have you old bills you would like to clean up with a loan?

If you have a job, you may borrow up to $300 at Household Finance in a simple, private transaction. Then you may repay your loan in monthly installments arranged to fit your own income and paydays.

3 ways to borrow

Suppose that you need $100. The table shows that 12 monthly installments of $9.77 each will repay a $100 loan in full. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.99 a month will repay a $100 loan in 18 months.

All you do to apply for a Household Finance loan is to tell us how much you need and how you wish to repay. Household Finance loans are made in three ways. First way: On your personal note. No security required. This type of loan is made, when circumstances warrant, to both single persons and married couples. Second way: On your car. This plan may best fit your needs. Third way: On your furniture. This plan is used by thousands. Here character and income are far more important than the value of your security. Your loan will be made the way which best fits your own situation.

Other important points: It is not necessary to ask friends or fellow-workers to act as endorsers. And at no time do we question friends or relatives about your money affairs. You get your loan quickly and simply.

Get your loan for less

Payments in the table include charges at Household's rate of 2½% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100 and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100. The Small Loan Law permits us to charge substantially more than this. Some finance companies do charge more. We publish our rates and payments to help you shop for your loan.

If you need money for an emergency, bring your problem to Household. Or just phone and say that you need a loan. We are here to serve you. Phone or visit us without obligation.

WE GUARANTEE the total amount figured by using this table to be the full amount you will pay, when payments are made on schedule. You will pay less if you pay your loan ahead of time since you pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. Payments include charges at Household's rate of 2½% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100, and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100. WAR!

THAT IS WHAT ANY CHANGE IN THE NEUTRALITY ACT WILL MEAN TO YOU AND 131,000,000 OTHER AMERICANS

In 1940, the President said of the 1935 Neutrality Act:

"These were measures to keep us at peace." When the present neutrality act was introduced in 1939 he said, "This government clearly and definitely will insist that Americans and American ships keep away from the IMMEDIATE PERILS of the actual zones of conflict."

Today, 1941, he wants Congress to repeal the section of the Neutrality Act which prohibits arming American merchant ships. He says: "It will be increasingly necessary to deliver American goods under the American flag."

AMERICANS, WE ARE NOT IN THE WAR . . . YET!

If we send armed merchant ships into "the immediate PERILS of the actual zones of conflict" the only possible result will be WAR . . . declared or undeclared . . . but none the less a shooting WAR.

CONGRESS can still keep us out of war.

AMERICANS!

WRITE TO YOUR SENATORS AND CONGRESSMEN TODAY . . . EVERY DAY! Demand that they keep the Neutrality Act unchanged.

We will never go to war while that act stands!

RUSSIA NOW PART OF 'NEW EUROPE,' SAYS NAZI CHIEF

Funk Sees Boon to Food Supplies of Continent.

KOENIGSBERG, Germany, Oct. 12 (AP). — Germany's economic minister and reichsbank president, Walther Funk, declared today that Russia, in an economic sense, now has been annexed to the "New Europe" and already has become a factor in the continent's new order.

Walther Funk.

Funk, in an address opening the Koenigsberg fair, gave no hint of Germany's plans for the political future of occupied Russian lands, but he left no doubt that a place is being arranged for them in an economic reconstruction on a broad continental basis.

Funk said that one immediate effect would be a strengthening of Europe, especially in the matter of food supply. He added that making the continent self-sufficient as to food essentials would discourage future wars.

See Blow at Blockades.

Heretofore, Funk said, outside countries regarded it fairly easy to attack a European nation like Germany because blockades could cut off its supplies.

Russia in the past could not be counted upon as a source of supplies for Europe, the minister said, because traditional Russian policy erected a virtual wall at the western frontier.

It was clear that Funk conceived a new European Russia which would trade freely with the rest of the continent and which would be fitted precisely into the new order planned by Nazi economic strategists.

Three Urgent Problems.

In respect to Russia, Funk said, there are now three urgent problems:

1. The worst war damage must be repaired and order must be created out of economic confusion.
2. The "human problem," particularly that of leadership of the masses, must be met.
3. Russia's economy and transport must be adjusted to "Russia's new European mission."

In Funk's opinion, Russia's raw materials, actual and potential, will be a magnet attracting industry eastward. To some extent the industrialization of eastern Germany would be encouraged, but still extensive regions would not be permitted to change their natural character as sources of raw materials.

See Era of Work.

For Baltic ports, such as Koenigsberg, Funk foresaw an era of much work and great possibilities. He said these ports would recover a hinterland of which they had been artificially deprived by Russian national policy.

Funk took pains to deny that Germany conceived the new Europe as being completely self-sufficient. "No sensible man," he said, "thinks of raising a Chinese wall around the continent. We thoroly approve of world trade; what we fight against is the misuse of trade, credit and capital as instruments of power politics as practiced by England for centuries.

"We aim to break the system of plutocratic imperialism and make international trade a decent instrument serving mutual economic needs. Also, we will keep control of essential European needs, especially foods, and necessary raw materials in European hands."

19 Torpedo Victims Sail 1,000 Miles in Lifeboat

DUBLIN, Eire, Oct. 12 (AP).—Nineteen survivors of three ships torpedoed while in convoy landed on the coast of County Galway today after a 1,000 mile open boat voyage. The men had lived on one biscuit a day each for 15 days. Three of the 22 originally in the boat died of exposure and were buried at sea.

SHUN WAR, MAKE BRITISH PLEDGE LIBERTY: GANDHI

Tells U. S. He Hopes Neither Foe Wins.

WARDHA, India, Oct. 12 (AP).—Mohandas K. Gandhi suggested today that the United States ought not to enter the war or even give more active aid to Britain without getting certain guarantees in advance.

Mohandas K. Gandhi.

Interviewed in the little village of Sevagram near here, the famed nationalist leader, who was 72 years old 10 days ago, declared that America "should think 50 times" before going any further to aid Britain.

Human Liberties Urged.

"She should ask what will happen to India, Asia, and African possessions," he said as he sat on the floor with legs crossed, spinning and surrounded by a circle of devoted followers. "She should withdraw any help unless there are guarantees of human liberties. If America is true to her tradition, she should say what Abraham Lincoln would say. America would lose nothing by making stipulations concerning her war help."

Gandhi expressed hope that Britain and Germany would both become exhausted and come to terms with neither defeated. "Only the North sea divides them," he observed.

Sticks to "Nonviolence."

With the war seemingly drawing closer to India, Gandhi said that he personally would stick to his policy of nonviolence, which he said "is a life policy with me." He added this possibly important proviso, however—that "if the congress assumes power and revises its policies, it has a perfect right to do so."

Unofficially it was learned that a meeting of congress leaders who are not jailed will be held soon with Gandhi, but the leader himself denied that there would be "any important change in policy."

CUDAHY URGES ROOSEVELT TO DEMAND PEACE

Only Way to Save U. S. and World, Says Ex-Envoy.

A peace offensive led by President Roosevelt with the approval of congress is the best method of keeping the United States out of the European war, John Cudahy, former United States ambassador, said yesterday on the Northwestern university Reviewing Stand broadcast over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

John Cudahy.

Cudahy proposed that the President issue invitations immediately to all the nations of the world to attend a congress of peace. Such a conference, he said, is the only means of saving America and the world from complete disaster.

"Prestige and Power."

"Our country is the great power of the world today, the only power at peace," Cudahy declared. "We must use our prestige and power in the interests of peace, but primarily to avert our entrance into the war.

"The moral pressure that would be brought to bear on Hitler by his own people if President Roosevelt issued a call for a peace conference would compel Hitler to entertain the proposal."

"Nobody Is Willing."

Cudahy's fellow participant in the discussion, William M. McGovern, professor of political science at Northwestern, said Cudahy was calling for a peace when there was no possibility for peace.

"Neither England, Russia, nor the present administration of the United States would be willing to discuss peace terms now," McGovern said. "Any peace conference would result in a dictated peace, dictated by Germany."

Furthermore, he added, peace proposals by the United States would weaken England and Russia and strengthen Germany.

"It would simply be a breathing spell for Germany to consolidate her gains," he added.

Cudahy replied that if nothing else were accomplished by the peace proposal, "we'd have a hearing in the open as to why this free American people should get into this war, and to clarify the issue on that if nothing else."

"The American people want to know where they're going," Cudahy said. "They don't know now."

70 EQUESTRIANS FINISH 66 MILE ROUND TRIP RIDE TO ALGONQUIN

Seventy horse enthusiasts yesterday completed a 66 mile round trip horseback ride sponsored by the Town and Country Equestrian association.

The ride started Saturday morning from the polo field in Harms woods, Morton Grove, to the Horse farm, near Algonquin. The return trip was made yesterday. Only six of the original party begged off from the return trip, explaining that they preferred to return home standing up. They were replaced by six other riders.

The cavalcade journeyed on Cook county forest preserve trails and private trails, including those of the Barrington Hills Riding club. W. Earl Butler, president of the association, said the group was grateful to the forest preserve commissioners and the Barrington club for the use of the trails.

JOHN WARNER TALKS ABOUT BALDNESS

In a talk over the radio, John E. Warner, the nation's leading scalp specialist, said: "Take care of your hair while you have it, for baldness is a permanent condition. Nearly every day I am asked to grow hair for someone who has waited too long—and, of course, I have to tell such individuals that I can't help them. To the man who is losing his hair I can, in such cases as I accept, be sure of saving and improving the hair through progressive steps of medication and treatment."

Statistics show that as much as 85% of all baldness is due to local scalp conditions which can be checked and corrected if caught in time. If your hair and scalp show the symptoms of approaching baldness, such as dandruff, itchy scalp and excessive falling hair—you should consult John E. Warner Associates without delay.

There is no charge or obligation for a scalp examination and consultation. Examination and treatment are given in strictest privacy. FEES FOR TREATMENT ARE VERY MODERATE AND ARE PAYABLE AS THE TREATMENTS ARE TAKEN—NOT IN ADVANCE. Hours 10 A. M. to 8 P. M. daily, Saturdays to 6 P. M.

There is a separate department for women. Other Warner offices located in Boston, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Detroit.

AMERICA FIRST COMMITTEE ADDS TEN NOTABLES

W. L. Hutcheson, Official of AFL, New Member.

Ten more prominent citizens have been added to the national committee of the America First committee. This was announced yesterday by Gen. Robert E. Wood, national chairman, as the committee prepared to open a "most vigorous" campaign against any changes in the neutrality law.

The new members represent several diverse fields of endeavor—labor, law, sports, public office, and literature.

One of the most significant appointments is that of William L. Hutcheson of Indianapolis, first vice president of the American Federation of Labor and general president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America. Hutcheson was a member of the war labor board from 1917 to 1919 and was in charge of the labor division of the national Republican party in 1932 and 1936. He is considered one of the most respected spokesmen of labor.

Says Group Is Strengthened.

In announcing the additions of Hutcheson and the other new national committee members, Gen. Wood said:

"We are glad to welcome these distinguished new committee members, who will add greatly to our strength during the coming critical weeks."

Following are the other new members:

Harold L. Stuart, president of Halsey, Stuart & Co., Chicago.

Samuel Hopkins Adams, Auburn, N. Y., author and scenarist, and member of the National Conference of Charities and of the executive committee of the National Consumers' league.

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, Albuquerque, N. M., former congresswoman, former Republican national committeewoman, and member of the Women's Trade Union league and the American Association for Labor Legislation.

Dr. Clarence Manion, South Bend, Ind., dean of the college of law of Notre Dame university.

Edwin S. Webster Jr., New York City, senior partner of Kidder, Peabody & Co.

Mrs. Ellen French Vanderbilt Fitz Simons, Republican national committeewoman for Rhode Island and holder of the Victory medal of the Society of Social Sciences for distinguished services in connection with the Red Cross in 1919.

Vows Hard Fight on Amendments.

The 10 new members give the America First national committee its greatest strength since the organization was founded. Gen. Wood declared that the committee now will dig in harder than ever to battle the changes in the neutrality act as proposed by President Roosevelt.

"The President's message, which urges that American ships be sent into the war zones of the North Atlantic, squarely presents the issue of war or peace," he said. "Those who support this policy know full well that it will result in the sinking of American ships and the loss of American lives, and that such incidents will inevitably be followed by full participation in the war, just as in 1917.

"The President is asking congress to issue an engraved drowning license to American seamen. Accordingly, the America First committee will leave no stone unturned to defeat this final bid of the war minority. All our man power and all our energies will be thrown into the fight. The addition of the new committee members gives us increased strength in every corner of the country."

KILLED IN TRAFFIC CRASH.

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 13 (AP).—Delwyn Allen, 26 years old, an employe of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, was killed yesterday when his automobile and one driven by Henry Faire, a CCC member, collided near here.

A job well done can give you your greatest satisfaction. Quiet and precise, you may sometimes be misunderstood by others. Perseverance is one of your finest characteristics, but you must not allow it to lead you toward too much graveness and a tendency to domination.

Shirley Nordstrom, Chicago.

Oct. 29th. Your sign of the Zodiac is Scorpio; your birth star, Mars. Fear is an emotion seldom known to you and you can drive yourself to hard work and tasks which others with less determination would shirk. The career you have chosen is one for which you are well equipped because you can be self-sacrificing, without complaint. The coming year will be an active one. Your key number is eight; Tuesday your best day.

Elmer C. Ellis, Griggsville, Ill.

You enjoy social life and entertainment and are kind-hearted and generally good-natured. You have a strong sense of justice and are ever willing to take the part of the underdog. Guard against a tendency to be changeable and diffusive.

John S. Tshilds, Chicago.

Marian J. Pancratz, Dubuque, Iowa.

Stuart L. Anderson, Grand Haven, Mich.

May 4th. You were born under the sign of Taurus; your ruling planet is Venus. You are a determined and self-confident person, with ambition for material possessions. You are gifted with physical and mental energy and are not easily discouraged. Pleasing in appearance and disposition, you are well able to deal tactfully with the public. Your greatest fault is probably a furious temper, and an inclination to be obstinate and stubborn when angry.

Robert Curley, Milwaukee, Wis.

Nov. 23rd. Your sign of the Zodiac is Sagittarius; your ruling planet is Jupiter. The coming year should be a good one for you, with both social and financial advancement. However, you must be careful to watch a tendency toward impulsiveness and too much frankness of speech. Wilfred Wiffong, Griffith, Ind.

Jan. 17th. Your sign of the Zodiac is Capricorn; your ruling planet, Saturn. You have ability as an organizer and enjoy doing work independently. Sunday should be your best day for personal advancement.

Dorothy Adams, Chicago.

Ray P. Lotzer, Winnebago, Ill.

Dec. 14th. Your sign of the Zodiac is Sagittarius; your birth star, Jupiter. Because you are steadfast and loyal to your friends and family you can expect and count on a return of loyal support at all times. Eileen Freislinger, Chicago.

Jan. 4th. You were born under the sign of Capricorn; your birth star, or ruling planet, is Saturn. Determination is one of your chief assets, particularly for advancement in the business world. Blanche Long, Chicago.

Apr. 16th. You were born under the sign of Aries; your ruling planet is Mars. CAPTURE EIGHT WHO BROKE OUT OF BOYS' SCHOOL

St. Charles and Vicinity Is Breathing Easier.

West Chicago police last night captured the last two of eight young Negro hoodlums who made a mass escape from the Illinois State Training School for Boys near St. Charles Saturday night. Citizens of the Fox river valley towns breathed a sigh of relief, because the incident was concluded without reports of fresh crimes having been committed by the fugitives.

Last to be overtaken by police were Marshall Wilson, 17 years old, 649 East 50th street, and Herbert Liggons, 17, of 3707 Indiana avenue, both of whom had been convicted of armed robbery.

Hiding in Fields.

The pair had been hiding out in corn fields most of the time since they fled from a receiving cottage at the school. Wet and hungry, they were seized on Batavia road just south of West Chicago by police of that city, who had captured three of the others Saturday night.

State Sen. Thomas P. Gunning of Princeton, chairman of a state commission which investigated hundreds of other escapes from the institution, demanded an explanation of the escape.

"I intend to find out why it was permitted," he said. "The inmates couldn't have scaled the 13 foot fence if it had been properly guarded. What's the use of a fence and floodlights on it if there are no guards to see that none of the inmates climbs over it?"

Harold Johnson, assistant managing officer in charge in the absence of the director, Dr. Henry B. Knowles, said there are no guards at the institution. It is operated as a group of cottages, he explained, with a house father and a house mother in charge of each, and one extra man assigned to each cottage.

Under Woman's Care.

The eight hoodlums were in charge of the house mother in the quarantine cottage when they escaped, Johnson asserted. He said that he didn't know just where the two men were at the time.

"This is a detention cottage," he explained. "There are no guards because this is not a penal institution. One of the outside patrol men did see the last of the eight get over the fence and caught him by one heel but he pulled away. The alarm was given instantly and we hunted the boys all night, giving notice to the state police and the Kane county sheriff as quickly as possible."

Johnson said that the eight runaways, the largest number to escape in over a year, will be kept for 30 days in a disciplinary cottage. There they lose all privileges, must shovel coal, and "stand on a line" for long periods as punishment.

Rodney Brandon, state director of public welfare and in charge of the institution, was out of the state. He and Sen. Gunning disagree on the policy of having guards and fences at the school, which houses dependent as well as delinquent youths.

3 HELD AS BURGLARS AFTER BEING SEIZED AT A FILLING STATION

Three men were charged with attempted burglary by Morgan Park police yesterday after they were arrested Saturday trying to break into a filling station at 10401 South Western avenue. The prisoners are Lester Hughes, 22 years old, 11130 South Christiana avenue; Harry J. Hossfield, 21, of 11349 South Western avenue, and George Ernst, 17, of 2328 West 112th place.

REPORT THREE ADMIT LOVERS' LANE HOLDUPS

Chief Lorenz Schey of the Lincolnwood police announced last night that three men seized earlier in the day had confessed half a dozen Lovers' Lane holdups on the north side and in the northern suburbs. The prisoners are Ernest Anderson, 20 years old, a warehouse worker, 1719 Lee street, Evanston; Charles Burns, 18, an automobile mechanic, 1215 Maple street, Evanston, and Chester Andrzejczak, 18, a garage helper, 1803 Greenleaf street, Evanston.

Policemen John Kuhl and William Haggerty arrested the men in a prairie near Lawndale and Columbia avenues, Lincolnwood. The prisoners, Chief Schey said, confessed that they had entered the prairie to rob a parked motorist. They had a toy revolver and an automatic pistol.

OPEN CAMPAIGN FOR REDUCTION OF ABORTIONS

A campaign to discourage the practice of abortions, which are a great factor in maternity mortality, was discussed by the Illinois Maternal Welfare society of the Illinois Medical society at its quarterly meeting in the Palmer House yesterday. Since the committee was organized five years ago, infant and maternal mortality has been reduced from 5.7 per 1,000 mothers to 2.8, said Dr. T. B. Williamson of Mount Vernon, chairman. The committee sponsors permanent maternal welfare headquarters in 101 counties.

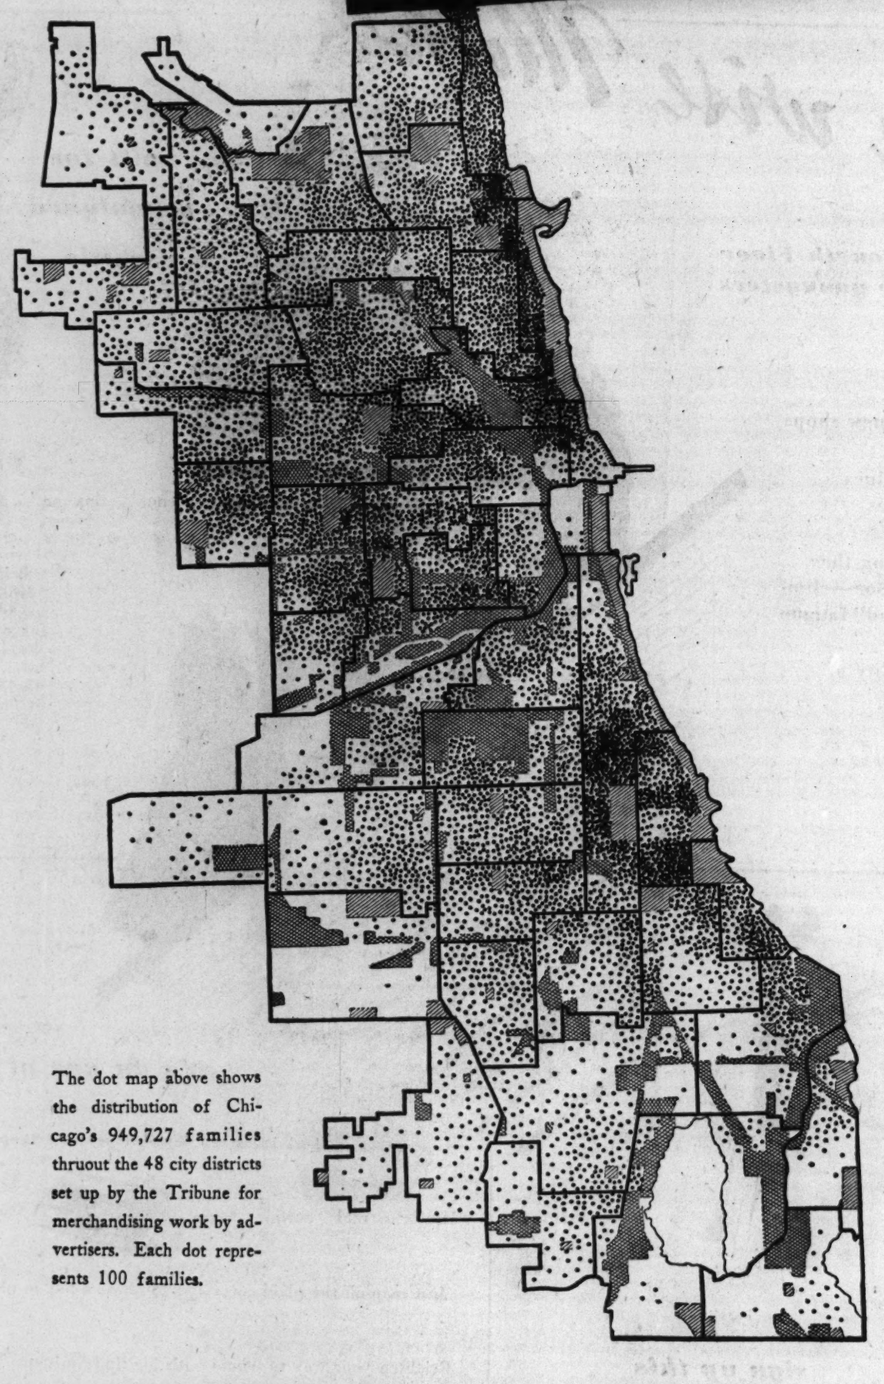
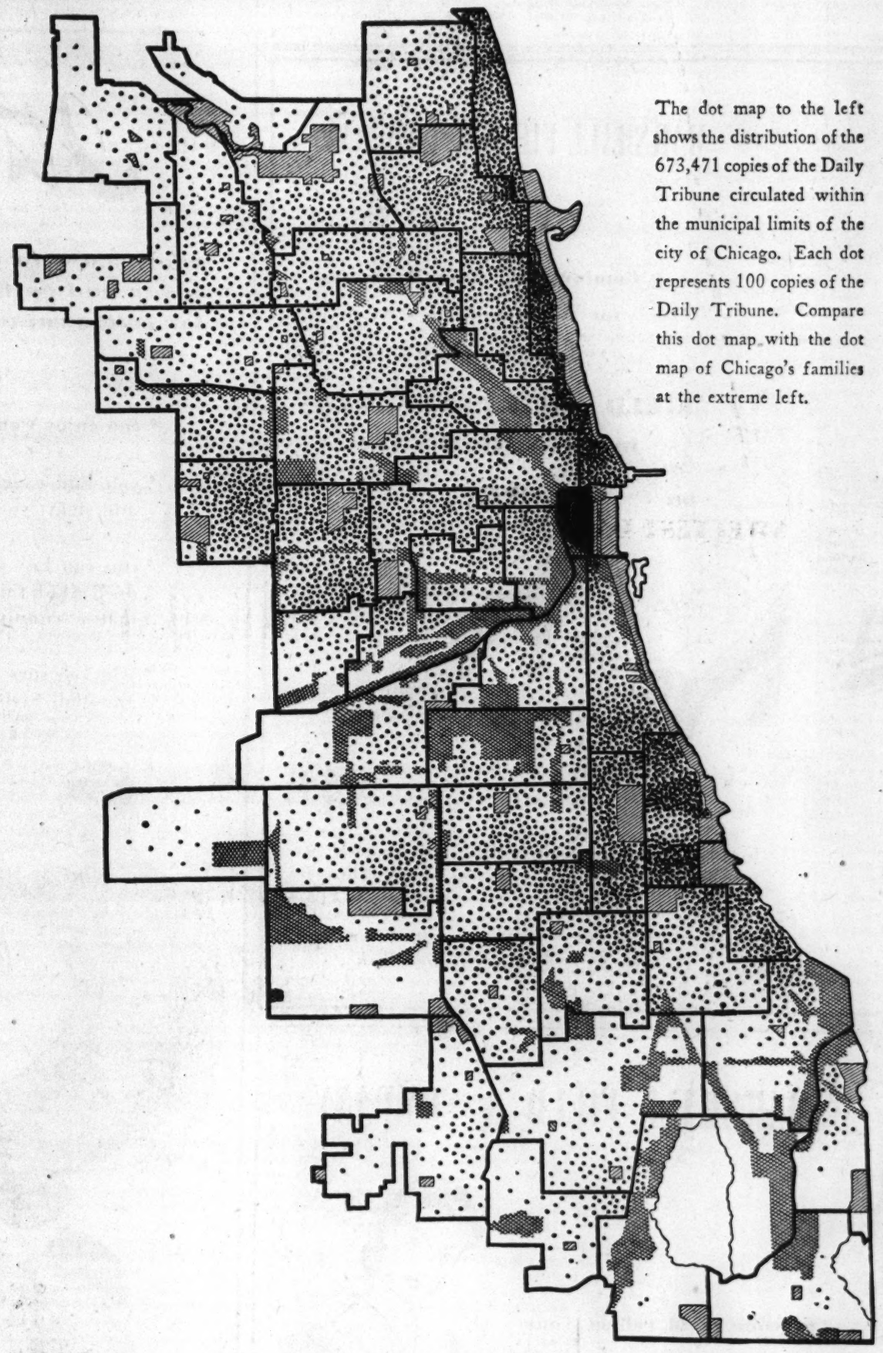
When you can have more —why take less?

Thru the Tribune's market-wide, all-income circulation, you can get your full share of the greater volume of sales available in the Chicago market



The dot map above shows the distribution of Chicago's 949,727 families thruout the 48 city districts set up by the Tribune for merchandising work by advertisers. Each dot represents 100 families.



The dot map to the left shows the distribution of the 673,471 copies of the Daily Tribune circulated within the municipal limits of the city of Chicago. Each dot represents 100 copies of the Daily Tribune. Compare this dot map with the dot map of Chicago's families at the extreme left.

The maps above show why you make the most of today's greater sales opportunities in Chicago when you base your drive on the Chicago Tribune. They show how the Tribune's full-market, all-income daily circulation penetrates every neighborhood within the municipal limits of Chicago.

The Tribune's presentation of the news, its vigorous editorial comment and its photos, features and comics appeal to people in all walks of life.

Right in the city of Chicago, the Tribune delivers from 325,000 to 365,000 more daily circulation than other Chicago daily newspapers. What is true in the city is true in the suburbs. On weekdays the Tribune delivers from 100,000 to 125,000 more suburban circulation than other Chicago daily newspapers—and more than any two other Chicago daily newspapers combined.

Move out beyond the immediate metropolitan district and the Tribune delivers from 145,000 to 195,000 more daily circulation than other Chicago daily newspapers—more than all other Chicago daily newspapers combined.

All told, the Tribune now delivers from 630,000 to 660,000 more total daily net paid than other Chicago daily papers—and more than any two others combined.

When you build your advertising program around the Tribune, you put your promotion in line with the volume of sales available in the various segments of this great market.

When you can have more, why take less? Tribune rates per 100,000 circulation are among America's lowest. Ask a representative or your advertising counsel to help you plan a program around the Tribune which can help you develop to the full your growing opportunities here.

Save Our Republic

QUOTING ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Majority Rule.

If the majority should not rule, who would be the judge? Where is such a judge to be found? We should all be bound by the majority of the American people; if not, then the minority must control. Would that be right? Would it be just or generous? Assuredly not. I reiterate that the majority should rule. If I adopt a wrong policy, the opportunity for condemnation will occur in four years' time. Then I can be turned out, and a better man with better views put in my place.

A. Lincoln

STEPS TOWARD SUICIDE.

The house foreign affairs committee got its orders from the White House and executed them without question. The administration majority has completely stifled any attempt to give the American people an honest discussion of Mr. Roosevelt's proposal to enter the war over the wreckage of the neutrality act.

The committee has voted to allow only two days of hearings on the legislation. The hearings, it is indicated, will largely be a star chamber session. New Deal officials supporting the measure are expected to monopolize the time, and what they say will not be made of public record. The measure will not stand public discussion and there is no disposition on the part of the committee to take that risk.

Minority members of the committee were overruled on every point in their efforts to obtain an adequate hearing on the tragic step which is contemplated. The operators of the steamroller told them, with a grin, that they could call as many witnesses as they pleased but that the witnesses would have to wait until the New Dealers have finished their testimony. The implication was obvious that they would wait in vain.

The chicanery by which it is contemplated to push this latest move toward war thru the house is openly confessed. The milder of two proposals involved is the arming of merchant ships. It is not planned to embody in the original bill the still more dangerous proposal to send those ships into the war zones and bring about the bloodshed by which the war mongers expect to make this nation an active and formal participant in the war. That is to be slipped into the bill in the senate after it has passed in its milder form by the house. Then when the house is asked to concur in the senate amendments it will have to reject the bill in toto or send it to a conference committee which the war mongers will control. The members of the house are aware of this scheme but they are doing nothing about it. They have ceased to be free agents.

The power of the national administration has become so great in the distribution of patronage, in the awarding of war contracts, and the denial of essential materials to factories in the various districts that Democratic members of congress have become mere salaried agents of Mr. Roosevelt's warbound political machine. That machine is being used ruthlessly to destroy politically those who still have the courage to oppose them.

Sen. Wheeler is currently unpopular in his home state of Montana. Well qualified political observers attribute this unpopularity not to his vigorous opposition to the war mongers, but to the fact that the flow of federal beneficences to the state has been shut off and its people have been given plainly to understand that it has been shut off because of Sen. Wheeler's refusal to knuckle under to the President.

The first step in the destruction of our republican institutions of government may be regarded, as of this date, as accomplished. The house of representatives has ceased to be a part of the government. It has abdicated its constitutional function of a deliberative assembly. It is of no more importance in the government of this country than the German reichstag and the Italian parliament are in registering the decrees of Hitler and Mussolini.

IT MADE NO DIFFERENCE TO THE PHEASANT.

On Sept. 8 a game warden, looking for persons who had been shooting game out of season and from the highway, heard a shot, drove around a turn in the road and came on two state highway policemen in possession of a dying pheasant.

The two policemen were arrested. After some delay they were brought to trial before a justice of the peace in Palatine. Their defense was that they hadn't shot the pheasant, but had seen it fall. Apparently they picked it up in the hope of nursing it back to health. The J. P. acquitted them after reading an opinion which would have done credit to a Chicago Municipal judge letting off a handbook proprietor.

One of the policemen has been fired. He was, in fact, fired before the pheasant met its unfortunate end, and his letter of dismissal was in the mail at that time. He was a Democratic appointee and the dismissal was apparently based on his having engaged in partisan political activity. The other policeman was a Republican appointee. He was suspended and then reinstated on Oct. 3.

It obviously didn't make any difference to a pheasant whether he was shot by a Democrat or a Republican. Neither is it any more pleasant to the people of Illinois to have their highways patroled by a Republican lawbreaker than by a Democratic lawbreaker. On the same evidence produced at the farcical hearing in Palatine, it seems probable, a civil service board would reach a different verdict.

DRONES IN THE HIVE.

A Chicago free employment agency that began with the generous offer of a man to help find work for several unemployed veterans has led to a back to work movement on the southwest side. More than 700 of 1,300 unemployed men and women interviewed within six months have been placed in jobs.

The enterprise shows what can be done for those who want to help themselves. They may need a little assistance and counsel, but if the will for work is present they can frequently find their way back to gainful employment with private business. The volunteer director of the agency reports that when he started talking to employers he found many more jobs than there were men to fill them.

In contrast to this system of community help is the attitude of the federal government. It has loaded the rolls of the WPA, the CCC, the NYA, and other agencies with dependents, and, having found them useful at election time, now makes no attempt to liberate them, even tho economic conditions warrant the assumption that there may soon be—if there is not now—a labor shortage.

The threat that these bondsmen may escape to private employment is recognized in the announcement of the WPA that a million WPA workers will receive an 8.5 per cent wage increase Nov. 1. The action suggests that further temptation is necessary to hold them. Instead of trying to raise wages and keep people on the rolls so that the bosses will have something to do, WPA ought to be out looking for jobs for them so that they can recapture their self-respect and be got off the dole.

AID TO RUSSIA.

Rep. Vito Marcantonio of New York City, the communists' little pal in congress, cast his first vote for an important defense measure when congress passed the second lend-lease bill after overriding efforts to bar aid to Russia from the 6 billion dollars appropriated.

As a passionate friend of soviet Russia, Congressman Marcantonio has no doubt familiarized himself with its productive and transportation facilities, and it may well be that he knew better than any of the others who backed the bill just how futile it is destined to be insofar as it will provide any effective weapons for the soviet armies. As a follower of the party line he would still have been in favor of the measure. The only end that will come of the vote to aid Russia will be to encourage the communist party to continue its destruction of American institutions. Whatever munitions we may make for Russia, we cannot deliver them in significant quantities. The roads are not open.

The British lost the natural trade route into Russia when they lost Greece. The Nazis hold the keys to the Dardanelles. On the northern front, Archangel is icebound and difficult of access, and Murmansk has been cut off by the Finnish advance. The only roads remaining to the senders of Russian assistance run thousands of miles across the sea and more thousands of miles into the back door of Russia by railroads that hardly deserve to be called such by American standards.

The lesser of the two rail routes which are open is that thru Iran, now under joint British and Russian occupation. Given six months, a hundred new locomotives and 3,000 freight cars, all of which would have to be manufactured in Great Britain or America, a transportation expert at Teheran, the Iranian capital, told E. R. Noderer of THE TRIBUNE'S foreign staff, daily deliveries over this rail route might be boosted to 1,500 or 2,000 tons daily. That tonnage is little more than a single, good sized American freight train will handle. With the present equipment it is impossible to move more than a hundred tons at a time over the steep mountain grades. This is the load for two good sized American box cars. There is still a 250 mile gap in this railroad, and work on this section has been completely disrupted by the Russians themselves, who have filled their occupied zone with communistic agents and made any commercial or industrial activity virtually impossible.

The other road to Moscow runs across the Pacific to Vladivostok and then some 5,700 miles along the Trans-Siberian railroad. The road is largely single track. The equipment is poor by American standards and in poor condition. Aside from failings in equipment and the road bed, other factors limit the use of the Trans-Siberian. One is port facilities for unloading ships at Vladivostok and the terminal facilities for the loading of trains there. Neither is extensive. A second and perhaps more important consideration is the fact that with the loss of wheat and coal in the Ukraine, a large part of the equipment on the Trans-Siberian railroad will necessarily have to be used to haul Siberian wheat and coal from the great Kuznetz basin to whatever portion of European Russia the soviets succeed in holding.

The value of the Trans-Siberian railroad can largely be judged by imagining how large an army could be sustained if its arms had to be landed at Savannah, Ga., hauled by single track railroad to Seattle, and thence southward to San Diego. That approximates roughly the Trans-Siberian haul, and it wouldn't support a very large army.

PRIORITIES.

[Providence Evening Bulletin.]

How standards of value change! Once an American citizen with 500 slaves was considered quite a boy. Now he'd be in jail. Once the man whose house was held together by nails was the envy of the community. Worse luck, the time may be near when he will be again. What's the defense housing coördinator going to do to the values we set on things? That's the question.

"Psst! Heard about old BooBoo Clarksen? He's got two new brass faucets on his laundry tubs."

"No!"

"Um. And his daughter's gonna marry a feller with copper coils in his heating system and a galvanized eaves trough."

"Son-of-a-gun!"

"Yep. And you heard about his wife?"

"No."

"Well. Her old man died and left her six cast iron sash weights and three brass elbows."

"Wow. What else you heard?"

"Plenty. You know that 90 acre farm BooBoo owned overlooking the bay?"

"Yeh."

"Traded it for a dozen hinges and eight feet of iron pipe."

"Smart."

"Smart's a whip. Told me he was workin' thru a couple of senators for six steel door knobs and some window fastenings."

"He'll get 'em, too."

"You said it. That boy's on the make. He'll have a complete house, practically, 'fore he dies."

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

MR. PEPYS TALKS SHOP.

12th Oct.—Am sometimes abused by my cynical cronies for putting verses into my column, and they declare they always skip the poems, and want to know who reads them; and I answer, "One reason why newspaper men become hermits is that every one tries to tell them how to do their work." Even the man at the adjoining desk proclaims himself a poetry hater because he had to read Robert Browning in college; but sometimes I interrupt him at his work and declaim verses to him with fine emphasis, and then he admits, "Maybe I have been missing something in life."

'All this to point a tale: Awhile ago I put into the column verses that some mischievous person had sent me, pretending they were original, whereas they were stolen from a well-known work. Now if the world was filled with poetry haters, nothing would have happened; but I promptly got 75 letters pointing out this frightful error, and almost as many telephone calls. A few of them were sarcastic, as if I should know by heart every jingle that has found its way into print; but most of them were kindly of intention, and I thank them. One man with whom I talked over the phone, said of the plagiarist, "Are there people like that?" and I answered, "Brother, the world is full of them."

Spent two hours the other night in reading galley proofs for my new Line Book, and two hours more in pasting up a dummy for the printer. Some day soon I shall spend three hours in standing by the printer, arranging the type in its final form. Then will come another two hours reading page proofs, after which I will say, "Take it away and have it ready for sale, bound up in a bright cover, on Thanksgiving day." I had thought to keep count of the total hours I have given to the book, but the score has escaped me. Yet they are many more than any one outside the craft would think.

THE TRAFFIC COP.

[Men About Town.]

The Traffic Cop, with glaring eye,
Intimidates each passer-by.
He stands so rigid and alert
It even makes my muscles hurt.
Away from home and after dark,
No matter where I turn or park,
My horn's too loud, my lights too dim,
And so I run afoul of him.
Altho I heed the signs, the lights,
And all the other traffic rites,
If he so much as looks at me
It wrecks my equanimity.
O, how I envy folks who know
Him well enough to call him "Joe."

Speaking of Mountaineers.

Mountains give one strange memories to treasure with the sweep and magnificence of peak and range: the scrape of a nailed boot on rock, the bell-like tone of a piton as it takes hold, the play of strong, honest rope in your hands, the sudden bite of a blizzard on a hard-won summit. You remember the rough brush of stone as you reach for a new hold and the almost psychic bond between you and your climbing mates—a faith given to no one else in the world. There's the clatter of boots on a calk-chewed floor and good talk around a fireside: tales of fine, arduous climbs; of pitches that will "go" and stories of alpine rescues.

And always there is the Peak, dominating scene and talk. After a few days in the high country one finds himself automatically adopting the habit of the guides—straining for a glimpse of the Peak by starlight, stopping for a long look at its shining slopes first thing in the morning, counting fresh snow furrows on the great East Face. Some, even among those who know it best, fear and hate the Peak [it claims about one life a year]; others take it in simply as a fine piece of scenery. And then there are others of us who have surrendered completely to its personality; who, never quite shaking off its spell, build a lifelong dream about its rocks and timber, its sweet green meadows; who make a return to it a homecoming.

"WITH HOW SAD STEPS, O, MOON."

This same moon shone on Nineveh, Sidon, and Tyre;
Under it, once, the towers of Ilium crimsoned with fire,
And Helen, braiding her long golden hair,
This same moon companioned Hagar while she wept
And on the sterile desert her age-old vigil kept;
It beckoned on to the winnowing floor
On Juliet's vial it laid rubies with pearl
Like drops from the heart of throstle or merle.
The moon is so ancient, her steps are so sad,

A Voice from the Auditorium.

The Auditorium has stood for much, and so it probably will have to take the rap for starting the china-painting fad [Oct. 2]. It will admit even a slight complicity in the Kensington craze, for history reveals that the theater's original and well-nigh fabulous drop-curtain included some of that needlework manifestation.

But let any one lay cozy corners, painted cattails, motto pillows or pyrography at the long-liked institution's door and its friends' protesting cries will be heard, with a favoring wind, for a minimum of eight miles.

HUT HAPPINESS.

Let men of pride rush madly on and on,

The hollyhocks are comrades I can trust;
The daisies never fail me in my need;
Content and health enhance my scanty crust,
Tho poor in gold, my soul is rich indeed.

CATARRH, OR CHRONIC NASAL IRRITATION.

FOR thousands of years, members of the human family have complained about, fussed over, and treated inflammation of the membranes within the airways, the sinuses, and the throat. Hippocrates described the "downward flow" of mucus when he gave us the word "catarrh," which means exactly that. But we cannot speak of this condition as a disease. It is merely a sign of irritation which has disturbed the normal behavior of the phlegm producing depots.

Most of us are victims at times. With every acute cold, outpourings from the nose may become profuse. Fortunate indeed are those who recover quickly and completely. With them, healing is heralded by the cessation of the discharge. But such a happy outcome may not follow. For the unlucky ones, a chronic state exists, wherein at intervals thruout the day the passages are drained by gusts of air or by expectorating a mass of thick, tenacious material.

So much is thrown off that one may wonder where it all comes from. We must not forget that the secreting lining includes not only the sinuses but a multitude of folds which lie within a space about three inches in height, one inch in width and three inches in depth. This rather extensive area is provided with numerous partitions [turbinates], covered with velvetlike tissues which are richly supplied with blood and which have the power of forming great quantities of viscid fluid.

Tiny whips on the surface force this excretion outward. If the air which is inhaled is dry it will withdraw moisture, with the result that the exudate may become thick and stringy. Some of it may actually dry into crusts within the nostrils.

Normally, the nasal passages appear moist and pink. But if bacteria bring on congestion, the natural shade will change to an angry, deep red. This points to the fact that the cells are overworked. In addition, the causative germs will manufacture toxins which, on absorption, may be responsible for malaise, increased fatigue, and even fever. In children, particularly, it is important to remember that some of the "corruption" will be swallowed. It is all laden with organisms and carries a high percentage of pus cells. It stands to reason, then, that a substantial amount of interference with digestion may ensue.

Prevention lies clearly in the avoidance of acute infections. And here the use of cold vaccines may be of value. But the persistence of the disturbance will bring on permanent changes which may actually interfere with health. In time, the lining may atrophy, or enlarged turbinate bones may harbor nests of organisms.

How much illness is caused from the absorption of pus from these regions cannot be stated definitely. On the other hand, it is clear that certain poisons may reach the circulation with a corresponding drop in physical reserve.

If drainage is hindered, putrefactive microbes may impart an offensive odor to the breath. There are individuals who are unfortunate enough to be cursed with an extremely foul discharge and, for them, special treatment with sex hormones has been devised.

The least we can do is to try to get rid of this cast-off material, so that breathing may be free. This may necessitate nasal irrigations. Either common salt or baking soda may be employed, one tablespoonful to a pint of wate.. The tip of a soft syringe is thrust along the floor of the nostril, with the head inclined forward slightly, and the bulb then pressed gently. This will wash away the objectionable substance and will not injure the delicate surfaces. Later, a bit of clear petroleum jelly may be inserted into each nostril. Enough of this preparation will find its way over the areas to prevent the formation of crusts. Furthermore, there is no danger that droplets will be inhaled as might be the case with a fluid oil.

Catch and manage skilfully every acute cold and we will be spared these "hang-on" maladies.

FLUID INTAKE.

G. H. writes: Should a man of 66, who is in good health, limit the amount of fluids taken?

REPLY.

Not unless there are clear cut indications. As a rule, water drinking is hygienic as many toxins will be eliminated thereby. However, in the presence of heart or blood vessel disease or marked swelling of the extremities, the omission of salt is suggested. At the same time, the amount of liquids is restricted. We must remember that all the fluids we swallow pass thru the circulation.

"IT'S HOT."

E. C. writes: Every now and then I burn my tongue. How can I avoid this annoying injury?

REPLY.

Look before you leap.

There is no virtue in swallowing boiling hot foods. Teaspoons for testing the temperature of liquids are still available. There is no remedy. The destroyed epithelial cells must be allowed time to heal.

UNDULANT FEVER.

K. C. writes: I am pregnant and my physician has just discovered that I have undulant fever. Will this affect the child? Will my health be made worse?

REPLY.

It should not, under good management. Let us hope that you have a mild attack.

NOT ALBUMIN.

P. M. B. writes: Does a rash on the ankles and legs indicate albumin in the urine?

REPLY.

OUR BOYS IN THE DEEP SOUTH.

Arcadia, La., Oct. 9.—To the mothers, wives, sisters, and sweethearts of the soldiers from the north:

Your boys have been in the Louisiana hills and swamps during the last month for army maneuvers. They are a strong, sturdy, healthy looking group of men.

We have had occasion to see them, when they were all "dressed up"—meaning they had had a bath, shave, and were wearing clean clothes; we have seen them when they were hot, sweaty, dirty, tired, and sleepy, wearing the same clothes they had worn for days.

We could see beneath all that. Our hearts went out to them. They are doing their part, most of them, in a spirit of good sportsmanship.

Here in our little town of 1,800 population, we felt that this was an opportune time to show the traditional "southern hospitality." From what I can learn this was the typical attitude taken by other towns in our state. A few examples: When the men were on sentry duty near our homes, the lady of the house served them refreshments or meals; all the way from cheese, crackers, and wild muscadine punch to fried chicken, hot rolls, homemade cake, and ice cream.

Your men received our courtesies in a gentlemanly way, were at all times appreciative of our efforts. In all my contacts, working in USO center, and as chairman of our recreational committee, I never saw a discourteous act or heard a discourteous word spoken by the soldiers. One of our local doctors stopped me on the street and expressed a desire for some one to write the people in Chicago and let you know what a fine bunch of men you sent down here in the 33d division. Of course a small community cannot offer a wide variety of entertainment to a group of 15,000 men who are bivouacked within a radius of 20 miles. However, cheerful greetings, invitations to dinner, to our homes, churches, and parties were extended in a most cordial manner to the greatest number we could entertain. On occasions when our committees sponsored parties, we took our own daughters to help entertain the men, many of whom mentioned the family or "girl" back home. From this experience may all of us gain a deeper understanding of our country and our fellow man.

MRS. P. E. BROWN,

DOUBLING UP ON US.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Is there any law against the cruel and unusual? I received from New York yesterday an appeal for a contribution for Bundles for Britain. Now I've grown to endure Eleanor and the boys with some degree of fortitude. But when I read the Bundles appeal and noted in the list of distinguished sponsors the name of Mrs. J. Roosevelt Roosevelt I tumbled off my balance. Isn't that just one too many? I ask you?

UNDIVIDED INTERESTS.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father died in La Salle, Ill., four years ago leaving eight heirs and the eight of us own a residence worth about $5,000. The bank in La Salle, being appointed administrator and at close of estate, still has the control of same.

1. Can I or any one of my brothers and sisters make a loan up to a certain amount of the one-eighth interest I own in this property from the bank?
2. Without any signatures to approve the loan from my brothers and sisters?
3. In other words, can I make a loan legally from the bank in my interest in this property?
4. I also would like to know in case of death of one of my brothers and sisters, could I sell this property in a petition of sale action regardless of this death?

J. E.

1. Ordinarily a bank does not look with favor upon an undivided interest as security since a partition suit would be necessary in order to raise cash on it. The best way to ascertain the attitude of the bank in question is to make the attempt.
2. Technically you can borrow on your one-eighth if you can find a lender that is satisfied.
3. See 1 and 2.
4. Yes, as to your share.

Where owners of undivided interests in real estate cannot agree, any one of them is entitled to force a division or a public sale of partition proceedings. The cost of such proceedings, including the complainant's solicitor's fees, are chargeable against the proceeds of sale.

THE REAL DUTCH INDIES.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—I went to the free illustrated lecture given for adults in the Field museum on Saturday. The lecture was titled: "The Netherlands East Indies—the tropical treasure chest of the Dutch empire."

I expected to hear something about the Dutch East Indies; their schools, administration, cultivation, factories, roads, buildings, cities, etc. About Javanese batik work, their brass carving, pottery making.

Instead, an outing to the top of an isolated mountain was described to us. Natives, who put up some peculiar dancing. The lecture gave the impression that the Netherlands Indies had just been discovered.

The Dutch people have been in these islands since 1595. The most beautiful roads, hotels, cities may be observed. Their coffee, tea, quinine, rubber, sugar plantations are among the best of the world. There is vegetable and flower cultivation in the mountains. Java rice is celebrated. One can find European, Chinese, and native schools. Also high schools and universities. Not one native is ignorant; they are taught by native teachers in their own language.

TEN WISHED-FOR REFORMS.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Reforms I would like to see in Chicago:

1. The people become more tree conscious.
2. Elimination of flooded viaducts.
3. Better street lighting.
4. Improved street car service.
5. Extermination of the millions of rats in our alleys.
6. Auto horns silenced completely.
7. Men over 40 accepted by employers.
8. Ten mile an hour speed limit thru alleys.
9. Larger branch libraries.
10. Reduction in movie prices.

Am I asking too much?

LET'S STRIKE THE BLOW HERE.

Pueblo, Colo., Oct. 8.—In a morning newspaper last Saturday there was the following headline: "U. S. Mission to Russia Strikes a Heavy Blow for Religion."

Query: Would it not be better for this country—which should be the first in our hearts and minds—if the powers that be at the national capital would stop squandering billions of money to promote mass murder and "Strike a Heavy Blow for Religion in the United States of America"?

Scott Field, Belleville, Ill., Oct. 10.—A vote of thanks from the six boys in barracks A29, whose letter you published in last Wednesday's paper. The response was more than gratifying. You may rest assured each letter received was and will be answered.

ALAS, POOR FINLAND.

Sheboygan, Wis., Oct. 10.—"In the desperate fight being waged in the arctic circle there is more at stake than the lives and land of the Finns. A vital flank of world democracy is under fire. If the huge Russian war machine crushes Finland it will—with the assistance of Germany—lumber on across Scandinavia, gaining momentum as it rolls. The intimidated Scandinavian states, the preoccupied allies, and the gun shy United States all recognize the salient point. Finland must not lose!"

The above paragraph was taken from the March 12, 1940, issue of Look magazine.

Ah yes, true Americans all recognize the salient point — "Finland must not lose." Fellow Americans, do not mind if the great humanitarian and his hand picked New Dealers have a salient point of their own. It goes something like this: "Help preserve democracy and what have you in Russia. Russia must not lose."

THE MEANEST PENNY THIEF.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Meet Chicago's meanest sneak thief. He steals one penny every other day [when the newsboy is not at his stand]. He picks up THE TRIBUNE and pays 1 cent. In the last two years his peculations have been actually observed at least 50 times by the undersigned, yet he continues. A careful count of the pennies on the stand before and after his purchase of the paper always reveals the fact that he has paid not more than 1 cent for his paper. He carefully avoids displaying his penny, always covering the coin with his hand and pushing the other coins around so that his purchase cannot be observed. The newsstand is at Avondale station of the North Western.

TOWNSHIP ASSESSOR'S JOB.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—In reference to a complaint on inequalities in personal property assessments from "A Disgusted Taxpayer," Elmwood Park:

The writer is mistaken in attributing these valuations to the assessor's office. They were determined by the Leyden township assessor, an officer elected by voters of that township. The law gives him certain authority on the theory that a local officer would be familiar with property values in his particular community.

Test Your Horse Sense

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 29.

1. Which one of these types of cheese is made of sheep's milk?
   American Swiss Cottage Roquefort.
2. A smock is the characteristic garment of a
   Carpenter Engineer Artist Aviator.
3. Which type of retail establishment would most likely advertise its cuisine? Restaurant Beauty parlor Shoe store Drug store.
4. A ligature would most likely be employed in the daily work of a Barber Chef Engineer Doctor.
5. A selvage is normally of most interest to a
   Plumber Printer Artist Housewife.
6. Two hikers stopped at the side of the road to have lunch. The first hiker produced five sandwiches while the second one provided three sandwiches. As they prepared to dine, a third hiker came along. He didn't have any sandwiches so the other two generously invited him to dine with them, which he did. They divided their food equally. To show his appreciation, however, the third hiker contributed eight nickels to his companions, saying that they should divide the money in such a manner that they would be equitably reimbursed for the sandwiches which each had contributed. They did so. How many nickels did the first hiker take and how many went to the second hiker?

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

H. M. DAUGHERTY, U. S. EX-ATTORNEY GENERAL, IS DEAD

Columbus, O., Oct. 12 (AP).—Harry M. Daugherty, 81 years old, former attorney general of the United States and a confidant of President Warren G. Harding, died in his sleep today after a year's illness.

H. M. Daugherty.

Daugherty predicted Harding's nomination for President in 1920, sat in a conference where Republicans agreed upon the candidacy of the Marion, O., publisher, and managed Harding's successful campaign for office.

Daugherty was stricken in October, 1940, by two heart attacks and pneumonia while writing a book to explain "political attacks" on him. The book was unfinished when he died.

Daughter at Bedside.

At his bedside in his apartment were his daughter, Mrs. Emily B. Rarey of Columbus; his brother, Mal S. Daugherty, a retired banker of Washington Courthouse, O.; his physician, and two nurses. His wife, an invalid, died in 1924 and their son, Capt. Draper M. Daugherty, died in 1930. Services will be conducted here at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday, with burial at Washington Courthouse, Daugherty's birthplace.

Daugherty served three turbulent years as attorney general after Harding's election.

During that period and for seven years thereafter he defended himself against allegations involving such cases as the Teapot Dome oil scandals, veterans' bureau irregularities, alien property conspiracies, the pardoning of Charles W. Morse and Eugene V. Debs, and political-business deals.

His Summary of Career.

He never was convicted of anything, and in summing up his career in January, 1940, remarked:

"What I did . . . was done in the interest of the American people and my action was sustained by the courts. Notwithstanding the abuse I received, I can say now that, given the same circumstances, I would not change an official or personal act of mine while I was attorney general. That's a clear conscience for you."

He returned to the practice of law after leaving the attorney general's post, retiring in 1932.

Daugherty was graduated from the University of Michigan law school and began his political career as a city councilman in Washington Courthouse.

GAS STATIONS WHICH VIOLATE 'ICKES LAW' HIT

New York, Oct. 12 [Special].—The federal government is taking indirect action against retail gasoline dealers not observing the 7 p. m. to 7 a. m. curfew, Nathan Gelfer, president of the Gasoline Station Council of metropolitan New York, said today.

Altho the curfew is not a law, the government is notifying distributors that their priority status will suffer if they supply stations violating it, Gelfer said. He said he knows of two filling station operators whose supply had been shut off for violating the curfew.

The curfew was imposed by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, acting in his capacity as petroleum coördinator. A gasoline shortage, Ickes said, threatened the east because of the diversion of oil tankers to the British war effort. A senate committee recently found that no shortage existed.

Boat That Sank in River 8 Years Ago Is Raised

The decks of the 76 foot sailing yacht Fiesta saw the light of day yesterday for the first time in nearly eight years. Owners of the boat found it one morning on the bottom of the Chicago river near 24th and Halsted streets, with about 15 feet of mast marking its grave. A few weeks ago a passing scow broke off even that vestige. Robert Hancock, a Chicago diver, has been at work several months salvaging the boat, and yesterday had the decks above water once more.

Boone as Edward Hurley Jr., 18, the driver; Leslie Williams, 24; Mrs. Margie Barger Osborne, 17, and Loraine Halcomb, 18, all of Hamilton.

[ADVERTISMENT]

Milk Mixture for Stomach Ulcers

A recent medical discovery now being used by doctors and hospitals everywhere has proven unusually successful in the treatment of stomach ulcers caused from excess acid. It is a harmless preparation yet so effective that in many cases the pains of stomach ulcers disappear almost immediately after it is used. Also recommended for gas pains, indigestion and heartburn due to hyperacidity. Sufferers may now try this at home by obtaining a bottle of Lurin from their druggist. Lurin contains this new discovery in its purest form. Easy to take. Just mix two teaspoonfuls in a half glass of milk. Costs but little. Try a bottle, it must satisfy or money refunded. Lurin for sale by Walgreens, Stineway and drug stores everywhere.

DEMANDS STUDY OF FCC POWERS IN RADIO ORDER

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12 (AP).—Sen. Wallace H. White Jr. [R., Me.], today urged congress to determine beyond question whether the Federal Communications commission exceeded its authority in issuing so-called anti-monopolistic regulations covering chain broadcasting networks.

Sen. W. H. White Jr.

The regulations, originally issued in May, were amended yesterday. White told reporters he was not concerned with whether the amendments were desirable but that he doubted the commission's power to prescribe either the original rules or the amendments.

In yesterday's order the commission suspended indefinitely a rule requiring the National Broadcasting company to dispose of one of its two networks, increased the licensing period of standard radio stations from one to two years, and placed the proposed rules in effect Nov. 15.

BAR ASSOCIATION GIVES REPORT ON JUDGE NOMINEES

Rates 4 'Exceptional' and 6 Undesirable.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Here are the findings of the Chicago Bar association as to the qualifications and fitness of the Democratic and Republican nominees for the 21 seats on the Superior court of Cook county to be filled at the election of Nov. 4:

Four of the sitting judges are exceptionally well qualified.

Fifteen other nominees are well qualified.

Another 15 are qualified.

Two candidates are only fairly qualified.

Six of the sitting judges—three because of advanced age or physical infirmity—should not be reëlected.

Some Additional Findings.

In addition, the association has found all of the four nominees for two Municipal court vacancies qualified. It declares one of the candidates for chief justice exceptionally well qualified, and one of the nominees for associate justice it pronounces well qualified.

These are the outstanding facts in the printed report of the association's committee on candidates which will go to the members today along with their ballots for the customary indorsement primary. The committee consists of 25 leaders of the Chicago bar, including most of the former presidents of the association.

Many Hours of Study.

The report is submitted by the board of managers, which has 17 members, and which, like the committee on candidates, spent many hours of study and discussion on the verdicts because it is felt the situation this year is critical. The coalition method is under attack and the question of retirement age has been made prominent.

Members' ballots must be returned before 4 p. m. next Monday and will be counted that day. The 21 candidates for the Superior court receiving the most votes will be indorsed, as will the winners in the two man contests for chief justice and associate judge of the Municipal courts to fill vacancies.

The Democratic ticket includes all the sitting judges whose terms expire. Seven of them are Republicans. It also includes a Republican for the city court associate judgeship.

Table of Findings.

Ward Highly Praised.

All of the nominees for the Superior court on the Democratic ticket are sitting judges with the exception of State Senator Harold G. Ward, whom the report praised with emphasis believed unprecedented for a nonincumbent.

Since these are vacancies, all the four candidates for the Municipal court are new men. Here the verdicts favored the two nominees on the Democratic ticket. Acting Chief Justice Edward S. Scheffler was found exceptionally well qualified and his Republican opponent, Lionel G. Thorsness, was classified as well qualified.

The nominee for associate judge on the Democratic ticket, a former judge of this court, Samuel Heller, is a Republican. He is rated as well qualified. The Republican nominee, Edwin W. Burch, is pronounced qualified.

These formal verdicts of the association have been used in its reports for years. Each one appears at the close of the section dealing with each candidate's record, particularly in the field of law, and closing with the comment of the committee on candidates based on its investigations of all the aspirants.

The biographies of the candidates are now appearing in THE TRIBUNE in the order in which their names will appear on the ballot. Here in alphabetical order, condensed only slightly and in a manner not to destroy any of the meaning, are the comments on all of the candidates for the Superior court, repetition of the final verdict, which appeared in the tabulation above, being omitted in some instances:

Judicial Candidates

BY PERCY WOOD.

(This is another in a series of sketches of the nominees for the Cook county judicial election of Nov. 4. They are being published in the order in which the candidates' names will appear on the ballot.)

REPUBLICAN.

Frederic W. Heineman.

Frederic W. Heineman, at 33, is the youngest candidate either party is presenting in the Superior court election. His name will appear eighth in the Republican column on Nov. 4.

Heineman, born and educated in Illinois, is a native Chicagoan and attended Bernard grammar and Morgan Park High schools. He was graduated from the University of Illinois law school with the degree of doctor of jurisprudence in 1931 after obtaining high scholastic honors.

Admitted to practice in October, 1931, Heineman has been associated with the firm of Miller, Gorham, Wescott & Adams since, and has been active on committees of the Chicago Bar association, including the body which concerns itself with the Municipal court.

Formerly president of the Young Republican club of the 19th ward, Heineman is now chairman of the board of governors and has for three years been a member of the executive committee of the Cook County Young G. O. P. organization. He has also been active in civic groups in his section of the city.

DEMOCRATIC.

Judge R. C. O'Connell.

Judge Robert C. O'Connell, a Republican placed on the bench in the coalition election of 1935, holds eighth place on the Democratic ticket for reëlection to the Superior court on Nov. 4. At 47 he has held public legal positions for almost 20 years.

Born in Chicago, Judge O'Connell attended John Marshall High school, studied at Northwestern university and was graduated from Loyola university law schools in 1919. The same year he was named an assistant corporation counsel, remaining for two years in that post until he became an assistant state's attorney. In 1927, while still on the county prosecutor's staff, Judge O'Connell was placed on the Municipal bench by the late former Gov. Len Small to fill a one year vacancy.

From 1929 to 1935 Judge O'Connell was a master in chancery of the Superior court and was named for judge on the coalition slate the latter year.

During his six year term on the bench the judge has had much experience in the divorce courts and has also taken a deep interest in parole reform, aiding in the drafting of a bill to curb the power of the parole board.

'DAY by DAY on the FARM' by GAIL COMPTON

Growth of Trees.

Oct. 12, 1941.

HOW fast a tree grows and what factors influence its rate of growth was the topic of conversation in the greenhouse at the Du Page county farm the other day.

The subject was brought up when one of the workers observed that nut bearing trees seemed to be slow growers, and wondered if the energy needed to produce the nuts didn't slow down the tree's growth.

The head gardener conceded that most nut bearing trees do grow slowly, but added that the production of nuts was not the main factor in determining the tree's rate of growth. Trees that bear nuts and fruits would seem to require excess energy to produce them, he said, but if they do it does not make them grow more slowly. Pecan trees will produce nuts in their second year, the gardener said, and some fruit trees will produce well in the fourth or fifth years.

Others Take Longer.

Other nut bearing trees, on the other hand, may require 10 or more years before they produce enough nuts to be used commercially.

The rate of a tree's growth is definitely correlated to the texture of its wood. A soft, coarse textured wood is found in trees that grow rapidly. Slow growing trees generally have a hard, fine grained wood. Experts indicate that the softness or hardness of a tree's wood is perhaps one of the main factors in its rate of growth.

An example of this can be found among the maples. The silver maple is a rapid growing tree possessing a soft wood. The sugar maple, on the other hand, has a tough wood, and grows much more slowly than its cousin. If 3 inch saplings of each type were planted at the same time under similar conditions, at the end of 20 years the silver maple would measure about 21 inches in diameter, while the sugar maple would be only about 13 inches.

Difference in Walnuts.

The black walnut tree, so familiar in Illinois, grows much more rapidly than the English walnut. Yet both are hard wood, nut bearing trees. Soft wood trees such as the cottonwood, box elder, American elm, and pine trees grow very rapidly.

The stigma of "slow grower" has been attached to most nut bearing trees because they fall into the hard wood class. The oaks, hickories, and walnuts develop slowly, but the chestnuts, on the other hand, are not such slow growers.

Within the chestnut family itself a distinction may be found in rate of growth. The ordinary chestnut develops rather slowly, while the Ohio buckeye is considered a fairly rapid grower. A 3 inch chestnut sapling will measure about 13 or 14 inches in diameter after 20 years of growth, while the Ohio buckeye will beat this by several inches.

SLEEP SICKNESS VIRUS IS FOUND IN MOSQUITOES

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 12 (AP).—Laboratory tests confirming a theory that mosquitoes can carry the virus of American sleeping sickness or encephalitis are reported by scientists of the University of California's Hooper Foundation.

They found the disease organisms in mosquitoes from Yakima, Wash., center of an area in which more than 100 persons have died from the infection.

As yet there is no evidence that the mosquito transmits the disease to human beings. The foundation reported tests were under way to determine specifically whether animals bitten by infected mosquitoes would become ill.

There are two kinds of virus which cause the disease. One is the organism of St. Louis encephalitis, which caused an epidemic in the Missouri city several years ago. The other is the virus of western equine encephalo-myelitis, which has appeared in California's central valley and in other parts of the west since 1935. Both types of virus were found in the Yakima mosquitoes.

Bishop W. E. Conkling Talks at Anniversary of Redeemer Church

Bishop Wallace E. Conkling of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago, yesterday preached the 50th anniversary sermon of the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer, Blackstone avenue and 56th street. He told the congregation that most people would find their reasons for going to church "principally selfish," with too few attending for the primary purpose of the worship of God. The Rev. Dr. Edward S. White, rector of the church, celebrated the jubilee eucharist.

New Long Glove Is Last Word in Arm Covering

BY REA SEEGER.

To introduce drama with emphasis on the drama to any of your sleek streamlined daytime dresses, try the breath taking new long gloves. They're expensive, honestly so, for with a pair of these beauties you can contrive a costume to make every one turn and look twice, sometimes thrice. They are gloves that, when smoothed out to the last lovely inch, will reach your shoulders; crushed thickly and luxuriously, they will extend above the elbow; crushed more thickly, they cover your arms below the elbow.

Such gloves are the answer as to what to wear with the many just-below-the-elbow-length sleeves, the gloves to wear over simple fitted sleeves of a Puritan-plain but smart daytime wool dress, or with those seven-eighths length sleeves in fur jackets and coats.

The new gloves are of supple, beautiful doeskin, exquisitely made. Every inch is hand sewn, and they fit as gloves should fit, smoothly, not too loosely, yet not too tight. They are the last word in luxury in appearance and they'll wear and wear with proper care.

Three colors—ink black, petunia red, and emerald green—provide the necessary contrast for any wardrobe, to be worn for dress parade daytime costumes or with dinner clothes or evening gowns. Those three shades have been carefully keyed so that any costume color will blend, harmonize, or compellingly contrast. As the dashing color accent for fur jackets and as the only color visible with a dark ensemble for day or evening, the petunia red and emerald green tones can't be equaled. The black affairs provide that inimitable snap that soft black always achieves with pastels, brilliant colors, or sophisticated shiny black gowns.

Invalid Child Needs Stroller; Can You Help?

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

If some reader on the southwest side has a sturdy stroller she no longer needs, we would like to have it for an invalid child.

The youngster is 4 years old, and under clinic care for a spastic paralysis of both legs which makes it impossible for her to walk. She is now too heavy for her mother to carry her about, and therefore has little, if any, opportunity to get out of doors.

The child is not large but is, of course, heavier than a youngster of the age which would ordinarily require a stroller. However, any conveyance which is reasonably strong and in good condition would serve.

The father is out of the home and gives the family no support. The mother cannot provide a stroller for the child as she is dependent upon public relief.

The family lives in a very poor district on the south side of the city, but the case worker will arrange transportation if any reader can provide the needed item.

"Dear Miss Brown: I wonder if any reader has a battery radio set which he no longer needs. We, my mother and I, are living in the country, without gas or electricity, and we miss a radio so much.

"My mother has had a severe stroke and has cataracts on both eyes. I am unable to leave her, so I cannot work or purchase a set for her. She is unable to sew or read, and a radio would be a great diversion for her. Would you please try to help us?

"V. B."

The name and address will be supplied to any interested reader.

THE STAGE

"Louisiana Purchase," the first musical comedy of the autumn, opens an engagement at the Erlanger theater tonight. The principal performers are Vera Zorina, William Gaxton, Victor Moore, and Irene Bordoni. Irving Berlin wrote the musical score, and Morrie Ryskind the book. The show was produced by B. G. De Sylva, producer of "Du Barry Was a Lady."

James Hargis Connelly opened his attractive and well equipped little playhouse, seating 75 people, in the Kimball building last night. His amateur players, assisted by Eva Fitz-Gerald, presented the first performance of "Rat Holler," a Carolina mountain play by Mr. Connelly and Anthony Kerr. The play will be repeated on the next three Saturday and Sunday evenings.

Signs Point to Finis of This Betrothal

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"I am 32 years old and have been engaged for three years. My fiancé and I planned to be married in September, but several months ago we had an argument which developed into many bitter words and accusations, mostly on my part. Originally, I had reason to be angry, but I lost my temper. Consequently, we parted.

"I thought of him constantly. A month passed. I couldn't eat or sleep, so I telephoned him. I took all the blame. We both agreed that we needed each other more than ever.

"Ever since then we have seen each other, but he now acts very indifferent, sometimes cruel and belittling. He never mentions marriage nor does he show any interest in what I do, or might want to do.

"The last time I saw him he casually stated that he didn't know when he could see me again, for he would be busy for some time.

All signs seem to indicate that the man no longer loves you. Apparently, his love was not strong enough to forgive you when you were gracious enough to apologize first. His resentment has gone so far that he treats you in a way to cause you deep hurt. Perhaps his motive in doing so is to make you be the one to terminate the engagement. It's an old trick, and not a nice one. The decent thing for him to do would be to put his cards on the table and tell you that he wants to be released from his engagement. Since he has not done so, you have no choice except to take the initiative and return his ring.

Consider yourself fortunate that you found out, before you married him, how he could treat you. You can forget him if you will try. The best way to do it is to busy yourself with as many interests as possible, and to go out with other men as often as you can.

Skirt Fashions Require Legs to Be Lovely

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Too little has been said about leg grooming, now that skirts are shorter. Some evening dresses are made with the skirt daringly slit to the knee, so that you can't depend on long skirts to escape a critical eye.

Attention is being focused on stockings these days. Whatever the hosiery vogue may be, of one thing we may be fairly certain: We either have legs that we'd like to be more shapely, or legs that need more grooming.

Before we suggest good leg-shaping exercises, we want to mention the superflous hair that detracts from the beauty of legs. You may be one of those fortunate women with just a few hairs that may easily be bleached to invisibility, but if you've a lot of unsightly hairs, we urge you to remove them as often as necessary.

Now for the exercises. Here is one that is excellent for symmetry, whether your legs are too thin or too stout. Stand, feet together, hands on hips. Rise on toes, keeping feet together, then sink to squatting position. Up on toes again, feet flat on floor. Ten times. Another exercise [reducing] is to lie on side, rest head on arm, bring knee up under chin, ten times with toes turned up and back, and ten times with toes down. Repeat with other leg.

"Custom made" makeup, by which we mean makeup designed expressly for the individual and in relation to the colors she chooses to wear, is a grooming luxury more women could afford to indulge in. The results are worth the effort involved, as we discovered the other day when we watched a fastidious, ultrachic woman in a makeup salon.

She had brought swatches of material with her—gorgeous stuff, in exquisite, subtle colors, and she chose her lipstick, eye shadow, and powder with the fabrics held close to her face while she and an expert deliberated long and carefully.

Her most interesting costume, apparently, was keyed to the purple tones and it was fascinating to see how the precisely right makeup shades made her 'costume choice more glamorous than ever. The wrong red with that color would have been fatal. She was wise enough and painstaking enough to seek out the right one.

It occurred to us that more women who put thought and lots of money into their clothes should do this. If it's glamor and chic they're after—and they usually are when they are so clothes conscious—why not follow thru with the same care in selecting the powder and lipstick tone that insure perfect and dramatic accord with the costume color? Why not try on makeup, if you can, as you try on a hat or a gown, preferably WHILE you're trying on the hat or gown? ELEANOR NANGLE.

2 Engagements Are Announced on North Shore

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE engagements of Miss Mary Walsh to Silas Burnham Yates and of Miss Eleanor Vidmer Aleshire to Ira Barton Cook II. were among the chief topics of conversation at two gatherings over the week-end on the north shore. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Walsh announced their daughter's engagement at a tea yesterday in their home in Winnetka. The day before a group of young people had dropped into the Raymond Capron Cooks' Evanston home after the football game to learn of Miss Aleshire's betrothal to the Cooks' only son. She is the daughter of Col. and Mrs. Joseph Page Aleshire of Evanston.

Miss Walsh attended Dana hall and Connecticut college, where she received her degree last June. She made her debut in 1939 at a tea in her parents' home, followed by a dinner-dance at the Glen View club. She is a provisional member of the Chicago Junior league. She has a sister, Mrs. Robert Hunt of Evanston [Florence Walsh], and a brother, Arthur, a student at Princeton.

Mother Attends Party for Son's Engagement.

Mr. Yates, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Yates of Lincoln, Neb., is a graduate of Leland Stanford university and is in business in Chicago. His mother was here for yesterday's party.

Miss Aleshire and Mr. Cook already have decided to be married on Nov. 29 in the First Presbyterian church of Evanston. They will live in Evanston while Mr. Cook is on duty with the naval reserve here. Miss Aleshire, the granddaughter of Gen. and Mrs. George Vidmer of Mobile, Ala., and of the late Gen. and Mrs. James B. Aleshire, attended Northwestern university. Her fiancé, who attended the Hill school, is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ira Barton Cook and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander L. Dewar. He has three sisters, Mrs. Peter Grieve and Miss Mary Cook, who are in Evanston, and Mrs. David Parsons of East Dorset, Vt.

Another interesting engagement announcement is one Col. and Mrs. Raymond W. Hardenbergh of New York are making. Their daughter, Sue, is engaged to Lieut. Walter Anthony Butkus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Butkus of Yale avenue. Col. Hardenbergh is with the export control division of the Economic Defense board. Lieut. Butkus is in the medical corps of the United States army. Miss Hardenbergh is a niece of Mrs. Ayres Boal of Winnetka, Mrs. Hardenbergh and Mrs. Boal being sisters.

The annual visit of Mrs. Mary Breckinridge of the Frontier Nursing service always is a signal for the Chicago committee of the service to start planning a gala day. This year Mrs. Breckinridge will be in Chicago on Nov. 3 and will speak at 3 o'clock at the Casino. Before her talk Mrs. Donald R. McLennan will give a luncheon at the Casino for the visitor and directors of the Chicago committee, of which Mrs. McLennan is president.

Novelist to Be Guest of William Moultons.

It's usually exciting to have a "literary lion" as house guest, but for Mr. and Mrs. William A. Moulton the event will be doubly interesting. Their guest during the next two weeks will be Mrs. Moulton's sister, Mrs. J. Lee Bausher of Reading, Pa., whose first novel, "One Red Rose Forever," recently came off the press. Mrs. Bausher writes under her maiden name of Mildred Jordan, and it is by that name that her family's friends will remember her as a child here and as a pupil at the Stickney school.

Mrs. Bausher arrives today, and this afternoon Mrs. Moulton will give a large tea for her in Kenilworth. Next Sunday is being reserved by the Moultons for a dinner for 40 or 50 guests. Between the parties that will be crowding her calendar here Mrs. Bausher will be autographing copies of her novel for literary groups and enjoying a reunion with former Wellesley classmates. On Thursday Mrs. James Shakman will entertain at luncheon for her at Camellia house.

The mother of four children, Mrs. Bausher spent years collecting material for her book, which tells the story of "Baron" Stiegel, the glassmaker of prerevolutionary days. Before receiving her degree from Wellesley she studied for a year at Northwestern.

The Moultons recently had another visitor, their daughter, Mrs. Vincent D. Andrus. The former Dorelle Moulton and her husband are trying to build a new house in Greenwich, Conn., but because of building uncer-

Theater Filled to Hear Music of 18th Century

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Handel and Mozart have not much in common except that they both lived in the 18th century [as Mendelssohn and Wagner did in the 19th!] but they were neatly and attractively packaged together yesterday and their music made the subject of the second concert of the three concert festival of ancient music.

A sold out Goodman theater heard the Manuel and Williamson Harpsichord ensemble and assisting artists present a miscellany of vocal and instrumental music fluently and competently and in a manner which, except for puzzling changes noted later, closely approximated the original.

The enormous dignity of Handel's style was most apparent in the F major concerto from Opus 4 and the G minor from Opus 3. Here were opportunities to exult in the grandeur of the Handelian architecture, with its rugged balanced phrases bearing each other's stresses with easy strength, and its clear, just line drawing all the parts together into a comprehensible whole.

As to Mozart, one of the afternoon's best examples of the exquisite contours and textures characteristic of the composer came in the slow movement of an utterly unfamiliar fantasy which represented a transcription for harpsichord of a piece originally written for barrel organ! The 18th century barrel organ was not the monkey equipped instrument which fills our city streets with such delight on the first warm noons of spring, but it was obviously not a very high form of musical life. We can understand why Mozart salvaged his beautiful piece and made it into a four hand work for keyed instrument. It was played on two harpsichords yesterday for the sake of greater independence and clarity in the parts.

Another interesting Mozart item yesterday was Bruce Foote's singing of "Now Your Days of Philand'ring Are Over," from "The Marriage of Figaro." Foote's light baritone fits the Mozart style as an old slipper the foot, and he received an ovation at the conclusion of the air.

As to the changes from 18th century procedure, there was the substitution of an oboe for a violin [which was readily available] in a Mozart trio, and the use of the 20th century electric organ in the Handel G minor concerto grosso. The reasons for these decisions elude an outsider.

Besides the works already mentioned, yesterday's program offered two movements of a Handel suite for two harpsichords, Mozart's "The Old Woman" [changed to "The Old Man" because young Foote was the "I" of the song], arias from Handel's "Floridante" and "Berenice," and a Mozart sonata for harpsichord.

In addition to Miss Lane and Mr. Foote, yesterday's performers were Philip Manuel and Gavin Williamson, harpsichordists; Leonard Sorkin and Oscar Chausow, violinists; Milton Preves, violist; Dudley Powers, cellist, and Florian Mueller, oboist.

My coeducation friend,

In the air
There is a great twittering

Down in Benld, Ill.

Travelers downstate who have visited the mining town of Benld, Ill., tell of a pair of entertainers in one of the taverns of the town who deserve a wider audience. The lad, a youngster in his early twenties, works in the mines days, sorting slate as the coal goes past him on a conveyor, and at night plays boogie woogie that is reminiscent of Fats Waller. The girl, a buxom lass proud of her high school diploma, sings in the manner of the late Helen Morgan. All of which we found interesting, but it is the name of the town that lingers in our mind. The spelling looks wrong. It is so spelled to coincide with the townsfolk's pronunciation, we were told. In that case, what was the spelling originally, and where did the name Benld come from?

Parlor Game.

If you walk into a friend's drawing room after dinner when there is a party going on and find two people flat on the floor with quarters on their noses, it's a parlor game that has been revived. The idea is to wiggle the coin off the nose. No facial contortions allowed other than nose wiggling. Miss Cornelia Otis Skinner, who in public performances is packing the house in Theater, introduced the game at a recent party in Chicago. Not new, she says. She first saw Beatrice Lillie and the Spanish ambassador doing it at a party in Washington before the war.

Euclid Unknown.

A firm in Chicago recently had received orders from an Indiana town for bases for baskets that would indicate Euclid was unheard of, according to our bulletineer. One order read:

3 oval basket bases, 4x6.
And another:
3 oval basket bases, 4x6.

SYNOPSIS.

Gay Ripley, young American girl sent to Paris by a New York firm to buy antiques, runs into her Cousin Lou, who is Mrs. Hiram Rentrew, a rich widow. Cousin Lou insists Gay stay with her but soon after Gay moves in, Cousin Lou is taken to a hospital, ill, and Gay is left in the apartment with her cousin's brother-in-law, Horace, and the servants, Manx and Hortense. Gay visits her cousin in the hospital and meets Miles Dorsey, a young lawyer in the firm that looks after her cousin's business, Raoul de Chabenil, whom she afterwards learns is an unscrupulous gigolo, and Estrella, a dressmaker. Her cousin insists Gay take her jewel box, containing a valuable antique necklace, home and put it in the wall safe. Manx is waiting outside the hospital to drive Gay home but Raoul insists on taking her. Gay has dinner that night with Miles Dorsey and Catherine and Geoff Macadam. It is the Macadam firm Miles works for. They see Raoul and Estrella together at a nearby table. When Gay arrives home she learns that her cousin has died and though the doctor says it was a stroke, Horace demands an inquest. Gay overhears some one in her room after she retires and the next morning the jewel box with the necklace has disappeared. The police are called in, and the next night Gay again hears some one in her room and she is overpowered by either. When she awakes the jewel box and necklace have been returned. The inquest shows that Gay's cousin died of an overdose of a powerful drug that could have been put in her soup by any one of her visitors at the hospital. By the will of Hiram Rentrew, all his property, upon his wife's death [if she did not remarry] was to go to Horace with small cash sums going to Gay and her family, to Manx and to Hortense. Knowing the police suspect her, Gay decides to do some sleuthing on her own. She visits Estrella, on pretense of having a gown made, and hiding in a hall closet she learns that Estrella's brother, Doctor Borosh, sells drugs illicitly and that Estrella and Raoul are lovers. She also overhears Alixe, Mrs. Rentrew's discharged maid, sell a letter to Estrella and learns that Alixe is one of Borosh's patients. As Gay leaves she notices some man watching her in the shadow of another building. When she arrives home, Manx warns her against sleuthing. While she and Horace are playing backgammon, they hear the sound of a fall. Looking out, they see Hortense dead in the court below.

INSTALMENT XXXI.

A REBUKE.

"The dumb-waiter! Good Lord!"

I had a fleeting impression of having said something momentous; but there was no chance to ask why, for just then the telephone trilled and Horace begged me to answer it.

It was a public box call. I knew that by the fumbling and delay.

"Allo!" It was a woman's voice, low and toneless. "Allo. . . . Ees it permeeted that I speak with Mademoiselle Hortense?"

"She's dead," I blurted without thinking. "There's been an accident, she—"

"She's cut off, Mr. Rentrew; but I believe it was that maid Alixe. I suppose it was about that hat box again, but—"

"That woman!"

Horace said no more. Loud hammering on the front door summoned Manx from his retreat, and in two seconds police officers were swarming down on us like wasps.

* *

It was 1 o'clock in the morning. My hands were like frozen meat. We were alone at last, and to my vast thankfulness, as I went into the study, I found Horace just lighting a fire. Hot chocolate steamed in a silver jug on the fender stool. It looked a life saver to me.

"Well," I sighed, "we've had them all—finger print man, photographer, practically the entire gang. And what have they decided? Any idea?"

"Gosh, no!" Horace rose deflatedly, dusting his hands. "Funny, there seemed to be darned few questions this time."

I for one was all for giving my brain a rest. I felt it the last straw when Horace took hold of me and dragged me along back to the service end of the apartment to hold some sort of private conference. Manx's door was closed, but we went past that. It was the narrow door alongside the kitchen which Horace opened noiselessly and with a preoccupied air.

"It was this one, wasn't it?"

"The one we heard being shut? Well, I'm only guessing. I can't think what other door it could have been."

"That's what I thought. I mentioned it, in case."

We peered into a shadowy closet about four feet by five, most of its space taken up by a skeleton cage used for carrying up parcels from the tradesmen's door in the small court and for descending, as the French say, les ordures. Horace tugged at the two front ropes, sent the waiter traveling down, then hauled it up again.

"Yes." He nodded to himself. "It's certainly an idea. . . ."

Suddenly I understood. "You mean this is a way of getting into the apartment and out again? But, Mr. Rentrew, there wasn't time! Didn't the concierge and that chauffeur come running almost at once?"

"Yes, but hang it all, nobody opened the bottom door. It would only mean the person would have got trapped in the shaft—and for how long? The coast down there must have been perfectly clear by 11 o'clock—and the street doors still open."

True enough. For that matter, while the concierge was in her loge being questioned by the police would be a good moment for any one to walk quietly out.

"If it comes to that," I said, "mightn't this dumb-waiter explain how the person got in on Wednesday night? Tho it would have to be some one who knew the apartment."

"Naturally." Horace voice was dry.

Back in the study I asked him bluntly if he were thinking of Alixe.

"Alixe?" Altho he echoed the name dubiously it seemed to have set wheels revolving. "Well, hardly. That is, could she have got out and to a telephone by the time she rang up? Still, that's not saying . . . Alixe!"

I felt he was trying hard to work some connection.

"Mr. Rentrew," I hesitated, "there's something else I haven't told you. Something I did late this afternoon. . . ."

I needn't have shrunk from relating my Rue de Sevres adventure. Horace was much too absorbed by the actual disclosures I made to give a thought to my personal risks. He just sat there, mouth open, sucking it all in.

"Now what," he marveled, "do you know about that?"

He said he'd known about the "little" Hungarian seamstress Marise had befriended. He'd even heard the woman used to be seen round the Quarter with that skunk, de Chabenil.

"But this other fellow—what's you call him? Borosh. . . . No . . . no. You say he's some sort of doctor?"

I wasn't surprised Horace hadn't heard of Louis Borosh. Why should he know about him? After all, an artistic dabbler like Horace moves as a sightseer only, that is on the Left Bank. I didn't suppose he often went into the sort of cafés Borosh would frequent. He'd find them too dirty and full of smells.

I watched him juggling with the puzzle scraps I'd handed him, getting snarled up as I still was. The Thurzo people out in Hungary, long time owners of Cousin Lou' necklace—nameless drugs Doctor Borosh insisted had been stolen from him—Alixe's letter from Saint Cristophe—my own belief that Manx and no other had tracked me to Estrella's apartment.

"Or—here's a thought," I cried. "Was it I Manx was following? What if he were really trying to get hold of the Hungarian doctor man?"

Horace's mouth fell open again; but what would have come out of it I never did know, because a sharp ring at the front bell made us both start nervously. Horace answered it, and who should walk in but Miles Dorsey.

I stared at him. "You!"

"Yes, he nodded quietly. And I know what's happened. That's why I ventured to come up."

I thought it extremely odd he should have been passing our building at the precise moment a camera and tripod were being loaded into a police car; but my firecrackers had gone damp. I sat there, my mouth shut, and let Horace deliver all the gruesome details.

"Like that, was it?" Mr. Dorsey glanced at me, then away. "I got the main facts from the concierge, but I didn't realize you two both heard the fall." He paused. "This service lift. Might I take a squint at it?"

I hated the urge that impelled me to trail along with them all the way to the dumb-waiter. Queer, I thought, for the Englishman to be leading the procession and making a bee line to the right door. As he ran a practiced hand along the soiled guy ropes he turned and caught me eyeing him.

"Yes," he explained, "I know this lift well. Once during a business call I was paying, Mrs. Rentrew's dog got its tail trapped in this crack."

Mr. Dorsey was examining his hands. "Powder! O, I see you told the police about this place, so they've been spraying it for fingerprints."

"Certainly," Horace said testily. "We heard this door close, didn't we, Gay?"

"Well?"

I returned his gaze coldly. "Does that mean you'd like my private opinion of this death? That's easy. I've none."

He crooked an eyebrow, but said nothing.

"But you have." I added aggressively. "O no? Then why the contemptuous smile when you looked into the dumb-waiter?"

"Did I smile?" he cried, shocked. "I'm quite sure you imagined it. For God's sake, don't think I fancy myself as a detective! And, see here," he lowered his voice, not looking at me, "I'm not at all happy about what Rentrew's been telling me. Yes, I mean this butler and your evening's encounter with him; but I mean, too, your escapade in the Rue de Sevres. Can't I possibly persuade you to leave things alone?"

Then it came out. He'd been with the Macadams and had heard of my doings from Catherine. All I said was:

"Since when is the Avenue Malakoff a short cut to your flat?"

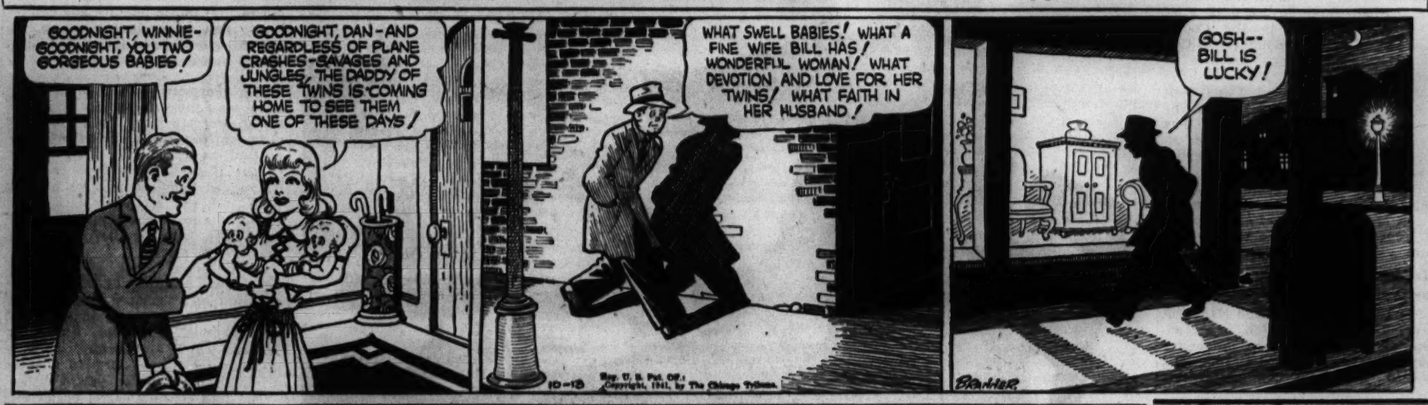
WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Too Far to Appreciate It



Father Must Earn Love of His Daughter

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Most fathers who have a baby daughter melt as soon as she is old enough to respond at all to their advances, and from then on their enslavement is complete, if not always obvious. But occasionally there exists a man who is not like this. He is, perhaps, brusque or gruff with his child; he believes in instant obedience; he believes it should be obtained by the use of a stern manner; he believes in punishment for disobedience; he thinks tact is weakness and has no real conception of what makes the wheels go around in these young things new to the world of people. He is not a tender or sympathetic person.

Couple this temperament and attitude of his with a child who is, by nature, sensitive and reserved, and trouble brews early in the game. A man such as this might understand a child who stood up to him, or was so carefree that his scolding did not have any effect, or was easily demonstrative. In that case friction would be slight.

But with the other child it is quite a different matter. His way with her is going, slowly but surely, to drive her away from him, to her loss and his, since the father-daughter companionship can be such a delight.

When mothers ask "What can I do?" my answer is: "It is not for you to do. In your husband's hands lies the remedy. He must change. He must try to understand the baby. He must win her, nor should he wait too long. All you can do is to try to make him see this, and make him realize that the affection of his little girl is something worth infinite pains."

The aims of intelligent parents are contained in "A Mothers' and Fathers' Litany." With your name and address, send POSTAGE ONLY for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, the Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Club Editor of Tribune to Address College Club

"Women Are News" will be discussed by Miss Betty Browning, club editor of THE TRIBUNE, at the College club at 11 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Michael Mason and Mrs. Charles E. Peace will be the hostesses. A special luncheon will be served after Miss Browning's talk.

Timbale cases for creamed chicken, fish, meats, and vegetables are easy to make with the proper equipment. Equipment should include a timbale iron [they come in many different shapes and sizes], a deep fat kettle, and a deep fat thermometer. The thermometer isn't absolutely essential, but will guarantee good results for timbale cases as well as doughnuts, French fries, and other deep fat-fried foods.

By adding a tablespoonful of sugar to timbale batter, the cases made may be used to hold desserts, ice cream with strawberries, or a creamy pudding.

TIMBALE BATTER.
1 cup sifted flour
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon olive oil or salad oil
1 tablespoon sugar
[For dessert cases only]

Sift flour and salt together [with sugar, when used]. Combine eggs, milk, and oil, and add gradually. Beat batter smooth. Let stand for an hour, or several minutes to let air bubbles break. Pour into a small, deep, bowl or cup. Put timbale iron in the fat while it heats. There must be at least enough fat in the kettle to cover the iron. [Vegetable shortenings are excellent deep-fat cooking media]. Heat fat to 375 degrees, remove timbale iron, drain a moment on soft paper, and dip into the batter, not quite covering iron. Leave about a quarter inch at the top to make removal of cases easy. Lower iron into hot fat and fry timbale delicately brown. Loosen case from iron with a fork, and drain on soft paper. Heat iron again before using. Batter will not cling if iron is either too cool or too hot.

ROSETTES.

Add the tablespoonful of sugar to the timbale batter and use a rosette iron in the manner described, being careful not to let batter come up over iron. Sprinkle rosettes with confectioners' sugar and use them as a base for creamy or fruity desserts. Or serve the rosettes as cookies. Store them tightly covered. If they soften, heat in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for about 5 minutes.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Probably the largest shift of pastors of the Rock River [Northern Illinois] conference of the Methodist church in a decade was announced yesterday as Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, resident bishop of the Chicago area, read pastoral appointments at the closing session of the 102d annual conference at Wilmette Parish church.

Among notable shifts was the appointment of the Rev. Dr. George A. Fowler from the pastorate of First church, Oak Park, to the superintendency of the Chicago northern district of the conference. Good Morning!

Here's another picture that sings—or hisses—of foreign spies who seek to steal United States warplane equipment and secrets, for utilization by their own government, and are F-O-I-L-E-D!

The foilers this time are a smart young airplane pilot and stewardess not too engrossed in their love affair, which is moving along none too smoothly, to knuckle down and get in some body blows for their Uncle Sam.

Jean Parker is delightfully present as the stewardess. . . . She CAN remind one so much of both Mary Brian and Jean Arthur! Richard Arlen plays Pilot Jim Clark with ease, good nature and perspicacity. . . . Nils Asther and Roger Pryor villain effectively. . . . Grady Sutton and Marie Wilson are amusing as a dumb cluck scoutmaster and his bride who find on the "Honeymoon Air Express," run by Jim and Shirley, the sort of adventures they had only read about.

"Nobody'll ever believe us when we tell them about THIS," says Chester Gimble—and with truth.

The film has been pretty well directed and dialogued and there are several right suspenseful scenes. Also—quite a few laughs for those to whom laughter comes easily.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 12.—Sunday—A day off at San Ysidro with the David Hempsteads and the Al Weingands. A day when any possible Hollywood happening is overshadowed by news from the east—for Mickey Owen has dropped that final pitch.

Monday—A morning at the desk, and among other things I hear the Warners are buying Lewis E. Lawes' autobiography, "My Life in Sing Sing." . . . Instead of looking around for an impersonator, why doesn't the studio use the warden himself for the lead? He's personable and free from his job. . . . To RKO for lunch with Danny Winkler, and Gloria Swanson there. Her return to New York has been delayed, but she's going tonight by train. She loves trains and she stays in bed all the way from Los Angeles to New York, except for the changeover in Chicago. . . . Gloria says the movies aren't what they used to be. In the old days a director, a writer, and some actors could work together efficiently; now the movies are so big they are all loused up with executives and nothing ever gets done. She'll come back to films whenever people find and agree upon a story, but she's rather hopeless about when that might be. She looks smart in a black something or other, wears three pounds of gold bracelets on her right arm, and how's that for a fashion note?

Tuesday—The weekly luncheon group includes Norman McLeod and Rags Ragland, who have just finished "Panama Hattie." Rags drinks the darndest thing—bourbon and Coca Cola. Being an MGM movie actor has the big burlesquer worried, on account of income tax. Never before last year had he earned enough to pay a tax. Last year he paid $24. Next year will be a lot more. But he has a manager who takes his pay away from him and feeds him an allowance. . . . In the evening with the visiting Gus [Andy Gump] Edsons, the H. Bogarts, and others to see "The Maltese Falcon," and it is a perfect picture of its kind. Written tight, acted tight, photographed tight. It's a great thing for Bogart and for John Huston, who wrote and directed the screenplay. Bogart sadly remarks he thinks Huston has ruined his budding career. "You know what John said?" he queries. "John said if you adapted and played a good book just as it was written, you'd be pretty sure to have a good movie. He can't last in Hollywood, talking such nonsense as that."

Wednesday—Desk work all day, and abed early for once. But I do pick up one gag. A certain director about to make a certain big picture has been casting about for a leading man. Somebody suggested Errol Flynn. "O," said the director, "Flynn-Tin-Tin?"

Thursday—Al Parmenter suggests that I act in a movie. Sooner or later all correspondents are asked to act in a movie. This one is Humphrey Bogart's "All Thru the Night," and I say I'll be delighted to louse it up if they can square it with the union. The call is for noon. I'm to be one of a group of reporters interviewing Bogey and Kaaren Verne after some brave feat. [I never did find out what they had done.] . . . The Screen Actors' guild is nice but firm. I can be in the picture if a standby actor is employed—but I can't speak any lines. In addition to the standby I demand a personal salary for myself—the regular $10.50 paid a dumb act; and this check goes to the Motion Picture Relief fund. The life of an actor isn't hard at all—except on the seat of the pants. The call is for noon. At 3 p. m. players begin to gather outside a big stage—Frank McHugh, Jackie Gleason, Bill Demarest, Phil Silvers, Jane Darwell. Trucks begin dumping lights and cameras inside. We are waiting, it seems, for a page and a half of script to be written—a new finale for the picture. We gab and gag, with McHugh and Demarest defending old-time vaudeville humor and attacking the modern night club brand. Silvers and Gleason take the other side of the argument. At 4 p. m. the script arrives and so do Director Vincent Sherman, Miss Verne, and Bogart. We go inside to an east side waterfront set, and then begins a great screaming and cursing. Nobody likes the scene that's been written. Producer Jerry Wald is sent for and there's more argument. Lines are switched from actor to actor and finally everything is smoothed out. At 6 we get in position for rehearsal. At 6:30 a take is made. At 6:45 a two-shot of Bogey and Miss Verne. At 7 a medium shot of all of us—and that's all. I stand with the reporters and make notes but don't open my yap—but that's what I used to do when I was a reporter, so it's playing to type. "What a life," says McHugh. "All I want is another million for security and then I'm going to quit." Frank is sore behind because he has had to sit on a wooden stringpiece for an hour.

Friday—Last night, after giving my all for art, I went to the National Restaurant association dinner for Monty Woolley—the man who. It was a pleasant affair enlivened by the presence of Jimmy Durante, who sang "So I Ups to Him," "Inka-Dinka-Doo," and other old numbers that brought tears of joyous memory to my eyes. . . . Today it's routine work, and in the evening to see "How Green Was My Valley." John Ford's picture is beautiful and profoundly moving, and a fine companion piece for "One Foot in Heaven."

Saturday—A morning's chores. Want a gag? Durante has been appearing in woman's dress in "You're in the Army Now," and on the set they call him Gypsy Nose Durante. . . . And so to the links.

Winnetka Church Group. to Hold Rummage Sale.

The members of the Women's Guild of Christ church in Winnetka are not accepting any invitations to be up late Wednesday night, for they have to be at the parish house [Oak street and Maple avenue] before 8 o'clock the next morning. That is the day of the annual rummage sale which the guild has been holding for 12 years as a means of raising money for its philanthropic work. Mrs. D. Bligh Grassett is president of the guild.

Mrs. Noble MacFarlane and Mrs. Russell Stern are co-chairmen of the large committee that has planned the sale on Thursday. Mrs. James R. Kemper and Mrs. Joseph Magnus will be in charge of the French room where the best of the white elephants in the clothing line will be on sale.

This afternoon the benefit committee of the Chicago Smith College club will meet at the College club to set in motion the wheels of the almunæ group's annual scholarship fund benefit. This year the event will be a production of "Hay-Fever," to be given on Nov. 25 at the Goodman theater by the Goodman Players. Mrs. Victor L. Lewis of Evanston is chairman of the benefit, whose proceeds will help to send a Chicago girl to Smith college. Among those working under her are Mrs. Leeds Mitchell Jr., Mrs. John S. Clifford, Mrs. John Hurley, Mrs. Otho S. A. Sprague, Miss Courtney Reid, Miss Ann Goddard and Miss Marcia Ennis.

The Evanston Junior league will have its first fall meeting, luncheon and program at 12:30 o'clock today at the Georgian hotel, Evanston. Miss Marion Carpenter is in charge of the program, with Mrs. Julian Norris, Mrs. George S. Jones, and Mrs. Rene Travelletti among her assistants. The league will open its Red Cross first aid course on Oct. 21 under the direction of Mrs. Lindsay Beaton.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Lloyd Kelly [Mildred Wetten] are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter on Oct. 2 in St. Luke's hospital. The baby has a young brother, Arthur. The children's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Wetten of Lake Shore drive.

Mrs. S. Prentice Porter is leaving today for her home in Middleburg, Va., after a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher M. Durbin of Astor street. When Mrs. Porter and her husband will be in Chicago again depends entirely upon the sort of hunting they have in Virginia this winter. If the weather continues good thru Christmas the Durbins will not have their son-in-law and daughter with them for the holiday, but if it is bad weather for hunting, Mr. and Mrs. Porter will come north for Christmas.

The 1941 National Bridge Examination will start in this column one week from today. As in previous years, this will be largely a "self-rating" affair. All you have to do is jot down your answers and then wait for the official answers to appear one week later. However, if you prefer to be rated by me, mail in your answers, one batch each week, addressed to Ely Culbertson in care of this paper.

One question will be posed every day, exclusive of Sunday. Each contestant automatically starts with 1,000 points. Along with the official answers, demerits will be assigned to this or that wrong bid or play. To rate yourself, all you have to do is keep deducting the stipulated number of points from your running total. Contrariwise, certain difficult questions will carry "bonuses" for correct answers, to be added to your net total.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 diamond	1 heart	2 diamonds	3 clubs
4 diamonds	Pass	5 diamonds	5 spades
Pass	Pass	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

Needless to say, the five spade contract was cold against any defense. This, however, was not the greatest loss incurred by East-West. What was even more expensive and humiliating was the fact that they would have been equally cold for six diamonds.

The deal is an excellent illustration of the principle that penalty doubles should not be made without a pretty clear idea of where the setting trick is coming from. Both West and East bid very freely. West did not have the values for the jump bid of four diamonds over three clubs and, having made that bid, should not have stood for the double of five spades. Admittedly, West could not tell that he could make anything like six diamonds, but he should have been very leery of an opposing spade contract. It was virtually certain, with his holding and the fact that East had not bid a spade over North's heart, that the opponents would find an excellent fit in the suit. East, for his part, should not have doubled five spades without a sure trick in the suit.

Thus, strangely enough, if the East-West team had bid properly in the spirit of sacrificing against a contract that they could not count on defeating, the "sacrifice" would have had amazing success. South certainly would have doubled six diamonds rather than risk a six spade contract that apparently had no chance for success.

BIG 3 OF BIG 9 FACE A SERIES OF SHOWDOWNS

N.U., Michigan Start It This Week.

Games Saturday

Michigan at Northwestern.
Purdue at Ohio State.
Iowa at Wisconsin.
Pittsburgh at Minnesota.
Drake at Illinois.
Indiana at Nebraska.
Notre Dame at Carnegie Tech.
Kansas at Marquette [night].
Michigan State at Santa Clara.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The big three of the Western conference football competition—Northwestern, Michigan, and Minnesota—roll steadily toward the round robin of games between themselves that probably will determine the winner of the Big Nine title. This all important series begins Saturday when Michigan plays at Northwestern. One week later Michigan will entertain Minnesota and finally, on Nov. 1, Northwestern plays at Minnesota.

This can be the complete diagram for the conference championship altho undefeated Ohio State also meets Northwestern and Michigan.

Each of the big three has won a conference victory. Michigan whipped Iowa, 6 to 0, and last Saturday Minnesota ran over Illinois, 34 to 6, while Northwestern capped a bitterly fought first half with three touchdowns for a 41 to 14 conquest of Wisconsin.

A Gopher Fable Exploded.

Minnesota has been the unanimous choice to retain its Big Nine title. A few now may switch to Northwestern because of the Wildcats' exceptional group of backs, or to Michigan where Tom Kuzma and Dave Nelson have quite satisfactorily filled the tail back position vacated by Tom Harmon. But the fable of shortage of material at key positions in the Minnesota back field was effectively exploded by a parade of personnel as the Gophers mercilessly hammered Illinois into submission.

The Gophers used 43 players against Illinois and the names of four of these did not even appear on the mimeographed substitution lists sent to the press box. The Minnesota argument that, by reaching deep into the reserves, the Gophers were merely being charitable to Illinois, may be rebutted by performance of these men.

Warren Plunkett and Sophomore Bill Garnaas are fine blocking backs and the former also was used at full back as relief for Bill Daley. Earl Eli was best of the three other full backs Minnesota sent against Illinois. At right half was Bob Sweiger, who also can play full back. Supporting Sweiger were Sophomore Herman Frickey, who also can move to left half; Gene Bierhaus, and Joe Lauterbach.

Watch Higgins and Frickey!

Capt. Bruce Smith, who keys the Gopher attack, was replaced frequently Saturday by Bud Higgins, a sophomore from Minneapolis. You'll hear a lot later about Higgins and Frickey, who are labeled as the Gopher first team backs for 1942 and 1943.

The Minnesota line, three and four deep at each position, is the bulwark behind which any set of backs would be at least average.

Minnesota's men were on edge for Illinois. They won't be this week, since there is no reason for pointing at Pittsburgh which fell before Michigan Saturday, 40 to 0, and which previously had been beaten by Purdue. Pittsburgh plays at Minnesota on Saturday.

Ohio State and Purdue, idle last week, meet Saturday in Columbus.

The problem of Illinois and Wisconsin now is to retain morale and playing spirit. The Illini took unusual punishment at Minnesota. They were outweighed, outmanned, and overmatched. Only when the Gophers relaxed behind the safety of 34 points did Illinois reach midfield.

Illinois meets Drake this week, and then prepares for a second unequal test. On Oct. 25, Illinois plays at Notre Dame. The Irish already have won three games—Arizona, Indiana, Georgia Tech—and should add another easy triumph this week at Carnegie Tech. And if by some miracle Illinois could check Notre Dame's rushing, what can they do with the passes by Angelo Bertelli?

Bertelli, Irish Carry On.

Against Georgia Tech last Saturday, Bertelli pitched four successive passes in seven attempts as Notre Dame won, 20 to 0. Bertelli now has the remarkable record of 22 completions in 35 attempts for a gain of 331 yards.

If Wisconsin can play against Iowa this week as it performed in the first quarter of the Northwestern game, the Hawkeyes will be hard pressed. The result is of utmost importance to both teams. Wisconsin fans, disappointed at successive defeats by Marquette and Northwestern, were entirely too optimistic before the season started.

Thrice beaten Indiana [by Detroit, Notre Dame, and Texas Christian] heads for Nebraska this week with excellent prospects of losing to the Cornhuskers. Nebraska ran away from Kansas last Saturday, 32 to 0. Missouri, challenger for the Big Six title now held by Nebraska, romped over Kansas State 35 to 0.

THE BEARS KEPT THIS UP FOR 613 YARDS AGAINST CARDS

Harry Clark, Bears' back, dashes thru a hole in the Cardinals' line in Wrigley field yesterday which the Bears won, 53 to 7. In piling up for a short gain in the first quarter of the National Football league game their widest margin of victory over the Cardinals in the 42 times the teams have met, the Bears gained 613 yards on the ground and thru the air to break their previous record of 555 set in 1935 against Brooklyn.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

They raised the National Football league pennant in Wrigley field yesterday, Mayor Kelly wished for the continued success of the Chicago Bears, and three minutes later his honor was able to relax, if he was worried about what the Cardinals might do.

It took the champions just that long to score their first touchdown. There were eight other touchdowns before the field judge's gun barked and mercifully ended it. One of these eight was made by the south siders—after the Bears had made seven—and this added up to a stunning 53 to 7 defeat for Jim Conzelman's red-shirted band.

A perfect football day brought out 34,668 to Wrigley field, the largest crowd which has watched these teams since they started playing each other in 1920. There was another record, too. Those 53 points were the most either team has amassed in the 42 times they have met.

Lead at Half, 33 to 0.

The score was 20 to 0 at the end of the first quarter, 33 to 0 at the half, and 47 to 0 as they started the last quarter. The first half total of five touchdowns was just as many as Cleveland, Detroit, and Green Bay had made against the Cardinals in three previous league games.

The 53 points gave the Bears 126 for the season against 45 for their opponents, and some of those latter points were in the nature of consolation awards for their rivals going the route. The Bears' previous victories were over Green Bay, 25 to 17, and Cleveland, 48 to 21. Including league games at the end of last season and exhibitions this fall, the Bears now have won 13 consecutive times.

Five of the champions' touchdowns came directly on passes. Sid Luckman and Young Bussey each pitched two, and the other was thrown by Ray Nolting, who is dividing his time between half and quarter back until Bob Snyder's injured shoulder heals.

McAfee Turns in Best Show.

Spectacular as these aerials were, some embroidered by leaping catches as Cardinal defenders desperately tried to bat them down, and followed by hard and fancy running, it was George [One Play] McAfee, the blond from Duke, who gave the best individual show.

Once he took a lateral from Luckman and drifted toward the sidelines trying to spot a teammate down the field and aim a left handed pass. Cornered, he started to run, dip, sidestep and whirl toward the middle of the field. Three men, Tarzan White, Johnny Hall, and Ed Beinor, had their hands on him, but he slipped away. Finally he was almost to the goal line and there was only one man in his path. Lee Artoe's block took care of this last obstacle and the one-play kid was over after a fifty-nine yard run. This was the third touchdown of the first quarter.

In the third quarter McAfee caught Ray Malouf's punt on the Bears' 26. There were at least half a dozen red shirts in front of him, but he swerved to his right, swung wide around players of both teams and loped over for the score. With the exception of Luckman's block on Al Coppage shortly after McAfee caught the ball, he needed no help. Coppage might have stopped him—or at least been able to tell his teammates after the game that he had touched his jersey. This sprint, and Artoe's subsequent point after touchdown, made it 47 to 0.

He Goes Again.

Last Sunday McAfee ran back a Cleveland kickoff ninety-five yards for a touchdown. Against the Packers when the Bears were trailing, 17 to 15, he returned a kickoff fifty-one yards and started the champions toward a touchdown scored in 50 seconds. In an exhibition game against Brooklyn in September, McAfee ran

TONY WILLMAN KILLED IN AUTO RACE ACCIDENT

Thompson, Conn., Oct. 12 (AP).—Tony Willman of Milwaukee, who a week ago won the national midget car dirt track championship, was killed today during a race when he was thrown into the path of another speeding car.

Tony Willman.

Willman, whose wife was among the 12,000 spectators, was tossed when the rear end of his car apparently locked and the vehicle crashed into a guard rail with tremendous force.

Willman was well known to midwestern automobile race fans, having competed in the 500 mile Indianapolis race in 1939 and this year. He made frequent appearances on Chicago tracks and in Milwaukee. Willman was forced out in his 1939 Indianapolis venture when he encountered motor trouble after 470 miles. He did not finish among the prize winners in the 1941 Memorial day race.

Willman often competed against Jimmy Snyder of Chicago, who was killed in a midget automobile race at the Cahokia, Ill., track near East St. Louis on June 29, 1939. Death came to Snyder in almost the same manner as Willman. Snyder's car plunged into a guard rail and rolled onto the track, where it was smashed by another car.

INDIANAPOLIS RACER HURT.

Franklin, Ind., Oct. 12 (AP).—Harold Shaw of Indianapolis, 1941 champion of the Midwest Racing association, was injured critically today while warming up his car at the Franklin automobile track. Shaw, who was to have received the association's trophy in a ceremony before the race, was taken to Methodist hospital in Indianapolis with a broken arm, concussion, and possible internal injuries. His car skidded and struck a water truck.

BY ARCH WARD.

BEANS REARDON, dean of National league umpires, recently recommended a raise for himself, but made the mistake of saying to President Ford Frick: "I'd retire from umpiring, if I had enough money." . . . President Frick explained that he would be afraid to give Beans a raise because Beans might save the extra dough and make good his threat to retire. . . . Bo McMillin of Indiana says Notre Dame on Oct. 4 showed him the finest blocking he ever has seen in college football. . . . Otto Graham, Northwestern's brilliant sophomore half back, would like to play the French horn in the Wildcats' band. . . . Otto comes from a musical family. . . . His father is an instructor of music at Waukegan High school, one brother is a member of the United States Marine band, and another won first place in the oboe contest in the national high school championships last spring. . . . George Halas predicts his Bears will lose at least two National Football league games this season, but there are other competent observers who think the 1941 Bears are the greatest team of all time. . . . Al Wesson, sports publicity director at Southern California, sends this comment on Ohio State's recent 33 to 0 victory in Los Angeles: "The Buckeyes did everything but bury the Trojan bodies. They snowed under our line and then kept us crossed up with their reverses and passes." . . . Eddie Munzel, White Sox torch singer, or press agent, is considering staging tallyho parties at several games next season, a return to a once popular and highly colorful sports custom.

Wonder why Mike Jacobs shies away from a bout between Joe Louis and Lem Franklin? . . . It might not be a financial success, but it would bring together two fellows with plenty of sockeroo. . . . Bill Edwards, coach of the Detroit Lions, is passing cigars. . . . Mrs. Edwards recently gave birth to a daughter, their third child. . . . Some of the athletes invited to the Sugar Bowl track meet in New Orleans are asking expenses to train in Florida. . . . Bernie Moore of Louisiana State rates John Grigas, Holy Cross full back, one of the best players in the land at that position. . . . O. J. Key, New Orleans prep star who found campus life at Notre Dame too lonely, was in a freshman football uniform at Tulane the day after he left South Bend. . . . Bus Ham, the sage of Oklahoma City, says football games still are won with the feet—by fellows who can go the farthest the fastest. . . . Max Lenover, Loyola runner, never has been defeated in a dual meet. . . . Brittle hands may cut short the ring career of Ray Robinson, lightweight, who recently won his 25th straight professional fight.

Paid in Advance.

They claim it is safe to invest in good earth,
And I think I used wisdom and prudence
In the city of tombstones and silence.
There my frail form will be resting ere long,
I am proud of the land I'm possessing,
Not so commodious, but I trust it's enough,
And I've paid in advance for my lodging.

I learn as I live, that to run into debt,
Does not make my bed any softer,
But with title in hand, a receipt duly signed,
I know I shall die somewhat easier.
And when I rise up after slumbering long,
And rubbing my eyes in the morning,
I hope that Dame Nature will tell the good Lord:
"He paid in advance for his lodging."

18 DAY MEETING TO OPEN TODAY AT SPORTSMAN'S

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Chicago race fans will launch their last campaign of the season this afternoon when Sportsman's Park opens its 18 day meeting. The horses will run at this half mile track in Cicero until the first Saturday of November.

President John L. Keeshin anticipates a renewal of the success that Sportsman's Park has been enjoying since he and his associates took it over last year. Many of the horses which have been competing in the Chicago area all summer have moved over from Hawthorne for their last fling at northern competition before going on the winter circuit.

Two Feature Handicaps.

Much of the popularity of Sportsman's Park has been attributed to the fact that the patrons get a particularly good view of the horses thruout the progress of a race. The thorobreds never get very far away regardless of whether they're competing at five furlongs or at two miles. Thus the fans have little difficulty in following the fortunes of their choices.

The opening day program will have two feature events—the $1,000 Inaugural handicap for 2 year olds at five furlongs and the $1,200 Columbus handicap for 3 year olds and up at the same distance. There has been an increase in the size of purses, the total distribution being scheduled at $130,000.

Lee Haskell, who beat Steve Brooks by two mounts for the riding championship during the spring meeting at Sportsman's Park, will renew the duel without the aid of a 5 pound apprentice allowance.

Expect Mutuel Increase.

Brooks hit a remarkable winning streak to dominate the jockeys at Hawthorne and the question arises as to whether he'll be able to continue it on the sharp turns of Sportsman's Park. Gold watches will be awarded each week to the leading jockey and the leading trainer. Clarence Davison was the leading trainer and owner during the spring meeting.

Robert Shelley will be racing secretary. He has handled this job at Arlington Park, Narragansett, and Tropical Park. William Hamilton, Julius Reeder, and J. J. Graddy will be in the stewards' stand. The judges will be William Shelley Jr., Robert McAuliffe, and W. R. Dahlstrom.

Packers' Passes Crush Dodgers' Eastern Title Hopes, 30 to 7

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 12 [Special].—The Green Bay Packers football machine, hitting on all cylinders for one of the few times this season, rolled over Brooklyn, 30 to 7, in a National Football league game in State Fair park today. The defeat ruined the Dodgers' chances of qualifying as the eastern division standard bearer in the playoffs.

Cecil Isbell and Don Hutson were the main cogs in the Packer attack which functioned at high gear in every quarter. With Isbell in smooth pitching form, Hutson took eight passes for a total of 113 yards, the second a thirty-two yard effort which went for a touchdown in the first quarter. Hutson, to show his versatility, carried the ball on an end around for the Packers' third touchdown, traveling eighteen yards for the score. It came in the third quarter. He also added two points after touchdowns.

Canadeo and Uram Score.

Grey-haired Tony Canadeo and rugged Andy Uram produced the other Packer touchdowns. Canadeo's came in the last minute after Larry Adkins had raced fifty yards to the Brooklyn 12 yard line with an intercepted pass. Uram made his touchdown late in the first quarter on a ninety yard run after taking Dean McAdams' long, spiraling punt.

The veteran Clank Hinkle added to the Green Bay scoring with a field goal. Forced to kick from an angle, he booted one squarely between the uprights in the second quarter, after the Packer drive had momentarily stalled on the Brooklyn 35.

The Dodgers averted a shutout in the third quarter. Capping a sustained drive of sixty-three yards, Ace Parker threw to Perry Schwartz for the Brooklyn touchdown, a net gain of ten yards. With that exception, the Dodgers were rarely in Packer territory. The showing of the Brooklyn club proved a disappointment to the crowd of 15,621.

Gain 181 Yards by Air.

The Packers, for whom today's victory was the fourth of the regular campaign, proved superior on both the ground and in the air. With Isbell completing 12 out of 15 passes, Green Bay rolled up 181 yards via the air against 126 for Brooklyn. On the ground, the Packers gained 164 yards against seventy-five for their opponents. In first downs it was 14 for Green Bay and 11 for Brooklyn.

McAdams' great punting gave the Dodgers the advantage in this department. Brooklyn averaged 44.8 yards on punts, the Packers 42.

REDSKINS STAVE OFF RALLY; BEAT STEELERS, 24-20

Pittsburgh Dealt Fourth Loss in Row.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 12 (AP).—Time helped the Washington Redskins defeat the Pittsburgh Steelers, 24 to 20, today in a National league football game which kept 18,733 persons roaring until the last. As the fourth period opened the Redskins had built up a 24 to 7 advantage, but the Steelers staged a magnificent rally which left them trailing by only four points and still trying when the timer's gun barked.

It was the second victory in three starts for the Redskins and the fourth straight reverse for the Steelers.

A pass dropped in the clear on the Washington 6 yard line by Don Looney, the league's leading pass catcher last year, spelled the difference between defeat and a possible upset victory for the Steelers. The Steelers came roaring back to score later, but after negotiating their last touchdown lacked time for another march, altho they still were pitching passes from deep in their own territory when the game ended.

Redskins Score Early.

Washington scored first early in the first period when Frank Filchock flipped a thirty-five yard aerial to Dick Todd for a touchdown.

Pittsburgh tied the score at 7 to 7 on the third play of the second period when Alan Donelli passed to Dick Riffle from the Washington 10 yard line for the touchdown and Armand Niccolai booted the extra point.

In the third period the Redskins scored two touchdowns in rapid fire fashion. Passes set up both scores, but power accounted for the touchdowns. Todd tallying on a reverse from the 7 yard line and R. Hare counting the second six pointer on a lunge thru center from the 3.

Steelers Break Thru.

Shortly after the fourth quarter started Coley McDonough pitched a pass to Art Jones, who made a shoestring catch and raced fifty-nine yards for the Steeler touchdown. Niccolai added the extra point.

Washington held once on the 1½ yard line after Looney had made his unfortunate muff of McDonough's pass, but the Steelers drove back and counted their final score a few minutes later. Boyd Brumbaugh battered the ball across on three tries after a pass to Looney gained thirty-six yards and a first down on the Redskin 5 yard line.

BETTENHAUSEN WINS BIG CAR HAMMOND RACE

Tony Bettenhausen of Tinley park won the feature AAA big car race at the Hammond Speedway yesterday. Duke Dinsmore of Indianapolis was second, with Everett Saylor, Indianapolis, third, and Rex Woodward, Dayton, O., fourth.

Elimination races were captured by Bettenhausen; Duke Nalon, Chicago, and Saylor.

In absorbing their third defeat in four games [they tied one] the Cards had no adequate defense for the Bears passing or running. And, just as sad to relate, the big Bear forwards continually swarmed thru the line, riding down the Cardinal passers before they could get rid of the ball.

Bears Pile Up 613 Yards.

The Bears, piling up 613 yards on the ground and thru the air broke their own National league record of 555 yards set in 1935 against Brooklyn. Fifteen completed passes netted them 376 yards, and they picked up 237 yards by rushing. This is mentioned just to prove to the Cards that this was a game and not a nightmare.

Harry Clark took the opening kickoff on the Bears' 3 yard line and was in the clear when he stumbled and finally fell on the Cards' 49. Running plays moved the ball to the 28, but a fifteen yard penalty momentarily slowed up the champions. After a pass to Johnny Siegal failed, Dick Plasman caught one from Luckman on the 24 yard line, wrenched himself free from two Cardinals, stiff-armed another, and finally fumbled. The ball rolled to the Cards' 1 foot line where Ed Kolman fell on it. After Gary Famiglietti was stopped, Luckman went over on a quarter back sneak. Clark's kick for the extra point failed.

Fortmann Intercepts Pass.

The Cards made a show of doing something after Al Babartsky returned the kickoff to his own 37 yard line. Marshall Goldberg's passing and running were big items in a march to the Bears' 14 yard line. But Danny Fortmann intercepted Mallouf's pass on his 5, and the Bears were off again.

The first major gain was made by Clark, who took Luckman's pass on the Bears' 42, cut across toward the east sideline and with fine blocking got up to the Cards' 27. McAfee, getting warmed up for bigger things ahead, drove to the 16 on a quick opening, but a penalty nullified the gain. In two punches, Norm Standlee advanced the ball to the Cards' 16 and Luckman then passed to Ken Kavanaugh behind the goal line. Snyder kicked the extra point.

Johnny Hall almost got away after taking the kickoff, but finally was stopped at midfield. It was after Bob Swisher returned Hugh McCullough's punt twenty-one yards to the Bears' 41 that McAfee put on the first of his two thrillers. Artoe's kick made it 20 to 0.

Nolting brought back Johnny Martin's long punt to the Bears' 32 early in the second quarter and five plays resulted in the fourth touchdown. Two passes by Bussey were the big items. One was in the flat to Nolting, who raced to the Cards' 45. After Bill Osmanski made five, Bussey passed to Bob Nowaskey on the 3 and he crawled the rest of the distance with two opponents riding on his back. Snyder missed the try for point.

Bears Turn on the Faucet.

With four minutes of the half left, the Bears again turned on the scoring faucet, Nolting sped back to the Bears' 48 yard line on Mallouf's punt. Standlee drove fourteen yards and on second down of the next series, Bussey drifted back to midfield, finally throwing the ball to Kavanaugh on the goal line near the posts. Harold Lahar kicked the extra point.

Half of the third quarter was over before the champions struck for the sixth time. McAfee ran back a punt to the Cards' 45 and on the first play Siegal took Luckman's pass on the 15, wormed away from Lou Zontini, brushed off McCullough and went over. Joe Maniaci kicked the extra point.

After taking the kickoff, the Cards were stopped and Mallouf made the mistake of punting in McAfee's general direction. The result was his 74 yard excursion. Artoe's kick made it 47 to 0.

There was a brief scoring intermission in the fourth period until the Cards started driving from their 46, to which point Al Coppage ran after recovering Nolting's fumble. Goldberg broke thru to the Bears' 33 and Mallouf passed to Bill Daddio on the 24. Then, from the 18, Martin slammed around left end and Daddio added the extra point.

Swisher returned the kickoff to the Bears' 31. Line plays took the ball to their 46, where Nolting passed to Swisher. Bob got away from Goldberg on the 20 and ran for the score. Plasman's kick failed. Statistics:

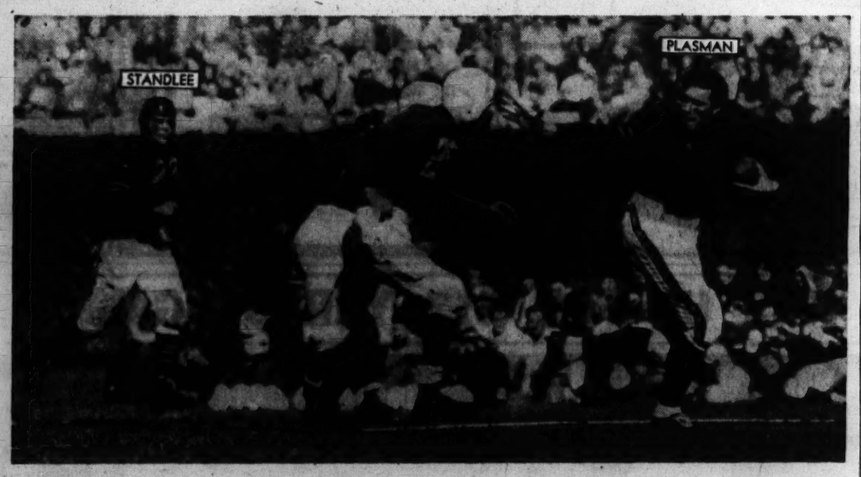
Plasman of Bears Has the Right Idea



Dick Plasman, Bears' end, takes a pass from Sid Luckman on the Cardinals' 24 yard line in first quarter of yesterday's game in Wrigley field and heads for goal line. Plasman, however, fumbled the ball which rolled to the Cards' 1 foot line where Ed Kolman fell on it. Luckman, two plays later, went over for a touchdown. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

1942 Chicago Races Receive Foreign Entries

Next year's Classic stakes at Arlington Park and American Derby at Washington Park, nominations for which close Wednesday, have been given an international touch by some of the early entries.

Wednesday likewise is closing date for the $20,000 added Arlington Futurity, $20,000 added Washington Park Futurity, and $10,000 added Arlington Lassie stakes.

The war in Europe has greatly increased importations of English and French thorobreds, including stallions, brood mares, and young racing stock later to take its place in America's breeding fabric.

Among the early nominations for the $50,000 added Classic and $50,000 added American Derby, each increased by $10,000 over this year's endowments, are three English breds, the colts Hyacinthus and Troon, and the filly Yuletide, owned by Mrs. Ethel du Pont Weir.

Hyacinthus is a chestnut colt by Hyperion, half brother to the imported full brothers, Sickle and Pharamond II., which are among the most prominent stallions now standing in America.

Troon is by Fairway, sire of the last Epsom Derby winner, Blue Peter. The filly Yuletide is by the English stallion Reveillon. A study of their pedigrees would reveal a rather close relationship between Mrs. Weir's three Classic and American Derby nominees, all of which were raced sparingly as 2 year olds.

N. U.-WISCONSIN FILM SCHEDULED AT WAILING WALL

Northwestern and Wisconsin Alumni are expected to be most prominent among the group gathering for the weekly Wailing Wall session of college alumni in the Sherman hotel at noon today. Pictures of Saturday's Northwestern-Wisconsin football game are to be shown, with Coach Harry Stuhldreher of the Badgers as speaker and commentator.

Because of the necessity of Stuhldreher's getting back to Madison for the afternoon's practice, the Wailing Wall group will meet at 12 o'clock. Several alumni from both schools will speak briefly.

THE PRESIDENT ON NEUTRALITY

In a speech on Oct. 28, 1940 —just before his third term election— President Roosevelt said:

"By the Neutrality Act of 1935 and by other steps . . . we made it clear to every American and to every foreign nation that we would avoid becoming entangled (in war) thru some episode beyond our borders. These were measures to keep us at peace. And thru all the years of war since 1935 there has been no entanglement and there will be no entanglement. . . . We shall continue to go forward in firm faith. We shall continue to go forward in peace."

Giants Defeat Eagles, 16-0; 4th Straight

New York, Oct. 12 (AP).—The Giants scored a touchdown on a blocked kick in the opening moments of play today and then rolled to an easy 16 to 0 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles to remain unbeaten in the National Football league. A crowd of 30,842 saw the game.

The fans were only half thru their first bottle of pop when the Giants scored. The Eagles received the kickoff and Feets Barnum tried a quick kick from his own 20 yard line. Bill Edwards blocked it and Johnny Mellus caught it on the fly. Mellus lateraled to Jim Poole, who dashed the last ten yards. Ward Cuff kicked the extra point.

Early in the second quarter George Franck returned a punt seventeen yards to the Eagles' 55. After a couple of ground plays, Andy Marefos dropped back to the 38 and placekicked for three more points.

Fans See Dull Game.

Nothing much happened from that point until the fourth period was five minutes old. Then the Giants recovered a fumble on the Eagles' 39. Howard Yeager cut around his left end on a reverse and went over. In the fading minutes the Eagles twice started to move up field on Tommy Thompson's passes, but each time just as they seemed about to get under way, an interception stopped them.

It was the Giants' fourth straight victory of the campaign, and left them at the top of the eastern division. The defeat was the Eagles' third in four games.

Eagle Attack Throttled.

The Eagles were never inside the Giants' 34 yard line, and they reached enemy territory only three times during the afternoon. For all the threats they made, they might just as well have quit after the first two minutes.

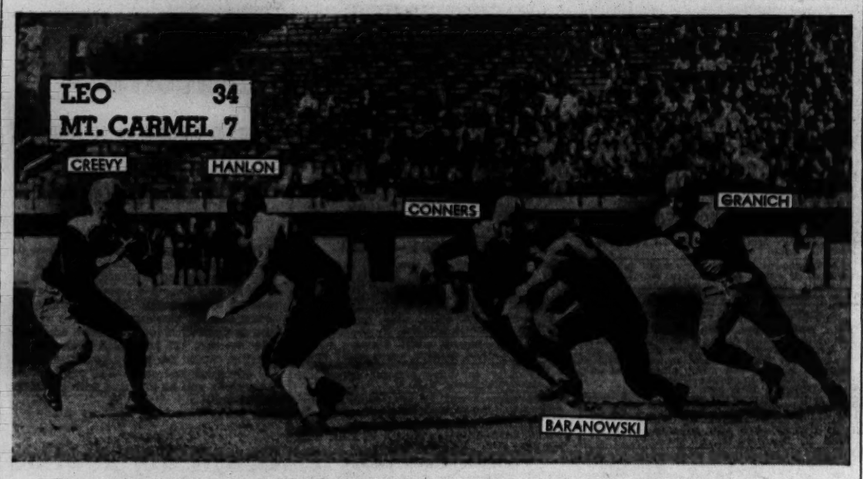
B Stands for Baranowski and Blocking at Leo



This is the play that started Leo's 34 to 7 rout of Mount Carmel on Stagg field yesterday. Babe Baranowski, squat Leo quarter back, slashes off tackle in the first quarter and pivots away from Dick Conners and Mike Granich in the Mount Carmel secondary. Out front Full Back Bob Hanlon prepares to block Bob Creevy, the Mount Carmel safety man, and seconds later Baranowski was touching the ball down in the end zone, forty-seven yards away. Baranowski scored three touchdowns, the second on a seventy-four yard punt return. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Irish Used a 4-3121 Number Georgia Tech Couldn't Dial

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 12.—"Frank Leahy & Co., in a baffling display of gridiron celerity and cerebration." To those citizens who witnessed Notre Dame's 20 to 0 victory over Georgia Tech in Atlanta yesterday afternoon, the preceding words might well apply as billing for all future Irish contests in this season of 1941.

But such is not the case. Leahy, one of the most original football tutors in the land, off his great campaign at Boston college last season and his three easy victories this year at his alma mater, announced today that most of this week's workouts for the Carnegie game in Pittsburgh Saturday will be devoted to the game's ABC's. The varsity will be given its first day off of the season tomorrow, but the freshmen will be subjected to a three hour drill.

Ziemba Suffers Leg Injury.

The squad of 35 Irish who made the trip to Atlanta arrived here at 5:15 o'clock this afternoon, with four members of the ensemble listed as injured, altho none of them seriously. This included big Walt Ziemba, the transformed tackle who turned in another grand game at his new center post, but emerged with a pulled muscle in his left leg; Capt. Paul Lillis, who was stunned in a line play; Lou Rymkus, second string right tackle, who incurred a cut lip that required nine stitches, and Tom Brock, second team center whose nose was injured.

The implication of magic herein contained is not intended to convey the impression that Leahy and his staff—Ed McKeever, Joe McArdle, and John Druze—have scrapped the Notre Dame system merely to conduct a course in sleight of hand football. The basic Notre Dame technique is still there, but it includes a number of embellishments that stamp Leahy as a coach who is willing to experiment in the interest of result-getting.

Four Man Line Stops Tech.

Latest example of this experimental trend was evidenced convincingly in the Georgia Tech game with the appearance of a four man line that more than puzzled the usually tricky Georgians. The Irish staff extracted the idea for this from pictures of the 1939 Tech game, which the Irish won on a field goal, 17 to 14. The Tech offensive was set up in many cases by short passes over the center of the line.

Aware that the Tech attack is founded on the over-'em-and-around-'em theme, Leahy decided to halt the short pass by strengthening the center lane. The four man setup was deployed in a 4-3-1-2-1 pattern. With this alignment, the Irish were able not only to frustrate opposing ends who formerly cut back into the unprotected zone back of center, but also to thwart wide end sweeps.

It Looks Like This.

Dove	Brutz	Lillis	Murphy
L. E.	L. T.	R. T.	R. E.
Wright	Maddock		Ziemba
Q. B.	L. G.		C.
	Crimmins
	R. G.
Evans, F. B.		Bertelli, L. H. B
	Juzwik, R. H. B.

The coaches felt that the defensive pocket which has enabled Angelo Bertelli, sophomore passer, to complete 22 throws in 35 attempts in the three Irish games this season, was at its best yesterday. In the 35 minutes he played, Bert clicked on four out of seven. He also was party to the reverse which sprang Steve Juzwik for sixty-seven yards and the second Notre Dame touchdown of the game.

Another 1941 departure—high blocking—was praised by the Irish staff. Instead of the regulation driving charge from a squat position, Notre Dame's forwards now seek to retain their feet thruout the charge, giving them an advantage in mental reaction against opponents and enabling them on many occasions to feint their foes off balance in boxing fashion.

DAN GHOST HAS DOG'S FIELD DAY AT GLEN ELLYN

Brown's Dan Ghost, an English setter owned and handled by A. C. Magee of Oak Park, won two of the three bird dog stakes in the field trials concluded yesterday near Glen Ellyn. The event was sponsored by the West Suburban Hunting Dog club.

Magee's dog won the open all-age stakes yesterday, as well as the all-age shooting dog event Saturday. The nonwinner shooting dog event was won by Conquest, pointer owned by B. H. Seely.

Field Trial Champion Breckonhill Brigadier, owned by James Simpson Jr. of Wadsworth, won the open all-age for springers, and Alskeith Grant, owned and handled by David Silverman of Chicago, was best in the springer shooting dog stake.

QUEST, DIGIT, CADET CAPTURE DINGHY RACES

A fleet of 14 B class Frostbite dinghies sailed three races yesterday in Grant park harbor under auspices of the Columbia Yacht club. A light southwest breeze prevailed. Quest, owned and sailed by Jack Holbrook, won the first race. Digit, George Macha's entry, led the fleet in the second race but was protested following the contest. Cadet, Milton [Bro] Friend Jr.'s dinghy, won the final race.

Skippy, the Wade-Lange syndicate's Star boat, won the Columbia Yacht club's Star class race off Grant park harbor yesterday. Cherokee, owned and sailed by Fran Byrne, was runner-up, followed by Adara, the Driels-Hodeck entry, and Alcor, the Driels-ma-Horton syndicate sloop. James Hoddle's Soliloquy did not finish. A four mile windward-leeward course was sailed.

South Dakota Hunting Great; Bags Are Easy

BY BOB BECKER.

"Better than ever" sums up the reports from Illinois hunters who have been out to South Dakota to try the pheasant and duck hunting. Otto W. Lehmann and William W. Haerther of Lake Villa, Ill., who recently hunted around Eden and Huron, S. D., report that South Dakota's claim of a 40 per cent increase in the pheasant crop is not an exaggeration.

Many parties of Illinois hunters are scheduled to take a whirl at the South Dakota ringnecks during the next few weeks. Paul C. Clovis of Kenilworth will head a group that will hunt around Webster next week.

B. F. Genty, the springer spaniel judge of Lake Bluff, leaves for Sisseton next week for a four day hunt with a party of Chicagoland sportsmen and several of his trained dogs to do the heavy work in the fields.

It's Almost Too Easy.

E. C. McKenzie and V. L. Weir of Huron advise us that it's almost too easy to get five pheasants [the daily limit] above Huron, especially if you have a dog. The cover is heavy this year so dogs are a big help in finding dead and wounded birds.

How abundant the ringnecks are is told in the following note from McKenzie about an afternoon hunt northeast of Huron. He writes:

"We had six in our party the other afternoon. On our first sweep against the birds Weir and I suggested that our guests, Haerther and Lehmann, and A. K. Werderman, Abe Sharp, and Sam Johnson of Cincinnati, get around the lower end of a weed patch and work it out slowly while we moved toward them. But they never got into the real weeds where I thought they would get the best shooting. Before they reached it the birds started flushing by the score and they had 11 down before we could go thru the field to meet them."

Wisconsin Opens Saturday.

Starting next Saturday upland game hunters can use their shotguns in Wisconsin as the pheasant and grouse season opens at 1 p. m. All the licensed pheasant preserves are going to open on that date also for the shooters who want to be sure of some birds by paying for each pheasant shot. There are established licensed preserves [$5 license required] at Janesville and also near Evansville.

We have tried both of them and found they have excellent cover for snappy pheasant shooting.

CHICAGO BOY, 15, WINS HIGH JUNIOR RIFLE AWARD

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12 [Special].—An amazing example of rifle marksmanship by a 15 year old Chicago junior sharpshooter over the 400 shot National Rifle association qualification course has earned Peter Hoffman of 1833 Patterson avenue America's highest junior rifle shooting honor, the distinguished rifleman gold bar. The announcement was made at NRA headquarters by the junior division which also made the award.

Sobs of a Substitute.

A little beauty picked me up today
And drove me to the college in her car,
And I became quite fluent on the way
And told the lass I was a football star;
She's coming out sometime to see a game,
And will she be surprised to find me benched!
I'll have to limp, pretending to be lame,
And tell her that a ligament was wrenched.

And then she may invite me to her shack
To share the luxury of her cuisine,
And will I have the laugh on our star back
When he hears I've been dining with a queen!
But I'll show nonchalance and savoir faire
As if it were an every day affair.

Excuse for Living.

Bright is the morning, there's life in breeze
That sings roguishly as it scatters the leaves.

Tho they may take away your bench in the park,

Hawks Given Interpretation of New Rule

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 12 [Special].—The new penalty shot rule which is expected to provide many thrills for hockey fans this winter was explained to the Blackhawks by Manager Paul Thompson before they took to the ice to practice the new shot during this morning's workout. Here is Thompson's interpretation of the rule:

"A penalty shot shall be awarded when a foul is committed by any player other than the goal tender. The shot shall be taken by the player against whom the foul was committed. The shooter can advance toward his opponent's net and can drive the puck from any distance or any angle in his effort to score and he must not be interfered with by a player of the opposing team. The penalty is awarded when a player in a position to score is tripped or illegally blocked."

Tough on Goalie.

In the opinion of Manager Thompson, the goal tender should be beaten three times out of five if the shooter is either a first or second line National Hockey league forward and twice in five tries by experienced defense men.

Thompson's estimates of the scoring average was proved when the veterans Bill Thoms, Mush March, George Allen, Bill Carse, and Phil Hergesheimer gave Goalie Lo Presti a busy hour as they peppered him with shots.

Art Wiebe Shines.

Art Wiebe, veteran defense player who joined the team this morning, and Left Winger Bob Carse made the best showing of the rear guardsmen with the penalty drive. Joe Cooper and Johnny Mariucci were at the short end of the scoring when the session ended.

LIONS LOSE SUB CENTER TO ARMY; GOES IN TODAY

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 12 (AP).—Duncan F. Obee, substitute center of the Detroit Lions football team, will be inducted into the army tomorrow. Obee, 22 years old and weighing 202 pounds, came to the Lions this season from the University of Dayton.

Injuries in today's game against the Cleveland Rams may cost the Lions the services of two other players for next Sunday's game against the Chicago Bears at Chicago. Half Back Ned Matthews may have a broken arm and Lloyd Cardwell, veteran ball carrier, has a leg injury. Both will undergo X-rays tomorrow.

DUTCH LEONARD BEATS SPENCER COALS, 11 TO 8

Emil [Dutch] Leonard, Washington Senators right hander, pitched a combined major and minor league baseball team to a 11 to 8 victory over the Spencer Coals semi-pros in their annual homecoming game in Spencer field yesterday.

Leonard was opposed by Orval Grove, White Sox right hander. The All-Stars' batting hero of the afternoon was Frank Gustine. The Pittsburgh Pirates second baseman smashed out three singles and a triple in five trips to the plate.

HANSA TIED FOR 2D TIME IN ROW: VIKINGS BEATEN

BY OFFSIDE.

Hansa, held to a tie last week by the Vikings, was deadlocked again yesterday in a Major league soccer match. This time the feat was accomplished by the Swedish-Americans. The score was 2 to 2. The match, scheduled earlier on the new grounds of the Swedish-Americans, was transferred to Winnemac park and attracted a crowd of 4,000.

Neither team succeeded in finding the goal during the first half, but after 16 minutes of play in the second period Hansa tallied when Eddie Eckhardt took the ball on a rebound from the crossbar to crash it into the net from 10 yards out. Seven minutes later Vic Absil tied it by tipping it into the net from a close cross to the post. Hansa regained the lead thru Oscar Geiger, who headed into the net from a corner kick. With four minutes remaining, the Swedish-Americans tied it again when Jimmy McCallum scored on a high shot from 15 yards.

The Vikings, champions of the league, were upset by the Nickeloids, 3 to 2, in Dalzell, Ill. Sparta maintained its unblemished record by whipping the Oak Park Acorns, 2 to 0, in Oak Park. Scores:

BRITISH SALES OF BICYCLES IN U. S. INCREASING

Americans Struggle for Materials.

British bicycle manufacturers are increasing their sales in the United States and other markets as American producers struggle with the problem of obtaining sufficient steel and other products to maintain plant operations, Chicago manufacturers indicated yesterday.

Despite armament production and the hampering effect of German attacks on shipping, the British are maintaining shipments to their world markets, and, in the experience of at least one Chicago company, are actually giving better service than they were a few months ago.

Aside from their inability to obtain sufficient quantities of high grade steel for certain parts, however, the Chicago companies say they have not felt the British competition materially. Some welcome the competition on the theory the British bicycle, of a type not formerly popular in this country, is stimulating interest in bicycling.

Seek Agreement on Supplies.

Arnold Schwinn, president of Arnold Schwinn & Co., 1718 North Kildare avenue, said his company, one of the largest in the United States, has thus far been able to maintain normal operations and keep its normal force at work. He said that the industry, thru company representatives and the Bicycle Manufacturers' association, New York, is attempting in conferences with Office of Production Management officials in Washington, D. C., to reach agreements on maintaining an adequate flow of materials to the bicycle plants.

Meanwhile, the company must continue operations on a day-to-day basis, he said, without definite knowledge on its ability to continue obtaining presently adequate supplies. Demand for bicycles has increased materially over the levels of recent months and sales are well above those of a year ago, Schwinn said.

British Competition Growing.

James E. Mead, vice president of the Mead Cycle company, 17 South Market street, said the British competition, first felt five years ago, is gradually increasing, but expressed the conviction the competition would help domestic manufacturers.

"Our business last month was about double the volume of September, 1940," he said. "We do not know how long we will be able to continue this large volume because we do not know how much steel and other material will be diverted to armament production.

"In the past, the English type bicycle was sold everywhere in the world except the United States. It is a light weight vehicle, made purely for transportation, without the parts which American boys like."

C. A. Hansen, secretary of the Chicago Cycle Supply company, 224 North Des Plaines street, said that whereas business normally tapers off at this time of year, there has been no indication of a letdown.

NEW DEPRESSION CAN BE AVOIDED, SAYS CAMERON

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 12 (AP).—There need be no post-rearmament era depression, William J. Cameron, of the Ford Motor company said here tonight, unless the American people themselves create one.

Asserting that "a production plant never able to supply all our people is being modernized and enlarged," Cameron declared that "all these defense plants, new and old, are adaptable to peacetime production," and that "with defense secured, the demand for all sorts of merchandise will require every man and machine we have to satisfy it."

"With its facilities being cut to pieces, where can Europe come, except to America, for what it will need after the war?" he asked.

Nation's Steel Output Cut by Carnegie Plant's Tieup

Cleveland, O., Oct. 12 (AP).—The magazine Steel reported today that the walkout at the Cernegie-Illinois Steel company's Gary works was a principal factor in reducing national production 1¼ points last week to 94½ per cent of estimated capacity.

HEALTH SUPPLIES.

I wonder if orthopedic braces would be considered essential products by the priorities division. I am unable to get an adequate supply of metal parts needed in making the braces. I have heard some mention of a health supplies plan. Would I come under that?

Answer: The priorities division of the Office of Production Management recently added 12 classifications to the list covered by the health supplies rating plan which assigns a priority rating of A-10 to manufacturers of such products. Orthopedic appliances, including artificial limbs, are among the new additions.

The 12 classifications added are acoustical aids; atomizers; hospital carts, racks, and charts; infant incubators; invalid chairs, walkers, and crutches; ophthalmic products and instruments; physical therapy equipment for medical use only; respirators, resuscitators, and iron lungs; sick room furniture, equipment, and supplies; splints and fracture equipment; surgical and orthopedic appliances, and sutures and suture needles.

You may apply for the rating on form PD-79 [report of requirements for scarce materials]. Send this form with a complete catalog of your finished products to the health supplies section, Office of Production Management, Washington, D. C.

ARMY, NAVY PRIORITIES.

Lieut. Comm. W. T. Kellogg, Great Lakes station, and David Sanders and W. W. Philbrick, both of the Chicago ordnance district, will speak on army and navy priorities tonight at the Central YMCA college.

PRIORITIES UNEMPLOYMENT.

Does the owner of a plant which is closing down, laying off workers, or cutting their work week have to make a report to the OPM?

Answer: The plant owner is not required to file a report, but he may voluntarily furnish one to the nearest federal-state employment office if he has to discharge workers or reduce hours because of priorities.

The employment office makes its report of the plant's statement on form "ES-223" if 50 or more workers are scheduled to be laid off or have been released in the preceding three months; or if the average work week of 200 or more workers is scheduled to be cut 10 hours or has been reduced that much during the preceding three months.

UTILITIES' COSTS CAN BE CUT, FPC STUDY CONTENDS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12 [Special].—The Federal Power commission published today its first statistical yardstick of electric utility costs, containing an analysis of those costs based on a study begun in 1938 of 393 large companies.

Application of the yardsticks to individual company operations, the commission said, should effect a leveling of higher costs down toward present average experience and ultimately a leveling of the averages down toward the performance of the lower cost companies.

Use of information in the report "should introduce an element of competition of great importance to consumers and regulatory agencies," the commission said.

Printing Group Protests Priority Rule Over Paper

Canton, O., Oct. 12 (AP).—A resolution protesting to OPM against placing of paper and other printing materials on priority lists was adopted by the Ohio Typographical Conference today. Claude M. Washington, D. BIG TANK TIEUP THREAT MAY BE REMOVED TODAY

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 12 (AP).—Hours of negotiation failed to bring a settlement today of an interunion dispute that has threatened to halt the production of tanks for the army, but Federal Conciliator James J. Spillane said tonight he was "hopeful" an agreement could be reached when the conferences are resumed tomorrow in Hillsdale, Mich. He said progress had been made today.

The dispute involves a CIO boycott at the Spicer Manufacturing company in Toledo, O., of AFL made material produced by the company's subsidiary in Hillsdale, Mich. It assumed serious proportions last Friday when production at the Toledo plant, which makes 70 per cent of the transmissions for tanks began to slow down.

Fight at Steel Plant.

Lebanon, Pa., Oct. 12 (AP).—Four men were arrested tonight on charges of assault and battery after free-for-all fighting broke up a meeting called by employés of the Bethlehem Steel company plant here to organize an independent union. Sympathizers of the Steel Workers Organizating committee [CIO] were said to have caused the disturbance.

MASTER ELECTRIC.

I noticed that the common stock of the Master Electric company was admitted to trading on the New York Stock exchange a few weeks ago. Have you a report on this newcomer?—E. A. M.

Answer: This company manufactures a large variety of electric motors of the industrial type used mostly to power production machinery such as conveyors, machine tools and hoists. Generators, speed controls and smaller devices including fans, mixers and grinders also are manufactured. Sales are made to more than 70 industries. The plant and principal office are in Dayton, O. Master Electric was organized in 1920.

Profit for the first six months this year was virtually unchanged from the same 1940 period, being $450,810, or $1.80 a share on 249,932 shares of $1 par common stock outstanding, compared with $450,298, or $1.86 on 241,500 shares, the preceding year. Sales, however, increased from $2,445,388 to $3,887,847 this year. The common stock is the only capitalization.

Net income in 1938 was $347,457, or $1.65 a share. This rose to $691,573, or $2.86, in 1939 and to $793,912, or $3.18, in 1940. Sales in those respective years were $2,867,731, $3,998,198, and $5,466,759.

Orders booked in the first seven months this year amounted to $6,366,674. The company received a $111,740 army order for electric generating equipment early in September.

Dividends have been paid regularly. In 1939, $1.70 in cash and a 15 per cent stock dividend were distributed. Last year, $2.40 in cash and 3½ per cent in stock were paid. Three 60 cent quarterly dividends have been paid in 1941. At the end of last June, the company reported total assets of $4,388,712.

LIQUIDATION.

Will you please explain specifically what happens when a business is liquidated? Does a company have to be insolvent to liquidate?—C. L. M.

Answer: Liquidation is the process by which all assets are converted into cash, all liabilities and other claims discharged and the remainder, if any, distributed among the stockholders in order to effect the company's final dissolution. The distribution of assets must be in accordance with the respective rights and preferences of the various classes of creditors, bondholders and stockholders. As a rule, assets are turned into cash before distribution, but a company holding securities of other corporations may divide these without conversion. A company need not be insolvent to liquidate.

U. S. Engineer Office, 816 U. S. Court & Custom House, St. Louis, Mo. BUILDING RULE IS THREAT TO 4½ MILLION JOBS

Trade Tries to Avoid Excessive Loss.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 12 [Special].—The government's new priorities ruling in the building industry, issued to save armament materials by curbing "unnecessary" construction, may throw 4,500,000 men out of work unless withdrawn, M. W. Watson, president of the Associated General Contractors of America, declared here today.

He explained that the Supply Priorities and Allocations board had estimated that nonarmament construction barred by the policy would eliminate 1,500,000 men for more than a year's employment. Studies by the bureau of labor statistics show that for every one employed at a building site, two additional men are engaged in producing, marketing, and transporting the materials. Thus, 3,000,000 men are dependent for jobs on the 1,500,000 who will be eliminated, adding up to 4,500,000 jobless.

"Builders are proud of their accomplishments for defense and thoroly understand the urgency which prompted the curtailment order, but while willing to do its full share, the industry hopes that it will not have to make more sacrifices than other industries," Watson said.

MAY ESCAPE PRIORITIES.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12 (AP).—A spokesman for the United States Housing authority said today he believed the priorities limitations on building activities would not affect construction of slum clearance, low cost housing projects, in which this country is investing almost a billion dollars. It was expected, he said, that such projects would qualify as essential to health and safety.
